PREFACE.

THE preparation of Directories, perhaps as vividly as anything else, impresses the compiler with a sense of the progress of the country in all that constitutes material prosperity. Villages bearing names yet unfamiliar are found to have taken root where, not many years ago, the stillness of the forest was only invaded by the stroke of the woodman's axe, and what were formerly thin settlements are seen to be advancing, under the impetus of an active and persevering population, to the rank of important towns.

Looking back over the comparatively brief period during which the senior member of their firm has been engaged in the publication of Directories, the Publishers find ample evidence of an expansion in which the people of this country may well take pride and satisfaction. Referring especially to Ontario, this Province which, in 1857, when LOVELL'S CANADA DIRECTORY was issued, contained 830 places, now includes 1733 places in which business occupations are carried on, besides a large number of places inhabited by farmers and others, not engaged in mercantile pursuits. And in the population and flourishing industries of the cities and towns there is like evidence of continuous and healthy progress. It was calculated that the present Directory of Ontario would extend to about one thousand pages: it has actually reached 1441 pages. The publishers hope that this considerable addition to the size of the volume will explain and justify the delay which has occurred in its publication.

Of the labor expended on the present Directory it may not be out of place to say a word or two here. In the Prospectus the Publishers promised that no effort would be spared to produce a work which would worthily reflect the greatness, the energy, and the progressive spirit of the important Province of Ontario. That promise they have kept in view throughout the long interval of preparation, and they venture to think that it is amply fulfilled by the work which they now lay before the public. After the names in the various places had been taken with all possible care, the proofs of the first returns were corrected from door to door by the Publishers' own agents, and further revision was had where circumstances appeared to call for it. The accuracy of the result, it is believed, is far in advance of what is usually attained by comprehensive works of this class.

In addition to the lists of names, the Directory comprises an extensive collection of statistics and miscellaneous information relating to the Province of Ontario and to Canada generally. Historical Sketches of the Provinces are also included. In this connection it is the pleasing duty of the Publishers to make grateful mention of the kindness which in so many instances facilitated their researches. To COL. WILLIAM WHITE, Secretary of the Post Office Department, and to the Postmasters, and other gentlemen, throughout the Province, the Publishers are under special obligations. They also beg to acknowledge the very valuable assistance rendered by Mr. P. A. CROSSBY, and Mr G. MERCER ADAM, of Toronto, who kindly undertook the examination and revision of the proof-sheets for that city. The latest official reports have been used in the preparation of the statistical information, and the Publishers have availed themselves of the pages of the CANADIAN ALMANAC, for 1882, for the lists of county officers, courts, banks, and other matters.

The Publishers cannot conclude these observations without drawing attention to the increase of the Newspaper Press of Ontario. The article prefixed to the returns of the Newspapers published in Ontario (page 252) will be found worthy of perusal, and the lists themselves are full of interest. The greatest care has been taken to make this department of the Directory as accurate as possible; and in this, if all other evidence were lacking, the reader may find a most striking illustration of the growth of the Province.

BY ROYAL LETTERS PATENT.

BARNSBY'S PATENT
STIRRUP LEATHER BAR,

To prevent the Rider being dragged in case of Accident.

The above Illustration shows the general utility of this Bar, which possesses several advantages over the ordinary Bar. Although simple in its mechanism, it is most effective in its action, and in case of accident the rider's foot is instantaneously released from the saddle, and so prevents his being dragged by the horse, as in the case of most accidents.

It will be noticed in the drawing that the groove lettered A when closed fits securely over the stay marked B which gives it additional strength, and prevents the lever from being wrenched off by a side strain

It can be made in various kinds of metal. The price is far from expensive, being but little more than the old common pattern, and not only forms a most useful but an ornamental part to the saddle.

Can be had Wholesale and Retail from the Patentee,

INTERMEDIATE 65c. ADVANCED $1.50. LOVELL'S SCHOOL GEOGRAPHIES. JOHN LOVELL & SON, MONTREAL.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES

OF THE

PROVINCES COMPRISED IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA;

ALSO, OF

THE PROVINCE OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC.

As the division of Canada into two provinces did not take place till 1791, and as the two sections were re-united in 1840, and were not disjoined until the confederation of the Provinces in 1867, much repetition will be avoided by including in one sketch the principal events in the history of the whole province as it is existed before confederation.

I. CANADA UNDER FRENCH RULE.

The history of Canada is naturally divided into two great epochs: the period of French rule and that of British rule. Of the former period, the most prominent events were the incessant wars of the colonists with the native inhabitants, and with the neighboring colonies of Britain. The second period has been remarkable as an era of wonderful expansion and prosperity, especially in Western Canada. The most prominent events are the introduction of a representative system of Government, the division of the province, the war with the United States, the political struggles arising out of hostility of race, the rebellion, followed by the reunion of the provinces, the institution of 'Responsible Government," and the concession to the Legislative Assembly of entire control over revenue and expenditure; and, lastly, confederation with the other British provinces.

EARLY VOYAGES AND DISCOVERIES.

It was on the 3rd of August, 1492, that Columbus, with his little fleet of three vessels, sailed on his memorabls voyage of discovery from Palos, a port on the coast of Spain. On the 9th of the following month he passed Ferro, the last of the Canary Isles, and launched out into unknown seas. After the lapse of another month, during which the spirit of the commander was sorely tried by the murmurs and menaces of mutinous and superstitious crews, Columbus left his ship on the 11th of October, and planted the flag of Spain on an island to which he gave the name of San Salvador. Several months were spent in exploration, and then the great explorer set sail for home on the 4th of January, 1493, and arrived safely at Palos.

The discoveries of Columbus excited a spirit of enterprise and adventure throughout Europe, and subsequent explorers had not to encounter the great difficulties which long baffled the efforts of the pioneer adventurer to procure means to prosecute his voyage. Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were discovered by the Cabots. Other discoveries followed in quick succession; but it was not till 1534 that the discovery of old Canada (Ontario and Quebec) was made by Jacques Cartier, a navigator in the service of Francis I, King of France. The kings of Spain and Portugal protested against the proposed expedition under Cartier as an encroachment on their territorial rights. "What!" Francis is reported to have exclaimed, "do they expect to share all America between them. I should like to see the clause in our father Adam's will that makes them sole heirs to so vast a heritage."

Cartier, with two small vessels, sailed from the port of St. Malo, on the coast of Brittany, on the 20th of April, 1534. Arriving off the coast of Newfoundland after a favorable voyage, he passed through the Straits of Belle Isle into the Gulf of the St. Lawrence, and sailed southward to the Baie des Chaleurs. It was early in July when he reached the Bay, and the heat of the weather caused him to give it the name it has since borne. Finally, on the 24th of July, he landed on the peninsula of Gaspé, and took possession of the country in the name of the French king. A few days later he set sail for France, taking with him two of the natives. The report of his discoveries excited so much interest at home that the following year he was sent out with three vessels, well manned and equipped. On this occasion he sailed up the gulf. Having anchored in a little bay at the mouth of the river St. John on St. Lawrence day, he named the bay after that saint, and the name was afterward extended to the gulf and river. Ascending the St. Lawrence, he arrived at the Island of Orleans, where he was received in a friendly manner by Donnacona, the Algonquin chief. He then proceeded to a native settlement, called Stadacona, near the mouth of the St. Charles. Here he moored his vessels, boldly resolving to winter in the country. Having heard accounts from the natives of a large settlement further up, he was induced, in the month of September, to ascend the St. Lawrence as far as Hochelaga (Montreal), where he was welcomed with the most friendly manifestations by the Huron Indians.* The beautiful mountain lying to the west was named by him Mount Royal. The winter was now approaching, and Cartier returned to Stadacona (close by Quebec), where he entrenched himself near his ships.

The materials for the historical sketches of the provinces have been derived from Garneau's History of Canada (Bell's translation); Hodgins' School History of Canada and the British Provinces; Cooney's History of New Brunswick; Page's History of Newfoundland; Sutherland's History of Prince Edward Island; and other sources.

The expedition suffered greatly during the long winter that ensued. The cold was intense. Most of the sailors were attacked by scurvy, and before the snow disappeared one-fourth of their number had perished by disease. In spring, Cartier made haste to return to France. On his departure he abused the confidence of the friendly natives, by seizing their chief, Donnacona, and four Indians, and carrying them off to France, where they all soon died.

The origin of the name Canada, it may be mentioned here, is somewhat obscure. Some would derive it from the Spanish or Portuguese, by putting together the words Ca, here, and nada, nothing, supposed to have been uttered by the first explorers when they found no precious metals. Others, with better reason, conjecture that Jacques Cartier, having heard the natives apply the Indian word Kannatha (or village) to their settlements, mistook it for the name of the whole country.

Harassed by wars with Spain, and distracted by religious dissensions at home, the French were unable to give as much attention to the newly discovered territories as their importance deserved. Five years elapsed after Cartier's return before another expedition was organized. This was placed under the command of a distinguished soldier, the Sieur de Roberval, who received a commission as viceroy of the colony to be founded. Cartier sailed in advance of Roberval, in command of a flotilla of five vessels. After a stormy passage he arrived in the gulf, and again ascended the St. Lawrence to Stadacona or Quebec. Here the French colonists who had been brought out, landed, and began to prepare ground for cultivation. Cartier continued his voyage to Hochelaga, and endeavored to pass the Lachine rapids, but without success. The summer passed away without any intelligence being received respecting the movements of Roberval, who was to have followed him out: so Cartier resolved to spend the winter in the country. The Indians, mindful of his former treachery, were far from friendly, and he deemed it prudent to erect two small forts at Cap Rouge for the protection of his winter quarters. In the spring, the natives showing signs of increasing hostility, Cartier sailed for France, where he died a few years later. Before his death he was ennobled by the king for his distinguished services, and his heirs received a license to trade in Canada. We read of his nephews being engaged subsequently in the peltry traffic.

Roberval, whose departure had been delayed for a year, met Cartier near Newfoundland (or, as some say, near Quebec), and vainly endeavored to prevent his return. Roberval then continued his voyage to Cap Rouge, where he remained for some time. Little is known regarding his movements during the year that he spent in Canada. He is said to have explored the river Saguenay, and other parts of the country. During the winter fifty of his colonists perished. In 1543, he returned to France at the request of the king, who required his services in the war with Spain which was about to re-commence. This was the last expedition for six years.

In 1549, Roberval, having been permitted to organize another expedition, set out for Canada, but was lost in the passage across the Atlantic, with all his followers. This disaster led to the abandonment of French settlements in Canada. For many years there was no opportunity to renew them, France being engaged in wars with Spain and Austria, and harassed by civil and religious dissensions. During this period England made no attempt to acquire territory in Canada, contenting herself with a nominal claim on Newfoundland for fishing purposes.

Passing over Ribaut's ill-fated Huguenot expedition to Florida, with which we are not concerned in the present sketch, we come to the next attempt to found a colony in Canada. In 1598, the Marquis de la Roche was appointed lieutenant general, or viceroy, of New France, with very extensive powers. De la Roche landed most of his colonists, who were chiefly convicts, on Isle de Sable. His ship being afterward driven off the coast by a storm, he was forced to return to France. There he was arrested and kept prisoner in Britanny by an enemy of the king, and no aid was sent to the unhappy convicts on Sable Island till five years had elapsed, when only twelve were found living.

PERMANENT SETTLEMENTS IN NEW FRANCE.

We come now to the voyages of Champlain, a distinguished naval officer, whose name is honorably connected with Canadian exploration and settlement. His first voyage was made in 1603, under the auspices of a company of French merchants trading in furs. The little fleet consisted of three small vessels of 12 to 15 tons each. Champlain ascended the St. Lawrence to Hochelaga, but was prevented by the Lachine rapids from passing upward. He, however, diligently collected all the information that could be obtained from the natives respecting the country above the rapids, and sketched a map for the king. Henry IV. was well pleased with the account of the expedition, and appointed de Monts, a Huguenot, lieutenant general of Acadie, with extensive trading privileges. In the ensuing years, settlements were formed at Port Royal (Annapolis) and other places in Acadie.

In 1608, Champlain sailed a third time from France on a voyage to the St. Lawrence. On the 3rd of July he reached the point of land, now the Lower Town of Quebec, where he erected a fort, and cabins for the accommodation of his men.

Thus were laid the foundations of the famous city of Quebec. The name is Indian, Kebec, a strait. This was the first permanent settlement in Canada.

For some years Champlain pursued the congenial work of exploration. His enemies, indeed, made it a matter of reproach that he was more fond of exploring the country than of improving the facilities for trade and thus increasing the profits of the fur company. About this time wars between the Iroquois and other Indian tribes appear to have been waged with great ferocity. The weaker tribes, the Hurons and Algonquins, sought the aid of their powerful neighbors, the French, and Champlain unfortunately granted the request. Thus commenced the terrible wars with Indians which fill so dark a page in the early annals of the colony. The first blood was shed in 1609, when Champlain took part with the Hurons in an attack on some Iroquois cantons. The terror inspired by the loud report of European fire arms, and the havoc caused by each discharge, caused the Iroquois to fly on this and other occasions. Few years elapsed, however, before they fought on more equal terms, and manifested a courage unsurpassed by any other race.

In 1611, Champlain established a trading post at Montreal, and named the adjacent island Ste. Hélène, after his wife. The death of Henry IV. deprived de Monts of his influence at court, and great rivalry in the fur trade ensued. In 1613, Champlain who had endeavored to reconcile the conflicting pretensions of the trading companies, having at length secured the patronage of the Prince de Condé, as successor to the privileges enjoyed by de Monts, again sailed for Canada. He spent some time this year in exploring the Ottawa. Two years later he took out four Recollet fathers (a branch of the Franciscans) and a first effort was made to introduce Christianity among the Indians. Monastic establishments began to appear in the land. They were the most prominent buildings at the various settlements. At this time (1615), Champlain renewed his explorations of the upper Ottawa. Passing up the Mattawin river to Lake Nipissing, thence down the French river, he came to the Georgian Bay and Lake Huron. He spent some time in exploring those western parts, and visited several of the lodges of the Hurons. At length he reached Cahiague (now Orillia), one of the chief lodges of the Hurons, near Lake Simcoe. Champlain's relations with this tribe were very friendly, and he was induced to join them in a great expedition against their bitter enemies, the warlike Iroquois. The assault on the enemy was made suddenly and unexpectedly, but the Iroquois speedily rallied, and repulsed their assailants with great courage and determination. Champlain himself was wounded, and with his Indian allies was forced to retreat. Thus Champlain, who was the first, or among the first, to assist Indian against Indian, began to experience the disastrous consequences of his policy. The thirty years during which he was engaged in exploration were marked by incessant Indian conflicts. Treaties of peace were not long regarded. In 1622, for instance, a solemn treaty of peace was entered into between the Hurons and the Iroquois, but a few years later we read of fresh hostilities between these tribes.

About 1620, the Prince de Condé ceded the vice-royalty of Canada to Admiral Montmorency, who confirmed the appointment and powers of Champlain as deputy head and resident governor of the colony. About this time Champlain laid the foundations of a government house, known as the castle of St. Lewis, at Quebec. He also promulgated several ordinances for the maintenance of order in the colony. Very little was done in the way of tilling the soil, the attention of the colonists being engrossed by the more lucrative occupation of trading in furs. The number of permanent residents at Quebec, including the monks, did not exceed fifty. However, the colony was re-inforced in 1625 by a band of Jesuit missionaries, who labored with the Recollet fathers for the conversion of the Indians.

THE HUNDRED PARTNERS.

Disputes concerning trading privileges were constantly occurring. The trading associations were bitter rivals. At length, in 1627, a new company, called the Company of One Hundred Partners, or Associates, with extensive trading privileges, was organized under the patronage of Cardinal Richelieu. The powers of this new association were very extensive. The Hundred Partners were in fact rulers of the colony, with power to make laws within their limits, with attributes of seigniory and justiceship, &c. In return for their privileges the Company undertook to send 4,000 persons to Canada during the fifteen years their charter was to be in force, and to aid these colonists in settling on lands to be appropriated to their use.

Shortly after this, war was declared between France and England. Tadousac, a trading station, was captured (1628) by Sir David Kertk, a French Huguenot refugee, who had entered the English service, and messengers were sent to Champlain to demand the surrender of Quebec. The request was peremptorily refused. To disguise the starving condition of the colonists, Champlain is said to have sumptuously entertained the messengers of Kertk. The English commander withdrew without making any attack on the place, but while cruising with his fleet in the gulf, the ships and stores sent out from France by the new company fell into his hands. The following year (1629) he resumed hostilities. The inhabitants of Quebec had been half starved during the winter from lack of the supplies which had been intercepted ; no help came from France, and when in July, 1629, Kertk appeared in sight, the garrison capitulated. This was the first capture of Quebec. At the date of its surrender peace had been concluded between England and France at home. Champlain was carried to England, where he was set at liberty and permitted to return to France.

Three years afterward (1632), Canada, together with Nova Scotia and Cape Breton, was ceded to France by the Treaty of St. Germain en Laye. The following year Champlain was re-appointed governor, and carried out with him abundance of stores. He sought to strengthen and build up the shattered colony, but his labors were soon interrupted by death. He expired on Christmas day, 1635, after thirty years' service in connection with Canadian exploration and settlement. The new governor sent out from France was Montmagny, who pursued the policy initiated by Champlain. Some consternation was caused (1638) by shocks of earthquake which were felt throughout the country. Similar shocks were experienced in 1663, and have frequently occurred in our own time.

In 1640, the island of Montreal was ceded by M. de Lauzon (who had acquired it from the Hundred Partners) to an association of 35 persons, by whom de Maisonneuve was instructed to found a settlement. The new town or colony was established near the Indian village of Hochelaga, and named Ville Marie, on the 18th of May, 1642. The few buildings erected were surrounded by wooden palisades for the protection of the place against Indian incursions. Such was the small beginning of Montreal city.

INDIAN WARS.

The war betwen the French and Hurons on one side and the Iroquois on the other, was at this time waged with great ferocity. The Iroquois formed a design to wipe their enemies from the face of the land. The French posts were to be simultaneously attacked. The plot failed, but for some years the Indian braves carried on a war of extermination. The French were able to afford very slight assistance to their Huron allies. Their own existence was, in fact, almost daily in peril, for it must be remembered that the whole European population of Canada at this time did not exceed three hundred souls. Soldiers had to be sent from France to protect the enfeebled settlement. Ville Marie was put in a condition for defence by d'Aillebout ; Fort Richelieu was erected at the mouth of the Richelieu,and other measures were adopted to check the incursions of the enemy.

In 1645, a truce was entered into with some of the Iroquois bands. The Company of the Hundred Partners had suffered enormous losses during these Indian wars, and were glad to renounce their rights for an annual rent payable in beaver skins. The inhabitants of Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers, accordingly obtained from the company, on the above condition, the privilege of trading on their own account. The sanguinary conflict with the Indians soon broke out afresh. The unhappy Hurons were hunted to death without mercy throughout the length and breadth of the land. The French were wholly unable to afford their allies any protection. Several of the Jesuit missionaries, who were laboring amongst the Indians, died under cruel tortures inflicted by the Iroquois. The Huron tribes were almost annihilated. A few survivors sought refuge within the palisades of Quebec and other French forts, and were finally transferred to Lorette, where some of their descendants may still be found.

So great was the terror inspired by the bitter hostility of the Iroquois, that when the New England colonies (1618-1651) put forward a project of colonial union with Canada, the French governor refused to negotiate, unless the New Englanders consented to aid the French in humbling the power of their Indian foes. Now the Iroquois, while harassing the French to death, had been fast friends of the English, and such a stipulation would have been extremely ungrateful on the part of the latter. So the negotiations were broken off. The incident only served to increase the fury of the Iroquois. For some years trade was paralyzed, and the French were in serious danger of being driven from the country. "The war with the Iroquois," says a chronicle of 1653, "has dried up all sources of prosperity. The beavers are allowed to build their dams in peace, none being able or willing to molest them." It must be borne in mind that at this time the Iroquois were in possession of fire-arms, and had learned to use them with fatal effect. At length, in 1653, reinforcements being received from France, the Governor was enabled to act vigorously on the offensive. European discipline prevailed. The Iroquois lost heart when they saw the number of their foes suddenly doubled by arrivals from the unknown land beyond the seas. They were induced to sue for peace, and a treaty was concluded the following year (1654).

During this time several changes had taken place in the government. It had been decided to change the governors of French dependencies every three years. Montmagny was succeeded in 1647 by d'Aillebout, and he, in turn, was superseded by de Lauzon in 1651.

In 1656, another alarm was caused by incursions of the Iroquois, and war again prevailed, with brief intervals of respite, for several years. D'Argenson came out (1658) as governor in the place of de Lauzon, and in 1661, d'Avaugour, a very able governor, succeeded.

Up to this period, progress had been very slow, especially when contrasted with the rapid strides of modern times. The inhabitants of the settlement at Quebec did not number a thousand, and the whole population of Canada of European origin fell short of 2,500. The mode of colonization had been semi-religious. Jesuit and Recollet missionaries penetrated the country in all directions, and endeavored to win the natives to the Christian faith. There was not a printing press in the colony till long afterward. A very small portion of the soil was brought under cultivation. The residents, occupied for the most part in trade, did not raise sufficient produce for their subsistence, and depended largely on supplies from the mother country. The principal buildings seem to have been the monastic establishments. Ecclesiastics exercised magisterial authority in the parishes. An incident related by Garneau, which led to dissension between the governor and ecclesiastical authorities, throws some light upon the state of affairs at this time. Selling liquor to Indians was prohibited under the severest penalties. The governor, d'Avaugour, had caused three men to be shot at one time for this crime. A widow being subsequently taken to prison for the same offence, one Père Lallemant not only interceded for her but justified her act. The governor angrily exclaimed that if the law was to be enforced in this irregular and partial manner, he would cease to enforce it at all. On their side, the priests refused absolution to those who engaged in the liquor traffic with Indians, and the bishop publicly excommunicated the offenders. Dissensions arising from conflict of jurisdiction continued till, unfortunately for the colony, the governor was recalled. On resigning the reins of government, d'Avaugour drew up a document strongly recommending that France should, without loss of time, strengthen her footing in Canada. He advised that three thousand picked soldiers, accustomed to agricultural pursuits, should be located in the country, and assisted from Imperial sources till they had firmly established themselves.

SOVEREIGN AUTHORITY RESUMED.

In 1663, the Company of One Hundred Partners, which had not fulfilled the obligations imposed on it, was formally dissolved by Louis XIV., and a sovereign council, composed of the principal officers of civil government residing in the colony, M. Laval, the first bishop, who had come out in 1659, and other distinguished persons, was established at Quebec. This council acted also as a court of appeal from the district courts. In each of the three districts, Quebec, Three Rivers and Montreal, there was a judge appointed by the king, who had full power to decide all matters, both civil and criminal, that arose within the district. Besides the regular courts, judicial authority was vested in the intendant. This power was exercised generally in matters of small amount. The owners of seigniories were also authorized under certain restrictions to administer justice within their seigniories.

The new governor, appointed by the influence of Bishop Laval and the Jesuits, after d'Avaugour's recall, was de Mésy. He was the first royal governor under the new constitution. He landed at Quebec in the summer of 1663, but a year had hardly elapsed before fresh disputes arose between him and Bishop Laval, in consequence of the interference of the latter in temporal affairs. The recall of the governor was therefore at once resolved on by his adversaries, and it was not long before they brought it about. The governor died before the command to return reached him, but he declared with his latest breath that in all his acts he had ever had in view the prosperity of the colony. Whilst these events were taking place in the colony, the trading interests of Canada were conceded to the West India Company by a royal edict in May, 1664. As to the law of the country, the "Custom of Paris" was at this time introduced to the exclusion of all other French coutumes. The Marquis de Tracy was chosen to fill the office of lieutenant general. Talon, another officer of ability, was sent out as intendant, and de Courcelles, an administrator of great tact and prudence, was appointed to succeed de Mésy as governor. The new rulers were cautioned by Colbert, the French minister, to avoid disputes with the Jesuits, and recommended to devote themselves to strengthening and building up the colony.

These were days of sunshine to the struggling inhabitants. For a space only too brief, things assumed an air of prosperity. The men in authority displayed great zeal and energy in advancing the interests of the colonists. Settlers were brought out from France; cattle and agricultural implements were imported. The audacity of the Indians was checked by a decisive expedition commanded by de Tracy. The Iroquois sued for peace, and in 1667 a treaty was concluded with them which lasted eighteen years.

The reports sent home by Talon advised that the colony should be taken out of the hands of the West India Company. This recommendation was acted upon, and freedom of trade with the natives and the mother country was conceded to the inhabitants. Talon strove to encourage agriculture. Horses were first introduced into the colony in 1665. The Carignan regiment, which had come out with Tracy, was permitted to remain, and the soldiers were encouraged to settle in the country. Talon, being in ill health, was forced to solicit his recall in 1668, but the following year he was persuaded to resume office, and sailed from France with 700 emigrants.

In 1672, Count de Frontenac who was destined to occupy a distinguished place in the history of Canada, came out as governor in the place of de Courcelles. Talon now retired from his office of intendant. At this date the population had increased to nearly six thousand souls.

Frontenac was a high spirited soldier of very fair abilities. Shrewd and discerning in his views, he was also quick and impetuous in action. The position of Quebec excited his admiration on landing. "It could not have been better placed," he said, "if it had been expressly selected as the capital of a great empire." The new governor was also favorably impressed by the dignity and eloquence of the Indian chiefs In 1673, having been present at a conference with Iroquois chiefs at Cataraqui, he remarked, in a letter to the Minister of State: "You would assuredly have been surprised, my lord, had you listened to the eloquent oratory, and remarked the subtle spirit with which all the deputies harangued and reasoned. Did I not fear to incur your ridicule, I would venture to intimate that the noble presence of these deputies, in conference with me, recalled to my mind somewhat a meeting of the senate of Venice."

In his efforts to improve the condition of the colony, Frontenac was unfortunate enough to excite the opposition and enmity of the Jesuits. Grave dissensions soon commenced between the governor and other dignitaries. Frontenac having imprisoned Perrot, the governor of Montreal, for treasonable conduct, the side of the accused was openly espoused by Fenelon, the parish priest of Montreal. The ecclesiastics denied that jurisdiction could be exercised over them by the sovereign council, and contended that they could be summoned to appear only before their bishop. The intendant, Duchesneau, sided with the ecclesiastics. Fresh trouble was created by the liquor traffic. We cannot follow here the course of these unfortunate disputes. The king censured his servants, but attempted in vain to check their quarrels, which proceeded to such a height that both Frontenac and Duchesneau were recalled in 1682.

INDIAN WARS RENEWED.

The new governor, de la Barre, came out at a critical time. Another Indian war was imminent. The New England colonists offered the Indians better prices for their skins, and exchanged goods on far easier terms than the French traders, fettered by trade restrictions, could afford to offer. Much ill feeling prevailed on this account among the natives. The conjuncture required a prudent and conciliatory course. De la Barre, who lacked ability and experience, proved unequal to the occasion. After some months of indecision, an expedition set out and advanced as far as Lake Ontario. Here envoys from the Iroquois met the governor, and de la Barre concluded a disgraceful treaty, by which he abandoned some of his Indian allies to the mercy of the Iroquois. The treaty was disallowed by the king, who immediately recalled the governor, and sent out the Marquis de Denonville to replace him. The new governor was brave and determined, but entered with slight experience on duties of great difficulty. His instructions were to repel the encroachments of the Iroquois, and compel them to keep the peace with their neighbors. The hatred of these powerful tribes to the French had grown with the lapse of years, and was embittered by a long course of hostility. At this time, moreover, the Iroquois were incensed by a discreditable act of treachery on the part of the governor Having decoyed some Indian braves to Cataraqui, under pretence of a conference, he caused them to be seized, and sent to France to work in the galleys.

Having obtained reinforcements from France, the governor led an expedition against the Iroquois, which was successful in the field; but as soon as the steps of the marquis were turned homeward, the foe re-appeared with unabated spirit. The fort at Niagara was suddenly attacked by them and completely destroyed. An ineffectual attempt was made to negotiate a treaty through the intervention of Col. Dongan, the governor of New York. The critical state of affairs was vividly depicted as follows by the governor in a despatch to Paris, Aug. 10th, 1688: "The savages are just so many animals of prey, scattered through a vast forest, whence they are ever ready to issue, to plunder and kill in the adjoining country. To go in pursuit of them after their ravages is a constant but almost bootless task. They have no settled habitation to which they can be traced with any certainty. They must be watched for everywhere and long waited for, with fire-arms ready primed; many of their lurking places could be reached only by blood-hounds, or by other savages as trackers. But those in our service are few, and the native allies we have are seldom trustworthy. They fear the enemy more than they love us; and they dread, on their own account, to drive the Iroquois to extremity. It has been resolved, in the present strait, to erect a fortress in every seigniory, as a place of shelter for helpless people and live stock, at times when the open country is overrun with savages. As matters now stand, the arable grounds lie far apart, and are so surrounded by bush, that every thicket serves as a covert for the foe; so that an army would be needed to protect the tillers of our cleared lands."

The following year (1689) war was declared by France against England for the purpose of aiding James II. A bold project, suggested by Chevalier de Callières, of attacking the English posts at New York and Albany, was under consideration by the French authorities, when a terrible disaster fell upon the colony. The Iroquois, who for some months had been unusually tranquil, without the slightest warning, in the month of August, appeared in force near Montreal, and in one night massacred the entire population of Lachine. Two hundred persons were slaughtered or burned alive on the spot, and others, less fortunate, were carried away to die by torture. The invaders also assailed and captured the fort at Montreal, and kept possession of the island till the month of October. The colonists, stupefied by terror, made no effort to drive off their enemies, and everywhere throughout the land the Indians held the upper hand till the approach of winter, when they retired suddenly to their settlements.

In the meantime, Frontenac, who had been re-appointed governor, was on his way out to assume the direction of affairs. His coming was hailed with joy by the terrified inhabitants, who had endured much misery through the incapacity of the last two governors. Fresh spirit was infused into the colonists. The incursions of the Iroquois were everywhere repelled with energy. The Canadian villages were enclosed by palisades, and protected by cannon. The project of attacking the New England settlements, which had received the sanction of Louis, was now prosecuted with some success. Unhappily these successes were sullied by terrible atrocities.

Helpless inhabitants of the places that fell into the hands of the invaders were slaughtered without mercy.

The New Englanders, who seem to have been taken by surprise by the sudden attack of Frontenac, speedily concerted measures of defence and reprisal. In 1690, a squadron of 35 sail, with 2,000 militia men on board, left Boston under command of Sir William Phipps, afterward governor of Massachusetts. The fleet captured Port Royal (Annapolis), and other places in Nova Scotia, and on the morning of the 16th October, Quebec was summoned to surrender at discretion. Frontenac returned a haughty refusal, and the batteries opened fire upon the English ships. The strength of the defences baffled all the efforts of the besieging force, and the fleet was compelled to retire. A land expedition under Winthrop, which was to have co-operated with Phipps in the attack on Canada, returned without accomplishing anything.

During the succeeding years hostilities were continued between the French and English colonists. Each side sought to enlist as many of the savage tribes as it could, and to render the aid of these allies more effective, the Indians were instructed in the use of fire-arms. The Iroquois who fell into the hands of their enemies were often cruelly burned or tortured to death, in revenge for similar atrocities practised by their own tribes. Under Frontenac's energetic direction, the Canadians were enabled to get possession of the English posts in the Hudson Bay territory.

At length, in 1697, the treaty of Ryswick put an end for a time to the exhausting conflict between the colonies. By this treaty France agreed to restore all places in America that had been taken during the war. The restoration of peace was welcome intelligence at Quebec. The colonists, who had ceased to till their lands and had taken refuge within the palisades of the towns from the ferocity of the savages, now ventured back to their farms.

The following year (1698) Count de Frontenac died, at the age of 77, deeply regretted by his countrymen in New France, whom he had rescued from almost total extermination. De Callières, who had long been governor of Montreal, succeeded him.

In 1700, the French concluded a long hoped for treaty of peace with the Iroquois confederation. The treaty was solemnly confirmed at Montreal on the 4th of August, 1701. Thirteen hundred natives, the representatives of many tribes, took part in the ceremonies.

In 1703, France and England being again at war, there was as usual a renewal of hostilities between their colonies. On this occasion the French were fortunate in having the formidable Iroquois neutral by virtue of the solemn treaty of 1701. In the spring of 1711, another expedition against Canada was organized by the New England colonies, aided by British troops. The object was to capture Quebec. But the fleet was dispersed in the gulf by a storm, and many of the vessels were lost. Peace was restored by the treaty of Utrecht in 1713.

FROM THE TREATY OF UTRECHT TO THE CONQUEST—1713-1760.

Vaudreuil, who had succeeded de Callières as governor in 1703, introduced some improvements in the municipal system, and caused a census to be taken. Montreal was walled in, and the fortifications of Quebec were enlarged and strengthened. The governor earnestly called the attention of the home authorities to the weak state of the colony as contrasted with the flourishing condition of the New England provinces. In 1714, he wrote home that Canada contained but 4,484 inhabitants capable of bearing arms for its defence, in addition to 620 colonial troops. The British colonies were represented as having 60,000 males fit for war; and it was not doubted that as soon as war commenced an attempt would be made by them to achieve the conquest of Canada. Vaudreuil was succeeded in 1726 by the Marquis de Beauharnois, whose long administration of twenty-one years was for the most part peaceful. The population increased from 22,000 in 1719 to nearly 50,000 in 1744. The value of the exports in 1749 exceeded £100,000 stg. There were some petty conflicts with Indians, and there were some disputes between the governor and the intendant, Dupuis; but up to 1745 the colony enjoyed immunity from external assaults. In 1745 peace was again disturbed. The contest, however, was not so much on Canadian soil as in the maritime parts. The strong fortress of Louisbourg was taken by the New Englanders, and an expedition projected against Canada. A French fleet, under the Duke d' Anville, sent to retake Louisbourg, was dispersed by terrible storms. The peace of Aix-la-Chapelle, in 1748, put an end to the conflict, and France and England mutually restored the territory acquired by either during the war.

But a warm debate immediately commenced as to the boundaries of their respective possessions in the New World. The territory in dispute was very extensive, comprising the whole of the seaboard on the north side of the Bay of Fundy, and also the Valley of the Ohio, connecting the French possessions in Louisiana with Canada. A joint commission, French and British, was appointed to settle the question. A conference took place at Paris, but the commission extended over five years without any definite result. Meanwhile the quarrel in America was daily growing in violence. Each party sought to make good its pretensions by encroachments on the debatable territory. In 1750, three English traders were arrested under the authority of the French governor in the disputed territory of the Ohio valley. Redress being withheld, reprisals were made. After some years consumed in futile negotiation, the war, generally known as the Seven Years' War, commenced. The colonial forces on both sides were reinforced from Europe. Gen. Braddock came out from England to command the militia and regulars. A strong British force, under his command, marched against Fort Duquesne, at the junction of the Ohio and Monongahela rivers; but pressing on too eagerly, in July, 1755, the men fell into an ambuscade near the fort and were cut to pieces. Gen. Braddock and most of the mounted officers were killed. The celebrated Gen. Washington, who was serving under Braddock at this time, wrote as follows of the disaster: "We have been beaten, shamefully beaten by a handful of French, who only expected to obstruct our advance. Shortly before the action we thought our forces were equal to all the enemy in Canada; we have been most unexpectedly defeated, and now all is lost." On the other hand, it was not long before the French met with reverses. Baron Dieskau brought from France a large force in 1755. After some slight successes his army was defeated, and he himself wounded and taken prisoner in an attack on Col. Johnson's camp near Fort William, at the head of Lake George.

The struggle for supremacy in the New World now assumed serious proportions. War was formally declared by England and France (1756). At the urgent representation of the Canadian authorities large reinforcements were sent out. Gen. Montcalm and Gen. de Lévis came out to Canada early in the year of 1856, with a considerable force, together with supplies of provisions and munitions of war. Sixteen hundred men had been sent out the previous year, and the colony furnished a thousand more. Nor was the British Government lacking in energy. Money was freely voted to arm and equip the provincial militia. Gen. Abercrombie came out from England with large reinforcements ; and Lord Loudon was appointed commander-in-chief. After some minor incidents the campaign terminated unfavorably for the English. The important place called Fort Oswego, erected by them on the south-eastern shore of Lake Ontario, surrendered to Montcalm, and fourteen hundred prisoners and a large quantity of stores fell into the hands of the French. This expedition had been planned by the Governor, Vaudreuil Cavagnal, Gen. Montcalm undertaking it apparently against his own judgment in obedience to the governor's orders.

The following summer passed without any important engagement. The inhabitants of Canada suffered during this period great privation from the scarcity of food. In France dissatisfaction began to be expressed at the great cost of maintaining and defending the colony. In 1758 Lord Loudon, the English commander-in-chief, who had failed to evince any military capacity, was superseded by General Abercrombie. A great effort was made, and successfully, to enable the English colonies to send into the field a large force of militia. The strong post of Louisbourg, in Cape Breton, fell into the hands of the British forces. In other quarters the campaign was ineffective. Gen. Abercrombie led an expedition against Fort Ticonderoga (Carillon) where Montcalm was strongly intrenched. The attack on the fort, persisted in during several hours with great gallantry, was repulsed with heavy loss to the English. This misfortune was in some measure retrieved by a successful expedition against Fort Frontenac under Colonel Bradstreet. The fort was taken, together with a great quantity of stores, shipping, and several pieces of cannon. This achievement destroyed the power of the French on the great lakes.

The English were also successful in their operations in the Ohio valley. A force of regulars and militia marched against Fort Duquesne, and the commandant, despairing of being able to make a successful defence, destroyed the fort and retreated.

The following summer (1759) decided the contest. Gen. Amherst came out to replace Gen. Abercrombie. The French being now compelled to act on the defensive, endeavored to strengthen their fortified posts. The number of males able to bear arms was estimated at 15,200, and of regular soldiers there were 5,300. Provisions were at famine prices. The farmers, having for the most part been engaged in campaigning, had been unable to cultivate their fields, whilst the scarcity of food was increased by the fraud and cupidity of certain officials intrusted with the purchase of stores, who enriched themselves at the public expense. Montcalm, who was at variance with the governor, earnestly solicited his own recall as the only reward he desired for his services. The king, reluctant to comply with this request in the critical position of Canadian affairs, recommended the general and governor to reconcile their differences, and accorded them promotion and honors.

The campaign of 1759 did not open till June, when the British forces took the field in three divisions. One, under Gen. Prideaux, was to attack Fort Niagara ; the second, under Gen. Amherst, was to make another attempt to take Fort Ticonderoga, at the outlet of Lake George ; the third, under the celebrated General Wolfe, was to assail Quebec, where the other divisions of the army were to assemble after carrying out their parts of the general plan. The expedition against Fort Niagara was successful, but General Prideaux fell during the siege. The French retreated from Fort Ticonderoga and entrenched themselves at Isle aux Noix, where the British allowed them to remain unmolested during the winter.

The expedition against Quebec is that which is most memorable in the annals of Canada. The French had made every preparation in their power for the defence of the city. The buoys had been removed from the channel of the river. Fire ships were in readiness to be launched into the midst of the enemy's fleet, and booms were constructed across the river St. Charles. All the difficulties of the navigation having been overcome, the English fleet, carrying generals Wolfe, Monckton, Townshend and Murray, and a considerable army, arrived at the Island of Orleans on the 25th of June. The fireships sent against the fleet proved ineffectual. Gen. Monckton took up his position at Point Lévis, and commenced to bombard the city. Wolfe's encampment was on the left bank of the Montmorenci river. The French were intrenched in rear of Beauport. The month of July was spent by the besiegers in preparations. They carefully examined the defences, and endeavored to find some vulnerable point. On the last day of the month Wolfe attacked Montcalm's camp, but was repulsed. It was now resolved to make the assault from above the city. Montcalm seems to have looked upon his position on this side as perfectly secure. "We need not suppose," he wrote to the governor, "that our enemies have wings to enable them in one night to cross the river, disembark, and ascend steep and rugged paths." Wolfe, however, quietly prepared for the desperate undertaking, disguising his intention from the enemy as far as possible. The landing was successfully effected during the night of the 12th of September, at the point now called Wolfe's cove. The sentinels were overpowered, and before daybreak six thousand men had silently scaled the steep bank, and were drawn up on the Plains of Abraham. Montcalm hastily gathered his forces and advanced to give battle. The English awaited the onset, and when the advancing line was close at hand, fired a deadly volley which threw the French ranks into confusion. Wolfe followed up the temporary success by a charge, himself leading on the grenadiers. At this moment, however, he received a mortal wound, and was carried to the rear. The French were giving way in confusion. Montcalm, while endeavoring to rally his flying troops, also fell mortally wounded. As Wolfe's last moment was fast approaching, the cry "They run ! they run !" fell upon his ear. "Who run?" eagerly inquired the dying hero. "The French," was the reply. "Then I die in peace," he murmured, and immediately expired. The gallant Montcalm also died the following day.

The Citadel held out a few days, but on the 18th of September, the garrison surrendered to Gen. Townshend. The loss of the English is stated at 700, and of the French at 1500.

The announcement that Quebec had fallen was received with great joy in England and in her American colonies. Both sides prepared earnestly for the approaching campaign, the result of which was hardly doubtful. The French concentrated their diminished forces with the design of retaking Quebec, which had been garrisoned for the winter with an army numbering seven or eight thousand. Gen. de Levis, who had taken command on the death of Montcalm, pitched his camp, in April, 1760, in the rear of the city, with an army of eight or nine thousand men. Gen. Murray marched out to meet him, but after a sharp encounter was forced to retire within the fortifications. A few days later, having received the reinforcements which he had been anxiously expecting from England, he resumed the offensive, and compelled de Levis to raise the siege and retreat.

The French cause in Canada was now in a desperate extremity, and the mother country was unable to send adequate assistance. The Canadian militia commenced to give in their submission to General Murray, and the regulars deserted in great numbers. Isle aux Noix, where the French had entrenched themselves the previous summer, and Forts Oswegatchie and Levis, were the next points of attack. These forts successively passed into the hands of the English, and then the victorious armies, from Quebec, Lake Champlain and Oswego, converged on Montreal. The united strength of the beleaguering forces under Gen. Amherst was 17,000 men. Resistance was hopeless, and Vaudreuil proposed a capitulation, which was agreed to and signed on the 8th of September, 1760. Thus was brought to a close the era of French dominion in Canada.

FROM THE CONQUEST TO THE QUEBEC ACT, 1760–1774.

The Canadian people were secured by the terms of the capitulation in the free exercise of their religion. Vaudreuil and De Levis, with the troops and the principal civil and military officers, as well as many of the colonists, embarked for France, where some of the officials who had been guilty of peculation and abuse of trust, were brought to trial, condemned and punished.

Peace was concluded by the Treaty of Paris signed 10th February, 1763. By this Treaty, France ceded to England the whole of her possessions in North America with a few insignificant exceptions.

The Indian allies of the French did not acquiesce without a struggle in the new order of things. A vast conspiracy was hatched in 1763 by Pontiac, a noted chief of the Ottawa tribe, who was not friendly to British power. The object of the plot was nothing less than the simultaneous capture of the chain of forts extending from Lake Michigan to the Niagara. The conspiracy failed of entire success, but nine British posts were assailed, and the garrisons massacred. The Indians sustained a defeat at Bushy Run near Fort Pitt, and the garrison was relieved. Pontiac was soon forced to abandon the siege of Detroit ; the Indian forces began to melt away, and the hostile tribes were glad to obtain terms, and accept the proffered friendship and protection of the new lords of the soil.

At the time of the Conquest the population numbered only 75,000 souls, including 8,000 Indians. The pages of this Directory disclose how great has been the advance during the period which has since elapsed. It is worthy of note that not until after the Cession was a printing press used for the first time in Canada. The first number of the first newspaper—the Quebec Gazette—appeared June 21st, 1764.

The country, which now received the name of the Province of Quebec, remained for some years under military rule. Gen. Murray, after the peace, was appointed the first Governor General ; Gen. Gage was in command of the Montreal District, and Col. Burton of the Three Rivers District. The Executive Council was composed of the lieutenant governors of Montreal and Three Rivers, the chief justice, the inspector-general of customs, and eight of the leading inhabitants of the colony.

In 1766, Gen. Carleton, afterwards Lord Dorchester, was appointed Governor General. Gen. Carleton, who had taken a prominent part in the capture of Quebec, continued to be connected with Canada for six and thirty years.

The French Canadians, who constituted the immense majority of the inhabitants, were not slow to express dissatisfaction at the continuance of military rule. The administration of the civil law was defective. The barristers and judges not understanding French, the people were under the necessity of carrying on their lawsuits in the English language. Memorials were addressed to the Crown by the discontented majority. In 1770, the Governor went to England to give testimony respecting the affairs of the province. The result of the inquiry was the passing of the "Quebec Act" by the English Parliament in 1774, for reconstructing the government of the Province of Quebec. This measure provided for the free exercise of the Roman Catholic religion by the French Canadians, subject to the king's supremacy, and that the clergy of the church of Rome might "hold, receive and enjoy their accustomed dues and rights, with respect to such persons only as shall profess the said religion." It further provided that "in all matters of controversy relative to property and civil rights, resort shall be had to the laws of Canada, as the rule for the decision of the same." The Act confirmed the criminal law of England as the law to be administered in the province. It further provided for the establishment of a Legislative Council, to consist of residents appointed by the king, not exceeding 23, nor less than 17, in number. Thus, by express provisions of the Legislature of the mother country, the inhabitants of the conquered territory were secured in the enjoyment of their civil rights, the free exercise of their religion, and the protection of their own civil laws and customs. This liberality to the French Canadians was displeasing to some of the British residents, and was denounced by the Congress of the other American colonies which met in Philadelphia in September ; but was highly acceptable to the French Canadian clergy, as well as to the principal French-speaking inhabitants of the colony.

FROM THE QUEBEC ACT TO THE DIVISION OF THE PROVINCE. 1774 – 1791.

The colonies which had so recently exerted themselves for the extension of British rule in North America were now on the point of offering armed resistance to the mother country. The same year in which the Quebec Act became law, Canada received an invitation to send representatives to Philadelphia to concert measures of union and defence. But if the French Canadians disliked the British, who had recently come amongst them, they felt a still greater hatred and distrust of their fellow colonists in New England ; and the Congress had increased this feeling by its denunciation of the Quebec Act. "Nor can we suppress our astonishment," it had been declared in a document addressed to the people of Great Britain, "that a British Parliament should ever consent to establish in that colony (Canada) a religion that often drenched your island in blood, and has disseminated impiety, bigotry, persecution, murder and rebellion, through every part of the world." Canada, with this document before it, shewed no disposition to take part in the Congress.

The following year coercive measures were resorted to by the revolutionists. Gen. Arnold led an army against Quebec, and Generals Montgomery and Schuyler against Montreal. There were few British troops in the province, and the invaders advanced without much difficulty over large tracts of the country. The forts of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, on Lake Champlain; and Isle aux Noix, St. Johns, Chambly and Sorel, fell into the hands of Montgomery. The Americans still hoped that the Canadians would make common cause with them. A conciliatory address to the people was issued and widely circulated. The sympathizers with the revolutionary cause were, in truth, not few, and the ranks of the invading army were daily swelled by deserters. The French Canadians refused to make common cause with the revolutionists, but they likewise refused, for the most part, to bear arms against them. The British population was a mere handful. Montreal could make no effectual resistance, and presently Quebec was the only place that held the enemy in check. The strength of its defences saved the city, and probably the colony. Carleton, with only sixteen hundred men, of whom six hundred were militia, was able to repel all attacks. General Montgomery fell in an unsuccessful assault upon Quebec made on the 31st of December.

In the spring of 1776, the English received reinforcements. The American army, weakened by disease, fell back to Three Rivers. Governor Carleton pursued, and captured the enemy's stores and artillery. The retreat was continued to Sorel, which was also retaken by the English troops; and the expulsion of the invading forces was speedily completed. The colonies in revolt now made fresh efforts to detach the Canadians from their allegiance. Franklin and others were sent as special commissioners. The offers were now more liberal: the Roman Catholic religion was to be respected, and the people allowed to govern themselves. But, on the other hand, the French Canadians already enjoyed entire freedom of worship, and the protection of their ancient laws. They had obtained almost all they desired, and refused to put in jeopardy the privileges already secured to them. The American colonies, though successful in severing their connection with the mother country, were unable to bring Canada into the Union, and on the recognition of American Independence on the 3rd of September, 1783, Canada remained a colony of Great Britain.

A large number of persons throughout the colonies embraced in the new confederation had remained faithful to the royal cause. These were now treated with great severity by the American government, and preferring to live under the British flag, the greater part of them emigrated, and settled in Canada and the other British colonies, but chiefly in the western parts of Canada, now the Province of Ontario. The number of the United Empire Loyalists, as they were termed, that settled in Canada, is estimated at ten thousand. Their property had been confiscated, but by the liberality of the British government large sums were applied to their relief, and each of them received as a free gift from 200 to 5,500 acres of land in Canada or some other colony. Many of them endured great hardships in thus leaving their homes to begin life anew, but by their energy and enterprise they contributed in a large degree to the development of the resources of the country.

There was now a growing agitation in the Province of Quebec for a representative system of government. The French Canadians, it is true, had been admitted from the first into the Legislative Council, but were not in a majority there, whereas in an elective chamber they must almost necessarily have a very large majority. One of the most prominent agitators for a representative form of government was Du Calvet, a French Protestant, who was accused of aiding the insurgents during the revolutionary war. He strenuously advocated an elective assembly, and also the representation of Canada by six members in the British Parliament.

In 1785, Lord Dorchester returned to Canada as Governor General, Sir Frederick Haldimand who had held the office since 1778, having solicited his own recall. Notwithstanding the popularity of Lord Dorchester, discontent generally prevailed. At length, after petitions and counter-petitions had been canvassed for years, and transmitted to Britain, the draft of a new constitution was in 1789 sent to Lord Dorchester by Lord Granville, the colonial minister. By this it was proposed to divide the Province of Quebec into two—the Province of Upper Canada and the Province of Lower Canada. Each section was to have a Legislative Council and Assembly. "This separation, I hope," said Mr. Pitt, then Chancellor of the Exchequer, "will put an end to the competition between the old French inhabitants and the new settlers from Britain and the British colonies." The Upper Province was to give a great majority to one nationality, and the Lower Province to the other. All taxes were to be imposed and the money disbursed under the control of the Legislature of each section.

The division of the Province was contrary to the advice of Lord Dorchester, but the measure finally became law in 1791. The Act provided that the Legislative Council of Lower Canada should be composed of not fewer than fifteen, and that of Upper Canada of not fewer than seven persons. Members were to hold their seats for life. The number of members to be elected to the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada was to be not less than sixteen, and of Lower Canada not less than fifty. The Council and Assembly were to be called together at least once in every year: the Assembly to be elected for four years.

During the 30 years that the colony had been under British rule, the population had doubled in number. In 1761, it was about 70,000 souls, now it was over 135,000, of whom 120,000 were French Canadians. The inhabitants of the new Province of Upper Canada numbered only 10,000, and were nearly all of British origin. Within 90 years, however, the preponderance of population has been reversed, the inhabitants of the Upper Province now outnumbering by hundreds of thousands those of the other section.

FROM THE DIVISION OF THE PROVINCE TO THE UNION. 1791–1840.

The first elections in Lower Canada under the new form of government took place in June, 1792. Fifty members were returned. Fifteen persons had been nominated legislative councillors. The Legislature was opened on the 17th of December by Gen. Clarke (in the absence of Lord Dorchester), and sat till May, 1793. A contest took place at the opening of the Legislature as to the election of a Speaker, and as to the language in which business should be conducted. Mr. Panet, the French candidate, was elected by 28 to 18, and it was resolved that the minutes, &c., be recorded in both languages. The revenue of the Lower Province was this year only $25,000.

The Parliament of Upper Canada met at Newark (Niagara) on the 17th of September, 1792, and was opened by Lieut. Gov. Simcoe. The Council numbered 7, and the Assembly 16. The Legislature in its first session passed an act introducing the English law "as the rule of decision in all matters of controversy relative to property and civil rights." The second act introduced trial by jury. The eighth and last act gave the names of "Eastern, Midland, Home and Western" to the four districts into which the province had been divided by Lord Dorchester in 1788. These divisions were afterwards abolished in 1849. The following session (1793) the Legislature of Upper Canada abolished slavery. The owners of slaves then in the Province were to keep their rights, but the children born of female slaves were to become free at 25 years of age. In 1803, it was decided by Chief Justice Osgoode that slavery was incompatible with the laws of Lower Canada. In 1796, the seat of government of Upper Canada was removed from Niagara to York (Toronto) by Gov. Simcoe.

Lord Dorchester, who had been a faithful friend of Canada for more than thirty years, was succeeded in 1796 by Gen. Prescott. The country was now enjoying repose and steadily advancing in wealth and importance.

The bitterness which had previously existed between the French Canadians and the British inhabitants of Lower Canada was now considerably moderated. This will be evident from the remarks of M. Plessis, parish priest of Quebec, in his funeral oration over Bishop Briand. "Our conquerors," he said, "regarded at first with a jealous eye and lowering brow, inspired in us feelings only of detestation or aversion. We could not be persuaded that a race of men, strangers to our soil, to our language, and to our worship, could ever be willing to render to Canada an equivalent for what it lost by changing its masters. Generous nation, that has made us aware, by so many proofs, how ill founded were our prepossessions. Pardon us then, for that our first (and now past) distrustfulness of a foreign race, whose virtues, not being then experienced by us, we had not the happiness to know."

Sir R. S. Milnes succeeded Prescott as lieut. governor of Lower Canada in 1799, and remained in office till 1805. On his retirement, the Hon. Thomas Dunn acted as administrator until 1807. Le Canadien newspaper, printed entirely in French, was first issued in November, 1806.

The relations between England and the United States at this time were beginning to cause no little disquietude and uneasiness. Mr. Dunn having called out the militia of Lower Canada, the response was prompt and satisfactory, giving an emphatic contradiction to the reports which had been diligently spread, that the Canadians were only waiting for the approach of the invading army to flock to its standard. At this critical time Sir James Craig, a military officer, came out as Governor General, and remained till 1811. Sir James did not become popular with the French Canadians. It was a time of great irritation and disquietude. The Governor issued a general order exhorting the people to be on their guard against treasonable designs, and directing all militia men to watch attentively the actions of aliens amongst them. Col. Panet and other officers were dismissed from the militia on the charge of exciting discord and animosity between the two classes of British subjects. The Assembly, in 1808, adopted a bill, by twenty-two to two, excluding judges from seats in Parliament. The Legislative Council rejected the measure, and the Governor approved their course. The following session the Assembly engaged in discussions on constitutional questions, and was dissolved by the Governor after a session of five weeks, on the ground that the House was neglecting the matters submitted for its consideration, and wasting the time in fruitless debates. The new Parliament met in 1810, and forthwith proceeded to declare that it was an infringement of parliamentary privileges for the Governor to censure the acts of the Assembly. The House also sought to bring the government officials under its control by offering to assume the payment of their salaries. The Assembly further demanded that a budget should be presented to it showing in detail all the estimated expenditure for the succeeding year. The Council and Assembly were at variance on the question of excluding Judge de Bonne. The Assembly passed a resolution that a judge of the Court of King's Bench could not sit or vote in the House. The Governor declared that he felt bound to oppose this assumption, and prorogued the Legislature. Proceedings were instituted against the proprietors and editors of Le Canadien for disseminating treasonable publications, and several of the opposition leaders were arrested. The Governor's health began to fail. The distrust and opposition which he encountered at every step from a section of the French Canadians roused his indignation. "Base and daring fabricators of falsehood!" he exclaimed in an address to the Canadians, March 21, "What do you know of me or my intentions? Canadians, ask the heads of your Church, who have opportunities of knowing me. These are men of honor and knowledge, from whom you ought to seek information and advice. The leaders of faction, the demagogues of a party, associate not with me; they cannot know me. For what purpose should I oppress you? Is it to serve the king? Is it for myself, then, that I should oppress you? Is it from ambition? What can you give me? Is it for power? Alas! my good friends, with a life now ebbing slowly to its period under the pressure of disease contracted in the service of my country, I look only to pass what it may please God to suffer to remain of it, in the comfort of retirement among my friends. I remain among you only in obedience to the commands of my Sovereign."

In his letters to Lord Liverpool he drew a dark picture of the discord and enmity between French and British colonists, and suggested that it would be better, rather than leave matters as they were, to unite the two Provinces. In the session of 1810-11, the bill for excluding judges of the King's Bench from seats in the Assembly was again carried, and this time it received the Royal sanction. Shortly afterward Sir James Craig returned to England in consequence of ill health, and died the same year. Mr. Dunn assumed the administration of the government for a short time. Then Sir George Prévost, who had been lieutenant governor of Nova Scotia, was transferred to Canada. Under his conciliatory policy, much of the irritation and animosity between the two nationalities was removed.

The war which had long been apprehended between Great Britain and the United States broke out the following year. M. Plessis, the Roman Catholic Bishop, profitted by this occasion to claim the restoration of the rights and status of the Church as they existed in Canada before the conquest. The Legislature of Lower Canada passed an act empowering the Governor General, in case of invasion, to embody the whole militia of the country, and voted £15,000 per annum for five years toward defraying the expenses of defending the Province. The Legislature of Upper Canada also passed measures for the defence of that Province and for raising and training the militia. The population of Upper Canada had increased at this date to 80,000, and that of the Lower Province to 200,000.

Success attended the first steps taken against the enemy by the British forces in Canada. Fort Michilimackinac, situated on the island of the same name, in the strait between Lakes Huron and Michigan, was captured, and an American force, under Gen. Hull, which had crossed over from Detroit, was forced to retire. Gen. Brock, commander of the forces in Upper Canada, on the 11th of August advanced on Detroit. Hull, the American general, capitulated, and 2,500 prisoners, and thirty-three pieces of cannon, fell into the hands of the English.

Another attempt was made to invade the Province in October. A crossing was effected above Queenston on the night of the 12th. The following morning Gen. Brock was engaged in opposing the crossing of the Americans near the village, when the body that had already crossed above took possession of Queenston Heights. The British general immediately led a force to regain possession of the Heights, but while gallantly advancing to the attack he was struck down by a ball. Gen. Sheaffe took command, and the attack was continued with so much determination that the enemy was dislodged with great loss. The English were everywhere completely victorious. A subsequent attack made in November, was also repelled. In Lower Canada the invading force, under Gen. Dearborn, retired without accomplishing anything. The campaign proved favorable to England, and the Canadian militia gained some renown.

Hostilities were resumed early in the following year. The Indians, under the command of their gallant chief, Tecumseh, gave valuable aid to the British forces. One of the most notable events of the campaign was the battle of Chateauguay. An American army of 3,500, under Gen. Hampton, was on the way from Lake Champlain to Montreal. A thousand Canadian militia under Colonel de Salaberry opposed their progress at the junction of the Outarde and Chateauguay rivers. A battle ensued in which the Americans were defeated and forced to retreat. Meanwhile the enemy, who had gained some successes in Upper Canada, was concentrating his forces to co-operate with Gen. Hampton in the attack on Montreal. While on the way down the St. Lawrence, Gen. Wilkinson, the American commander, landed part of his troops under Gen. Covington to give battle to a small Canadian force under Col. Morrisson, that had been sent to intercept the invaders. A battle was fought at Chrysler's Farm, county of Dundas, where the Americans, though three times as numerous as the force opposed to them, were completely routed, and their general killed. The defeat of Hampton at Chateauguay, and of Wilkinson at Chrysler's Farm, led the Americans to abandon their design on Montreal.

In March of the following year (1814), the Americans were defeated at Lacolle, and their depot at Oswego was destroyed. The English failed in an attack on Sackett's harbor, and were forced to retreat at Chippewa. A hard fought battle took place at Lundy's Lane near Niagara Falls, after which the enemy retreated during the night to Chippewa. The war was subsequently terminated by the Treaty of Ghent, 24th December, 1814.

About the time peace was restored the Legislature of Lower Canada met at Quebec. The political discussions which had ceased during the war now commenced afresh. M. L. J. Papineau was chosen Speaker in the place of M. Panet, who was nominated a member of the Legislative Council. The elder Papineau had long been one of the most prominent champions of French Canadian nationality, and his son, the new Speaker, was destined to become the greatest agitator of his time.

Sir George Prévost, who had been regarded by the French Canadians as their firm friend, went home at the close of the war to defend himself against some charges that had been made against his conduct of military affairs during the last campaign. He died shortly after his arrival in London. Sir Gordon Drummond administered the government for a short time, and was succeeded in 1816 by Sir John C. Sherbrooke, ex-governor of Nova Scotia, who, like Sir George Prévost, endeavored to gain the good will, or at least remove the animosity, of the French Canadian majority. M. Plessis, the Bishop, was invited to take a seat at the Council board, with the reservation that the right should not extend to his successors. A similar honor was conferred on M. Papineau. The principal topic of discussion now was the Estimates. The Legislative Assembly claimed the right of controlling the entire expenditure. In Upper Canada a similar discussion was proceeding.

Another subject that engrossed much attention was the Clergy Reserves. A large amount of territory had been reserved by the Imperial Act of 1791 for the support of the Protestant clergy. The lands had been appropriated exclusively to the support of the Church of England in Canada. At first they had yielded no revenue, the rents being insufficient to cover the expenses of management. They remained in the hands of government, and the only money paid to the Church of England up to 1821 was a sum of £427 in 1816. Other bodies of Protestants began to lay claim to a share of the fund, and addresses were passed by the Houses of Assembly recommending the distribution of the money among all denominations. The subject was not finally disposed of till 1855, when, after certain provision had been made for the widows and orphans of deceased clergymen, and for securing the incomes then enjoyed, the rest of the fund was applied to municipal purposes. The colony, notwithstanding these political discussions, was in a highly prosperous condition, and the great majority of the people, busy and contented, took little interest in the debates on constitutional questions.

In 1818, Sir J. C. Sherbrooke was permitted to retire from office, and the Duke of Richmond came out as Governor. His administration was brief; being bitten by a fox, he died of hydrophobia, August, 1819. The Earl of Dalhousie succeeded him. The struggle of the Assembly on the question of voting the supplies continued. Between the Legislative Council, of which the majority of members were British, and the Legislative Assembly, composed almost exclusively of French Canadians, there was continual strife and animosity. The Assembly objected, in particular, to vote the salaries of certain obnoxious officials.

A bill for the union of the two Provinces was introduced into the Imperial Parliament in 1822, but thrown out on the second reading. When the French Canadians learned that this Bill had been introduced by the government, they loudly denounced the project. The people of Upper Canada were not in favor of it, and when the Lower Canadian Assembly met in January, 1823, it forthwith passed resolutions condemning the Bill, and Messrs. Papineau and Nelson were despatched to London to protest against it. The project was therefore abandoned for a time.

Meanwhile, the dispute on the question of voting the supplies continued more fiercely that ever. In 1827 the Lower Canada Assembly again stopped the supplies, as they had done for several years previously. Lord Dalhousie prorogued the Chambers the next day. A new parliament was summoned, which elected M. Papineau to be Speaker. The Governor disapproved of the selection, and requested the House to propose some one else. The House, refusing to comply, was immediately prorogued. The House of Commons appointed a committee that reported at length on the state of Canadian affairs, but no definite action was taken. Sir James Kempt, from Nova Scotia, replaced Lord Dalhousie in Lower Canada, and Sir John Colborne came out to Upper Canada.

Matters were becoming more serious. In Upper Canada there was a strong republican element that looked with admiration at the rapid growth of the neighboring states. The fact that the leading positions in the government were held by a small number of officials and their family connections was the cause of much dissatisfaction. In Lower Canada there was the ancient hostility of race. Concessions which, if made in time, would have allayed the discontent, were withheld. In the Lower Canadian House of Assembly 92 resolutions condemning the government for their management of affairs, for the exclusion of French Canadians from office, and setting forth other grounds of complaint, were introduced and passed in the spring of 1834. The Imperial government in 1835 sent out a commission to inquire into the grievances complained of. The report of the commission was submitted to Parliament in 1837, but the majority of the House of Commons was opposed to most of the demands of the Lower Canadian opposition. The Imperial Act of 1791 had authorised the establishment of Church of England rectories in the parishes of Canada. Under the authority of this act, fifty-seven rectories were established in Upper Canada by Sir John Colborne in 1836. This act caused increased excitement. Steps were taken by the leaders of the malcontents to enroll the disaffected. In this their success was not great, for few of the common people were disposed to take up arms to enforce the demands made by their leaders. The clergy, and the most prudent and moderate chiefs of the opposition, strongly opposed any resort to violence. Some of the more violent agitators, however, could not be restrained. The first outbreak occurred in Montreal on the 7th of November, 1837, when the "Sons of Liberty," an organization of young men of Montreal, assailed a body of volunteers in the street. In the course of the month, several encounters took place between the insurgents and the military at St. Denis, St. Charles, St. Eustache, and other points. At St. Denis, the British troops, being few in number, were repulsed; but at St. Charles, the rebels were routed with great slaughter by a detachment under Col. Wetherall. At St. Eustache also, the loss of the insurgents was very heavy. In Upper Canada the insurgents, under the command of W.L Mackenzie, were defeated near Toronto by a force of volunteers commanded by Sir F. B. Head. The Earl of Durham, the new Governor General, came out with special powers, to inquire into the state of Canadian affairs. The constitution of Lower Canada had been suspended and a special council appointed. The Governor reported strongly in favor of the union of the provinces, but some acts of his administration being censured in the House of Lords, he was recalled. Before the rebellion was finally suppressed, several attempts were made to invade Canada from the American frontier by sympathizers on the other side, but these attempts were all speedily defeated. The subsequent risings were punished with greater severity than the first, a number of the leading rebels being executed under sentence of court martial, and many more transported. Some of the chief instigators of revolt, however, escaped. Mackenzie, Papineau, and others were, some years later, permitted to return to Canada, and they subsequently obtained seats in the Legislative Assembly.

The insurrection being at an end, the project of uniting the two Canadas was urged on by the British ministry. The Right Hon. C. P. Thompson, an eminent merchant (afterwards Lord Sydenham), came out as Governor General (1839,. The assent of the Special Council of Lower Canada, and of the Legislature of Upper Canada, was obtained to the measure. A bill was drafted and sent to England by Lord Sydenham, and passed in 1840. The union took effect by royal proclamation on the 10th February, 1841.

FROM THE UNION TO CONFEDERATION—1841–1867.

Canada was now fully under "Responsible Government," the ministry having seats in the Legislature, and holding office so long only as they enjoyed the confidence of a majority of the members of the Lower House. The Local Legislatures were abolished. Upper and Lower Canada were represented by an equal number of members in the Legislative assembly of Canada. To the House was conceded also entire control over the expenditure. The Legislative Councillors were to be appointed by the Crown for life.

The first United Parliament was opened at Kingston in June, 1841. In September of that year, Lord Sydenham, who had been a very able and popular governor, died from the effects of a fall from his horse. Sir Charles Bagot then came out as Governor General, and held office till 1843. In 1844, the seat of government was removed from Kingston to Montreal. Lord Metcalfe administered the government from 1843 to 1845. Being then obliged to retire in consequence of ill health, he was succeeded by Lord Cathcart, who held office till 1847, when the Earl of Elgin was appointed governor. The administration of this able statesman was prosperous and satisfactory. Some agitation occurred during his term of office respecting the "Rebellion Losses Bill," for indemnifying persons who had sustained loss during the insurrection of 1837-8. Violent opposition was made to this measure which was considered by many to be too liberal as well as too indiscriminate. Lord Elgin, after assenting to the Bill, was hooted and pelted in the streets of Montreal; the Parliament buildings were set on fire by the mob, and a large amount of property, including the library and valuable records, was destroyed. The seat of government was afterwards removed to Toronto.

The succeeding years were years of steady progress and prosperity. A few events only will be noted here. In 1850, a free banking law was passed. In 1851, five cent postage was introduced. In 1853, the Legislative Assembly was increased from eighty-four to one hundred and thirty members, sixty-five from each section of the Province. In 1858, the decimal system of currency was adopted. Sir Edmund Head succeeded Lord Elgin in 1854 and continued in office till 1860. In 1855 the Clergy Reserves question was settled by the Legislature, and Seigniorial Tenure in Lower Canada was abolished. In 1856, the elective principle was applied to the Legislative Council, and it became an elective chamber. It was to be composed of the members appointed by the Crown before the 14th of July, 1856, and of forty-eight members elected for forty-eight electoral divisions, into which the Province was divided. In 1858, Ottawa was selected by the Queen as the permanent seat of government, and Parliament buildings were erected there. In 1859-60, the Statutes of the Province were consolidated into three volumes, one volume containing the Acts relating to all Canada, and the other two volumes embracing the Statutes relating to Upper and Lower Canada respectively. In 1860, the British Provinces were visited by the Prince of Wales. Whilst in Canada the Prince inaugurated the Victoria Bridge and laid the corner stone of the Parliamentary buildings at Ottawa. The seizure of Mason and Slidell on board the British steamer Trent towards the close of 1861, and the prospect of a war between England and the United States, caused intense excitement throughout Canada and prompted the organization and enrolment of numerous bodies of volunteer militia. These corps in later years have twice done good service (1866, 1870) in repelling incursions of Fenian marauders. In 1865-6, the Civil Code of Lower Canada, the compilation of which had been entrusted to three commissioners several years before, was completed and promulgated. In 1864, great difficulty was experienced in carrying on the government. The majority of Lower Canadian members and the majority of Upper Canadian members were arrayed on opposite sides of the House, and the two parties were very evenly balanced. The number of members in the Legislative Assembly was the same for each section of the Province, and although the population of Upper Canada now greatly exceeded that of Lower Canada, the Lower Canadian members opposed the concession of any increase of representation to Upper Canada, because at the time of the Union, the representation had been thus settled notwithstanding the fact that at that time the population of Lower Canada was by far the larger. The demand for "Representation according to Population" was now every year becoming more urgent on the part of Upper Canada. A project for uniting the British North American Provinces under one Confederation had been before the country from time to time for eighty years, and more especially from the date of Lord Durham's administration. The desire to carry out this scheme induced some of the leaders of the Upper Canada opposition to form a coalition with the Lower Canadian majority. A government was thus formed pledged to introduce the federal system. After conference with the other Provinces, Confederation was carried, to take effect 1st of July, 1867. To the confederated provinces was given the title of the Dominion of Canada. The construction of an Intercolonial Railway was one of the stipulations of the Confederation Act, and this great work, which united the provinces of old Canada with the other members of the Confederation, was successfully completed, and the line open for traffic, throughout its entire length, early in the summer of 1876.

In 1869, an Act was passed providing for a territorial government for the North West Territory, which had been purchased from the Hudson Bay Company for £300,000. Resistance was, however, offered to the entrance of the Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Macdougall, in consequence of misapprehensions on the part of some of the inhabitants. The difficulties increased, Fort Garry being taken possession of by one Riel, and a provisional government formed. The following year a military expedition was sent to Red River under Col. Wolseley (now Sir Garnet Wolseley). Riel and his principal followers fled on the approach of the troops, and took refuge on United States territory. The same year (1870) an Act was passed constituting the Province of Manitoba out of a portion of Rupert's Land. The new Province is represented by four members in the Commons and two in the Senate. A local government was organized, with a legislative council of seven members and a legislative assembly of twenty-four members. The first elections for the local house took place 11th January, 1871. The new Province has since enjoyed peace and prosperity, and is making rapid progress in population, wealth and importance. In 1875, an amnesty was passed to all who had been concerned in the troubles, except Riel and two others.

In 1871, High Commissioners were appointed by the British government to arrange the terms of a treaty with the United States for the settlement of the Alabama claims, the Fisheries question, and other matters. Canada was represented on this Commission by Sir John A. Macdonald. The treaty was signed May 8th, and provided, among other things, that the Canadian fisheries should be thrown open to the people of the United States for ten years, with the free navigation of the St. Lawrence, and the use of Canadian canals for ten years on certain conditions. The money compensation to Canada for the use of the fisheries was to be settled by a Commission.

The same year (1871) steps were taken for the admission of British Columbia to the Confederation. By the terms of the admission, the new province was allowed three representatives in the Senate and six in the House of Commons. A very important article in the agreement of Union was the promise by the Dominion to build a railway to the Pacific, to connect British Columbia with the eastern members of the Confederation. It was agreed, with some reservations, that this railway should be commenced in two years and finished in ten from the date of the admission of the Province. A charter was granted to a company for the construction of this gigantic work, but in consequence of the impossibility of effecting the necessary financial arrangements, the company subsequently surrendered their charter. The building of the road was then undertaken by the government, under the direction of their own officers, and proceeded with until the session of 1880–1, when a contract received the sanction of Parliament, handing over the undertaking to a syndicate, with subsidies of land and money. There is a fair prospect that this great work will be completed with reasonable expedition.

On the 1st of July, 1873, the Province of Prince Edward Island entered the Confederation. A railway through the Island was opened in 1875.

In June, 1877, a commission appointed under the Treaty of Washington met at Halifax, and on the 23rd of November following, closed its sittings. The compensation awarded for the use of the Canadian fisheries was $5,500,000, in gold, to be paid by the United States government.

The conservative administration under Sir John A. Macdonald resigned on the 5th of November, 1873, while a debate on a want of confidence motion was proceeding. A new ministry under Mr. Alexander Mackenzie was formed, which retained office until the 16th of October, 1878, when the government resigned, in consequence of being defeated in the general elections which had taken place in September previous.

In 1875, an Act was passed, constituting a Supreme Court for the Dominion.

In March, 1878, an incident of considerable importance occurred. Lieutenant Governor Letellier, of the Province of Quebec, declined to accept the advice of his ministry, and dismissed them from office, although at the time they had the confidence and support of a considerable majority of the legislative assembly. For this step he was censured by a vote of the House of Commons in September, 1878, and, on the advice of the Dominion government, the Governor General subsequently dismissed Mr. Letellier from office, on the ground that "his usefulness as lieutenant governor had ceased."

DESCRIPTION OF ONTARIO AND QUEBEC.

The Provinces of Ontario and Quebec extend in an easterly direction from near the Red River settlement to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and from Michigan to New Brunswick. They extend northward from the Canadian lakes and the St. Lawrence to the high ridge of land which separates the rivers of Canada from those of the territory hitherto known as the Hudson Bay territory, but now forming a part of the Dominion of Canada.

The provinces are bounded north by the Hudson Bay territory; east by the Gulf of St. Lawrence; south by the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York, and Lakes Erie and Ontario; and west by Lakes St. Clair, Huron and Superior, and the north west Indian territories.

The area is about 331,280 square miles, of which 121,260 are included in the Province of Ontario, and 210,020 in the Province of Quebec.

The principal rivers are the St. Lawrence, which drains an area of 565,000 square miles; the Ottawa, 450 miles long, which forms a central boundary between the two provinces; the St. Maurice, nerly 400 miles in length; the Saguenay, noted for its fine scenery; the Richelieu, the Niagara, and others. The Province of Ontario has for its southern and western boundaries five great lakes—Superior, Huron and Georgian Bay, St. Clair, Erie, and Ontario, of which the total length is 1,085 miles, and area 80,000 square miles. In some parts of the Province of Quebec, especially in the Eastern Townships, the scenery is extremely picturesque. In the Province of Ontario the surface is undulating rather than mountainous. A main water shed separates the waters of the St. Lawrence from those of the Ottawa.

The system of inland navigation is the most extensive and perfect in the world. The statistics given under separate heads will convey some idea of the extent of railway communication; of the agricultural and mineral wealth; the volume of trade, and the vast resources and general prosperity of the provinces.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF NOVA SCOTIA.

I. FROM ITS DISCOVERY TO 1784.

Nova Scotia, up to the year 1784, included the Province now called New Brunswick, and it also formerly included part of the present state of Maine, the whole being known under the name of Acadie. This was the term used in the original commission of the king of France, and is found in public documents as far back as 1604. The country was discovered by Sebastian Cabot in 1498, but may have been noticed by John Cabot in his voyage the previous year. A few years after the discovery by Cabot, French fishermen from Basque and Bretagne arrived at a promontory of an island to the southwest, and named it Cape Breton. This name was afterward applied to the whole island, which now forms part of Nova Scotia.

In 1518, Baron de Lêry, an adventurous Frenchman, anxious that France should have a share in the newly discovered territories, proposed to found a settlement in Acadie. He accordingly set sail with a company of settlers, but owing to tempestuous weather and other adverse circumstances, the enterprise miscarried, and the expedition was abandoned. In 1590 Cape Breton was resorted to by persons from England. In 1598, the Marquis de la Roche made an attempt to colonize the country by convicts. Fearing to set his settlers free on the mainland, he first landed forty of them on Sable Island, a spot ill suited to support life. But when the Marquis attempted to return to the island from the mainland, his ship was driven by a storm to France where a civil war was then raging. He was immediately taken prisoner, the unfortunate colonists were overlooked, and it was not till five years had elapsed that the survivors, twelve in number, were rescued from their miserable position.

No further attempt was made till about 1603 when Sieur Dupont Gravé, a merchant of St. Malo, lured by the prospect of gain, sought to obtain a monopoly of the fur traffic in Canada and Acadie. With the assistance of de Chaste, governor of Dieppe, a company of Rouen merchants was organized, and an expedition fitted out and placed under the command of Champlain. In 1603, Champlain sailed up the St. Lawrence as far as the Lachine rapids; and Henry IV. of France was so well pleased with the result of the expedition, that he granted to M. de Monts, a Huguenot, who succeeded to de Chaste on the death of the latter, a monopoly of the fur traffic in all parts of North America lying between Cape Race, in Newfoundland, and the 50th degree of north latitude. The second expedition under de Monts sailed in March, 1604. Part of the expedition went on to Canada, but de Monts remained at Acadie. This was considered the finest country of La Nouvelle France. It possessed fine ports, a fertile soil, and a temperate and salubrious climate. The Micmac Indians, a branch of the Algonquin family, who then inhabited the country, received the French with kindness. De Monts landed first at Port Rossignol, now called Liverpool, and afterward coasted the peninsula as far as the Bay of Fundy. The expedition also stopped at Port Royal, now called Annapolis, where Baron de Poutrincourt, a companion of de Monts, formed a settlement. De Monts sailed on round the bay, and discovered the River St. John. He finally wintered on a rocky islet at the mouth of the St. Croix. Thirty-six of the party died of scurvy during the winter. In spring de Monts went further south. During his absence, Dupont Gravé arrived from France with supplies and forty additional colonists, and on the return of de Monts, the entire body set out for Port Royal, where they began to establish a settlement. In this work, the celebrated Lescarbot, a friend of Poutrincourt, is said to have afforded much valuable assistance. Under his guidance the colonists constructed a variety of apparatus and machines which were very useful to them in their new settlement. But unexpected misfortunes led to the abandonment of the colony. A marauding party of Dutchmen from the New Netherlands seized a whole year's stores of peltries; and, some months later, the merchants of St. Malo, jealous of the monopoly of the fur traffic enjoyed by the Rouen company, succeeded in getting de Monts' charter revoked. In 1607, Poutrincourt, Lescarbot and the other colonists abandoned the settlement at Port Royal, and returned to France.

Three years later, Poutrincourt, the governor, who had obtained from de Monts a grant of Port Royal, which grant was confirmed by the king, returned with a number of skilled artisans and resumed his labors. But the Jesuits, after the assassination of Henry IV., having succeeded in effecting an entrance into the country, and having founded a settlement of their own at St. Sauveur, dissensions sprang up which eventually led to the abandonment of the colony a second time; and many of the Huguenot settlers withdrew from the country in disgust. The colonists of Virginia also interfered, claiming Acadie for Britain by right of discovery. Captain Argall, from Virginia, following up this pretension, appeared suddenly before St. Sauveur, the Jesuit settlement, founded by La Saussaye, and carried the place by storm. The government of Virginia subsequently resolved to expel the French from every point south of the 45th parallel of north latitude, including the central region of Acadie; and Sir Samuel Argall, with three armed vessels, was commissioned to carry out the resolution. Port Royal was captured and destroyed in 1613, the colonists were dispersed, and Poutrincourt returned to France. This is stated to have been the first conflict between English and French in the new world.

The Virginians, however, soon left Acadie. In 1621, Sir William Alexander obtained from James I. of England a grant of the territory lying to the east of a line drawn from the St. Croix to the St. Lawrence. The land was called Nova Scotia in the patent. In 1622, Sir William sent a body of colonists to begin a settlement. Arriving late in the season, they were obliged to winter in Newfoundland. In 1623, they reached Cape Sable, but finding the French in possession of the places they intended to occupy, they returned to Britain.

In 1624, Charles I. granted a large extent of land in Nova Scotia to a number of persons who were created "baronets of Nova Scotia." The object was to promote the colonization of the country, each baronet receiving 16,000 acres of land, and being bound to send out six settlers. In 1628, Port Royal was taken by Sir David Kertk, a Huguenot officer in the English service. The following year, Sir William Alexander ceded part of his territory to Claude de la Tour, a French prisoner who had married an English lady. At this time the French still held possession of Cape Sable and other places in the south. De la Tour was sent to take possession of Acadie, but his son, who held one of the forts, refused to give it up. A few years later, by the Treaty of St. Germain en Laye, in 1632, Charles I. renounced the pretensions that had been put forward to Acadie by his subjects, and possession of the colony was confirmed to France. It was now divided into three provinces, of which the governors were de Razillai, young de la Tour, and Denys. Razillai was succeeded in 1635, by Charnizay. Disputes now commenced between de la Tour and Charnizay as to the bounds of their respective territories. Louis XIII. interfered, and in 1638, defined the boundaries anew; but de la Tour would not submit, and for several years a fierce struggle was carried on. Finally, in 1645, Charnizay, in the absence of de la Tour, assaulted the fort of his enemy. Madame de la Tour made a gallant defence, and obtained favorable terms of capitulation. But Charnizay, mortified at finding the band of defenders so small, treacherously hanged all but one. Madame de la Tour died soon afterward. Charnizay was then named chief governor of Acadie. On the death of Charnizay in 1650, de la Tour returned. In 1651, he married Charnizay's widow, and claimed Nova Scotia, as his right; but he was soon assailed by a creditor of Charnizay, named La Borgue, who destroyed the settlement of La Hève. Before the contest was decided an enemy from without interfered. Cromwell, who was now Protector of England, sent out an expedition in 1654, under Colonel Sedgwick who defeated both de la Tour and la Borgue, and made himself master of all the strong posts in the colony. De la Tour appealed to Cromwell for redress. His claim was allowed, and Cromwell granted to him and two English gentlemen the greater part of Acadie. The rights of de la Tour were afterwards purchased by the other proprietors; but in 1667, by the Treaty of Breda, Acadie was again transferred to France.

During these vicissitudes, little had been done by either English or French towards the development and improvement of the country. In 1685, the population was reported to be about nine hundred. The French establishments were so ill protected that a band of pirates, numbering only one hundred and ten, captured Pentagoet, the headquarters of Gov. Chambly

In 1690, when the Canadians and New England colonists were engaged in hostilities, Port Royal surrendered to Admiral Phipps from Massachusetts, and other Acadian posts were captured by Col.

Church. The British remained masters of the greater part of Acadie till 1696, when it was once more restored to France by the Treaty of Ryswick. M. de Villebon, who was governor at this time, having died July, 1700, Brouillon succeeded.

War being declared against France at the beginning of Queen Anne's reign, the possession of Acadie was again disputed. The New Englanders organized another expedition for its conquest in 1707. On the sixth of June of that year, a squadron of two ships of war, and twenty-three transports carrying 2000 men, appeared before Port Royal. The fortifications being well manned and defended, the attack was repulsed; but in 1710, Port Royal was forced to surrender to another colonial expedition under Gen. Nicholson, and the loss of Acadie was involved in the surrender. The power of France being weakened by protracted war, she was compelled by the Treaty of Utrecht, in 1713, to cede to Britain not only Acadie, but also all her pretensions to Newfoundland and the Hudson Bay Territory. The Island of Cape Breton, however, was retained by the French, and after the loss of Nova Scotia they began to construct fortifications at Louisbourg, a cost of more than one million sterling, as a protection to their Canadian possessions. The island became an important fishing station, and Louisbourg continued to be the capital for many years.

France having declared war against England in 1744, Gov. Shirley, of Massachusetts, formed the design of taking Louisbourg, though the fortress was supposed to be almost impregnable. New Hampshire, Connecticut, New York, and other colonies furnished troops, provisions and munitions of war. The expedition, which was placed under the command of General Pepperell, sailed from Boston, and arrived at Canseau on the 5th of April, 1745. Here it was joined by some English ships under Admiral Warren. A landing was effected in rear of the town early in May, and the siege commenced. Preparations had been made for an assault, when the French governor, Duchambeau, capitulated on the 16th of June. The garrison marched out with the honors of war. An immense booty, valued at a million sterling, fell into the hands of the victors. The Canadians, in great alarm at the conquest of this stronghold, appealed to France for help, and a formidable expedition was sent out the following year, under the command of the Duke D'Anville, to retake Louisbourg and Acadie. But the hostile fleet met with terrible disasters. The ships being dispersed and wrecked by violent storms, and the soldiers and crews thinned by disease, nothing could be accomplished. The duke died of vexation, and the vice-admiral, d'Estournelle, killed himself in despair. Only a remnant of the expedition returned to France. By the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle in 1748, Britain agreed to restore Cape Breton to France, but the cost of the New England expedition was refunded to the colonies by the mother country.

After the Treaty, disputes commenced as to the boundaries of the French and British possessions in America. A joint commission was appointed in 1749, but the disputes led to hostilities from time to time between the colonists of the respective countries. To prevent encroachments on the territory in dispute, the government of Canada induced three thousand Acadian French to settle on the north shore of the Bay of Fundy, and on Isle St. Jean (Prince Edward Island).

The harassing alternation of proprietorship had hitherto prevented any attempts to develop the resources of Nova Scotia. At this time, however, an effort was made to colonize it by emigrants sent out at the expense of the British government. Free grants of land, together with tools, arms and provisions for a year, were offered to all soldiers who were willing to settle in the colony. About four thousand disbanded soldiers and their families, attracted by these liberal offers, arrived at Chebucto Harbour on the 21st of June, 1749, and the town of Halifax was founded on its shores. Cornwallis became the first governor of the colony, and appointed a council of six members. In 1753, about 1500 Germans joined the colony, and settled in the county of Lunenburg.

Meantime the boundary disputes continued. The British claimed the whole territory north to the St. Lawrence including the Peninsula of Gaspé. The Seven Years' War (1756—1763), which resulted in the cession of Canada to Britain, and thus put an end to the boundary question, soon after commenced. In 1755, the French fort Beauséjour, on the north shore of the Bay of Fundy (part of the disputed territory), was captured by an expedition from Boston under Col. Winslow, assisted by regular troops under Col. Monckton.

An incident of much interest now occurred, for the explanation of which we must go back a few years. After the cession of Acadie to Britain by the Treaty of 1713, many of the Acadians remained in the country, but refused to take the oath of allegiance. They were allowed to follow their own mode of worship, and to have magistrates of their own selection. Being exempted from bearing arms against their countrymen, they received the name of neutral French. By intriguing with the Indians who had also resented the cession of the country to Britain and were hostile to the English settlers, these neutral French became troublesome and dangerous neighbors. In the course of the boundary disputes they assisted and encouraged the hostile Indians, who were a source of great annoyance and uneasiness to the British. It was resolved, therefore, to remove the entire population and disperse them through the other colonies. This resolution was rigorously carried out; the greater part of the Acadians, about 7,000 in number, being hurried on board ship, their property destroyed or confiscated, and themselves scattered over the continent. Some of the exiles returned to Nova Scotia after the peace of 1763.

In 1758, a constitution was granted to Nova Scotia. From the year 1719, the administration of public affairs had been vested in a governor and council. On the 2nd of October, 1758, the first Parliament assembled at Halifax. The House of Assembly comprised 22 members elected by the people, and the combined Executive and Legislative Council, of twelve members, appointed by the Crown.

The capture of the important post of Louisbourg was one of the objects most ardently desired at the commencement of the war. An attempt to take it was made without success in 1756. In 1758, however, the stronghold was forced to surrender to a powerful expedition under Generals Wolfe and Amherst, and Admiral Boscawen. The fortifications were destroyed, and the inhabitants sent to France. Isle St. Jean also passed from French hands, and was annexed to the government of Nova Scotia.

The Treaty of 1763 restored peace, and the colony now made rapid progress. The island of Cape Breton was at this time annexed to Nova Scotia, and in 1765, was formed into a county. In 1770, St. John's Island (Prince Edward Island), was separated from the government of Nova Scotia, and became a separate colony.

At the close of the American Revolutionary war, the population of Nova Scotia was greatly augmented by the influx of about twenty thousand loyalists from the revolted colonies, who settled in Nova Scotia and Cape Breton.

In 1784, all the part of Nova Scotia north of the Bay of Fundy was separated from the rest of the Province, and constituted a separate colony, called New Brunswick. The same year a separate government was given to Cape Breton, with Sydney as the chief town.

FROM THE SEPARATION FROM NEW BRUNSWICK TO CONFEDERATION.

The events of this period are of a pacific character, and relate to internal development and improvement. The great Pictou road was opened in 1792; the militia organized in 1806. The next important event was the re-union of Cape Breton with Nova Scotia in 1820, when it was allowed to send two members to the Legislature. In 1823, Roman Catholics were freed from all disabilities, and placed on the same footing as members of other denominations. In 1838, the combined Executive and Legislative Council was dissolved, and separate Councils substituted. In 1848, Responsible Government was fully introduced.

In 1861, the Legislature of Nova Scotia unanimously adopted a resolution favorable to Inter-colonial Union. The resolution reads as follows:

Whereas, the subject of a Union of the North American Provinces or of the Maritime Provinces, from time to time has been mooted and discussed in all the colonies;

And Whereas, While many advantages may be secured by such an union, either of all these Provinces or a portion of them, many and serious obstacles are presented which can only be overcome by mutual consultation of the leading men of the colonies, and by free communication with the Imperial government.

Therefore Resolved, That His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor be respectfully requested to put himself in communication with His Grace the Colonial Secretary and His Excellency the Governor General of the N. A. colonies, in order to ascertain the policy of Her Majesty's government, and the opinions of the other colonies, with a view to the enlightened consideration of a question involving the highest interest, and upon which the public mind in all the Provinces ought to be set at rest.

This led to a conference at Charlottetown to consider the advantage of an union of the Maritime colonies. But Canada having proposed a more extensive scheme, the conference was adjourned to Quebec. Delegates from Nova Scotia took part. But after the Quebec conference, a strong opposition was made to the scheme proposed. In 1866, however, the House of Assembly, by a vote of 31 to 19 authorized the Lieutenant Governor to appoint delegates to arrange with the Imperial Government a scheme of union. Delegates were appointed, who, together with the delegates from Canada and New Brunswick, met in London in December, 1866. The Bill for the Confederation of the Provinces was introduced into the Imperial Legislature, and received the Royal assent on the 28th of March following.

SINCE CONFEDERATION.

Considerable dissatisfaction with confederation continued to be manifested in Nova Scotia, Mr. John Bright took up the cause of the malcontents, and in June, 1868, moved in the Imperial Parliament that a Commission be appointed to enquire into the cause of the dissatisfaction. The motion was rejected by 183 to 96: but in October following, Sir John A. Macdonald opened a correspondence with Mr. Joseph Howe, the member for Hants, and this eventually led to the concession of "Better Terms" to Nova Scotia. By these better terms the debt of the Province was credited as $9,186,756, and a subsidy of $82,698 per annum was allowed her for ten years. In January following (1869) Mr. Howe, who had been the leading opponent of confederation, entered the Dominion Ministry as Secretary of State for the Provinces. From this date the discontent which had existed in Nova Scotia faded rapidly away, and it may safely be affirmed that there are now few who regret the union with Canada.

In 1871, the currency of Nova Scotia was assimilated to that of the other Provinces.

The Intercolonial Railway, affording continuous communication by rail over Canadian Territory from Quebec to Halifax, was completed in 1876, and the British mails are now delivered and received at the latter point. The census of 1871 showed the population of the Province to be 387,800.

DESCRIPTION OF NOVA SCOTIA.

The Province, including Cape Breton, is about 350 miles in length, and 100 in breadth. The country is beautifully variegated by ranges of lofty hills and broad valleys, both of which run longitudinally through the Province. Its Atlantic frontier, for twenty miles inland, is composed of a poor soil, though rich in gold and other valuable minerals. The Cobequid range of mountains, as it is called, runs through the interior of the Province. The summits of a few of the conical mounts of this range ascend 1100 feet, and the land may be cultivated nearly to the top. On each side of these mountains is an extensive range of rich arable lands, where agricultural operations are carried on extensively, and with profit.

The Province is 900 miles in circumference; and, with the exception of fifteen miles, where it joins New Brunswick, it faces the Atlantic, Bay of Fundy, Straits of Northumberland, and Gulf of St. Lawrence. Deep and spacious harbors indent its seaboard; and the interior is pierced in all directions by navigable rivers, the country being thus admirably adapted for commercial enterprise.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

The leading events in the history of New Brunswick up to the year 1784 will be found under the head of Nova Scotia, and need not be repeated here.

The first colonists were the settlers brought out by de Monts in 1604. In 1639 French settlements were made on the Bay of Chaleurs. This bay was so named by Jacques Cartier from the intense heat of the weather on the 9th July, 1534, when he entered the Bay in the course of his memorable voyage to the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

In 1672, the French established settlements on the river Miramichi, and at other places on the eastern coast. After the cession of the country to Britain in 1713, part of what is now New Brunswick, was claimed by the French as belonging to Canada, and the disputes arising from these conflicting pretensions led to collisions between the settlers. The colonists also suffered much from the Indians, who continued to be unfriendly to the English for many years. Finally, in 1761, the Indians consented to a peace, and the hatchet was buried.

The northern counties remained uninhabited till the middle of the eighteenth century. In the summer of 1764, the first British settler, Mr. Wm. Davidson, a gentleman from the north of Scotland, arrived in the county of Northumberland. At this time not a single house was erected, nor a single European resident within the limits of the county. The Micmac Indians were still the virtual lords of the soil.

In 1784 the present limits of New Brunswick were divided from Nova Scotia and erected into a separate Province by a special constitutional charter, the administration of the government being confided to Col. Carleton. In the autumn of 1785 the first general election of representatives took place; and in January, 1786, the first Legislative Assembly was held at St. John. Two years after the governor's appointment the city of Fredericton was selected by him as the seat of government, and has since continued to be the metropolis. The place at that time was composed of a few irregularly built huts; and St. John, now an opulent and flourishing city, was not of much greater extent.

At the time of the separation from Nova Scotia the entire population was only 11,457.

In 1790, Davidson, the pioneer settler, died. A brisk trade was carried on about this time by Fraser & Thom in the exportation of fish, furs, peltries, and sawed lumber. When the United States had gained their independence, a considerable number of the exiled loyalists, about five thousand persons, emigrated to New Brunswick, where they were supplied with land, provisions, tools and clothing by the British government. These "United Empire" loyalists may be looked upon as the founders of New Brunswick, and their descendants now form a considerable part of the population. It was about this time (1783) that the first newspaper was published in the Province.

The colony has steadily increased in wealth and importance during the present century. The timber trade was greatly stimulated by an act of the British Parliament in 1809 admitting colonial timber into England free of duty, while timber coming from the Baltic was taxed. The trade became a profitable branch of industry, and ship-building was commenced. A tide of emigration flowed in, and rapidly augmented the population. St. John, St. Andrews and Miramichi were annually resorted to by a large number of trading vessels.

In 1803, Gov. Carleton was removed to England, after having governed the Province for nearly twenty years, during which period it had grown from a wilderness to an important colony. After the departure of Carleton, the government was administered up to the year 1817, by presidents. At the close of the war in 1815, a considerable number of disbanded soldiers settled in New Brunswick. In 1824, the population had increased to 74,176.

The state of the Province in 1825 is thus described by Cooney: "Our trade was looking up; and brightening were our prospects. The bosom of our river sustained a large fleet loaded with the productions of many climes; its sloping banks enamelled with the beauties of expanding vegetation, and the edge of each flowery belt was fringed by the luxuriant foliage of the surrounding forest. Our wharves and warehouses groaned under the weight of the wealth they contained; the market was well stocked with its staple commodity; ships clustered on our seaboard; commerce flourished in our twons; and plenty filled our hamlets."

But this year a remarkable conflagration occurred, which caused the loss of many lives, and the destruction of much property. The summer had been unusually warm and dry, and extensive fires had raged in different parts of the country. Throughout the northern part of New Brunswick hardly any rain had fallen, and from the 1st to the 5th October, the heat was extraordinary. The fire, which had been creeping through the forests, approached some of the settlements, and the heat became more intense. About 9 o'clock in the night of the 7th October, the fire burst through the forest in the rear of Newcastle, and that town, together with Douglastown, and the northern side of the Miramichi, for a hundred miles, were enveloped in smoke and flame. The wooden houses, the stores containing spirits, powder, and other combustible articles, the stables and barns of the towns and settlements, speedily became a prey to the devouring fire and presented a terrible scene of confusion and devastation. Newcastle, a flourishing town of 1000 inhabitants, was left a heap of smoking ruins, and hundreds of miles of country were laid waste. The area swept by the flames was about 6,000 square miles. In this conflagration 160 persons were burned, or drowned in the river, 595 buildings and 875 head of cattle were destroyed. The loss of property was estimated at £204,323, of which only £12,050 were covered by insurance. The Legislature of Lower Canada voted £2,500 for the relief of the sufferers, and contributions to the extent of £35,383 were received from Great Britain, the United States, and the neighboring colonies. The burnt towns and villages were soon rebuilt in a style of greater solidity and beauty. In 1837, another extensive fire occurred in the city of St. John, when property to the value of one million dollars (including 115 houses), was destroyed.

The provincial revenues were this year surrendered to the local government on condition of paying the salaries of certain officials amounting to $58,000 per annum.

The treaty between Great Britain and the United States, negotiated by Lord Ashburton in 1842, settled the disputed boundary between Maine and New Brunswick.

In 1845 commissioners were appointed by the British Government, to explore and survey a railway route from Halifax to Quebec, across the Province of New Brunswick. The commissioners in their report speak enthusiastically of the climate and soil capabilities of the country.

In 1848 Responsible Government was introduced.

The colony has since continued to advance rapidly in wealth and importance. Trade was for a time greatly stimulated by the Reciprocity Treaty between British America and the United States.

New Brunswick joined in the conference at Quebec on the subject of Confederation, but a ministry opposed to the scheme came into power shortly afterward. In 1866, however, the ministry resigned and a new government, favorable to Confederation, was formed. A general election followed, and the friends of union were victorious at the polls. New Brunswick consequently became a member of the Federation. After confederation there was some agitation in New Brunswick as well as in Nova Scotia for "Better Terms," and in 1871 the Legislature passed resolutions asking the Dominion Government to concede them.

DESCRIPTION OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

This Province is situated between 45° and 48° 7′ N. lat.; and between 63° 50′ and 69° W. long. Its length, from Nova Scotia, on the southeast, to the Province of Quebec on the northwest, is 190 miles; breadth, from the State of Maine, on the southwest, to the Straits of Northumberland on the northeast, 140 miles. It is situated nearly in the centre of the north temperate zone. The area of the Province is 27,710 square miles or 17,600,000 acres. The surface of the country is generally flat or undulating. There are some hills skirting the Bay of Fundy and the Rivers St. John and Restigouche, but they nowhere assume mountain summits. New Brunswick has an external water-line of 410 miles, exclusive of indentations. This coast line is indented by deep and spacious bays and harbors; and the face of the Province is traversed in all directions by navigable rivers. The Bay of Fundy, with its affluents, Chignecto and Cumberland bays, is 140 miles in length, by 45, its greatest breadth; and the Bay of Chaleurs, in the northwest, is 8 miles long by 20 broad. The principal rivers are the St. Croix, 60 miles in length; St. John, 450; Petitcodiac, 100; Richibucto, 40; Miramichi, 200; Nipisignit, 90; and the Restigouche, 200 miles long. There are numerous lakes, varying in size from mere ponds to lakes containing 80 square miles. Of the area of the Province, about 14,000,000 acres are fit for profitable cultivation. These lands are accessible from all sides of the country. Of the granted lands, about 60,000 acres consist of rich alluvial lands, called marsh; some of which are said to have been producing large crops of excellent hay for upwards of one hundred years.

The tides of the Bay of Fundy rise from 20 feet at the city of St. John, to 60 feet at the head of Chignecto Bay while the tides of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, separated by but twelve miles from those of the Bay of Fundy, rise only from four to seven feet.

Roads and settlements are nearly continuous around the province, and cross it in numerous places. The River St. John in its downward course traverses the counties of Victoria, Carleton, York, Sunbury, Queens, Kings, and St. John. The counties of Westmoreland, Kent, Northumberland, Gloucester, and Restigouche, lie on the Straits of Northumberland, Gulf of St. Lawrence, and Bay of Chaleurs. Charlotte, St. John and Albert lie on the Bay of Fundy.

In 1852 and following years, steam and telegraphic communication between Conception Bay and St. John's was established, mechanics' institutes were founded, the town of St. John's was supplied with water, and other improvements were carried out.

In 1858, an ocean telegraph from Europe, having its terminus in Newfoundland, was laid and opened, but it ceased to operate after a few messages had been transmitted. Since that time, however, other cables have been successfully laid, and continue in operation.

When the scheme for confederating the Provinces was brought forward in 1864, Newfoundland sent two deputies, Messrs. Carter and Shea, to the Conference which met at Quebec in October of that year; but the Legislature subsequently deferred action in the matter. It is anticipated, however, that before many years the island will consent to enter the Confederation.

THE INDIANS OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The aboriginal inhabitants seem to have fared worse in Newfoundland than their countrymen elsewhere. When Europeans first visited the island, they found on the coast a considerable number of natives belonging to a tribe known as Red Indians, from the fact of their bodies being smeared with a species of red ochre. The intercourse with these Indians was friendly at first, but quarrels soon arose, and led to the almost utter extermination of the natives. "The settlers," writes Page, "generally men of fierce tempers and armed with powerful weapons, carried on the contest in a manner peculiarly ruthless, hunting and shooting the natives like deer. The latter have gradually disappeared from the island, and for many years not one has been seen." Several attempts were subsequently made to open up friendly intercourse with the Red Indians, but without success. In 1810, one of the first acts of governor Duckworth was to issue a proclamation for the protection of the Red Indians, and to offer a reward of £100 stg. to any person who should bring about a friendly understanding with them. In 1827, a search for them was prosecuted under the auspices of the Bœothic Society. Abundant traces of their settlements were found, but all the huts and wigwams were deserted. Another tribe, the Micmacs, have continued to occupy different parts of the interior, and have become partially civilized.

DESCRIPTION OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The island of Newfoundland is situated on the north east side of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, between 46° 37″ and 51° 40′, N. latitude, and 52° 41″, and 59° 31″, W. long. It is bounded on the north by the strait of Belle Isle, which is from ten to twenty miles wide. On the east and south it is surrounded by the Atlantic. The island is exceedingly irregular in form, being indented with deep bays, the principal of which are Trinity and White Bays on the eastern, and Placentia and Fortune Bays on the southern coast. The peninsula of Avalon, on which the greater part of the population is resident, is almost severed from the rest of the Island by Trinity and Placentia Bays, there being an isthmus only some four miles in width between the heads of these bays. The greatest length of the island from north to south is 350 miles, and the average breadth about 130 miles. Estimated area about 40,200 square miles, equal to 25,728,000 acres.

The coast is for the most part steep and rugged; the sea cliffs are bold and lofty, with deep water at the base. The harbors on the east coast are easy of access.

The geological survey shows the aqueous or stratified rocks to consist of the following formations, which are arranged in descending order: Upper and lower coal formation, magnesian limestone; upper and lower slate formation, gneiss and mica slate. There are also chlorite, quartz rock, primary limestone, granite, syenite, porphyry, trap, basalt, serpentine, hypersthene, and greenstone. An entensive lead mine exists at La Manche, Placentia Bay, and has been worked for several years with profit; veins of copper of great value have also been discovered and are being successfully worked.

In the interior the surface of the island is uneven and hilly. Some of the peaks rise to a height of a 1000 feet and upwards. The lakes are numerous. The trees consist of fir, spruce, birch, pine, juniper, wych-hazel, mountain ash, alder, and aspen.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

This small but flourishing colony received its present name in 1798, in honor of Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria. Its ancient name was Isle St. Jean, or St. John's Island. It was discovered by John and Sebastian Cabot in 1497. The Indians that resorted to the island at that date were of the Abenaqui and Micmac ribes. For two centuries after its discovery the island was covered with dense forests to the water's edge, and remained unoccupied save by Indians, being considered of too little importance to justify the establishment of a permanent settlement. It was included with Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Cape Breton, under the general name Acadie. Fortunately it escaped many of the disasters and conflicts that harassed other parts of Acadie and Canada, and there are few stirring or momentous events in its history to chronicle.

In 1663, a French naval captain named Doublet, received from the government of Canada a grant of this island, together with the Magdalen Islands, for the purpose of establishing a fishery. At this time stages and huts were erected near the best fishing grounds, but no permanent settlement was formed. The persons employed by Doublet came in the spring and left in the fall, abandoning the island during the winter to its original inhabitants.

In the beginning of the eighteenth century a few solitary families, attracted by reports of the beautiful scenery and fertile soil of the island, began to settle on some of the most accessible parts of the southern coast. After Acadie had been ceded to Britain by the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713, many of the younger Acadians left their fathers' homes in Nova Scotia, and commenced to form the first permanent settlements in Isle St. Jean, which was still retained by France. The number of settlers slowly increased from year to year as the fertility of the island became better known. In 1728, about thirteen years after the settlements began, there were only sixty families on the island. In 1745, there were about 150 families, numbering 800 souls.

It has been supposed that Isle St. Jean fell into the hands of the New Englanders in 1754, after they had captured Louisbourg. Whether this was the case does not clearly appear; but if so, the island was restored to the French by the Treaty of Aix-La-Chapelle in 1748. "At this time," says Sutherland (Civil History of Prince Edward Island), "the island was intrusted to the control of two leading officers, the one civil and the other military. The military officer was subordinate to the governor of Louisbourg; his colleague was a sub-delegate of the intendant of Canada. They had a garrison of about sixty men, with some few pieces of cannon. A small battery was constructed by them at the mouth of the harbor of Charlottetown, on the west side, where they resided, and a small redoubt at a narrow part of the East River, still called the French fort, intended to guard the access by water towards St. Peter's and Tracadie."

In 1752, the population was estimated by a French officer who visited the settlement that year, at 1,354, but this number was doubled in the course of a few years by the influx of expatriated Acadians.

In 1758, when Louisbourg was compelled to surrender to British forces, one of the articles of capitulation provided for the surrender of Isle St. Jean. Gen. Amherst immediately despatched Lieut. Col. Rollo to take possession, and thus the island passed out of the hands of the French. By the Treaty of 1763, Isle St. Jean, together with Canada and Cape Breton, was formally ceded to Great Britain. It was then placed under the government of Nova Scotia. At this time the inhabitants numbered 4,100, but many of the French inhabitants left the island when it came under English rule.

In 1764 and the following years, the island was surveyed by Captain Holland by order of the British government. Having been divided into townships of about 20,000 acres each, these townships were, in August, 1767, distributed by lot amongst about one hundred army and navy officers and others who had claims on government, upon certain conditions of settlement, and the payment of certain quit rents. Lot 66, about 6,000 acres, was reserved as demesne lands for the king.

A town lot and royalty, says Sutherland, were reserved in each county. Each township was to furnish a glebe lot of 100 acres for a minister, and a lot of 30 acres for a school master. For the prosecution of a free fishery, 500 feet from the shore were reserved on all the townships which abut on the coast.

There were three rates of quit rents, six, four, and two shillings, annually, per hundred acres. No quit rents were to be demanded for the first five years after the grant; after that, for the next five years, half the amount of the quit rents would be demanded; after ten years, the whole amount.

The grantees were to settle on each lot one person for every 200 acres, within ten years from the date of the grant. If one-third of the land, in that proportion, was not settled in four years from the date of the grant, the land was to be forfeited to the king. The settlers were to be Protestants, from the parts of Europe not belonging to Great Britain, or such persons as had resided in the American colonies at least two years before the grant was given.

It was found difficult, however, to obtain foreign Protestant settlers, and very few of the grantees attempted to fulfil the conditions on which the lands had been allotted to them.

In 1768, the inhabitants of Prince Edward Island petitioned for a separate government, and offered to pay half their quit rents the next year to meet the expenses. The request was complied with, and in 1770 Walter Patterson, to whom part of lot 19 had fallen, came out as the first governor. At this time only five proprietors, and not more than 150 families, were resident on the island. Many of the grantees, finding the quit rents too burdensome, sold their lands, and the original conditions of the grants were almost totally disregarded. Instead of having one person for every 200 acres within ten years from the date of the grant, no attempt had been made to settle 48 out of the 67 townships when he ten years had elapsed.

The first House of Assembly, consisting of eighteen members elected for seven years, met in July, 1773. The House took up the land question which agitated the colony for nearly a century, and passed a measure for the effectual recovery of quit rents, but the act was not carried out. The next year a new Assembly was convened, which sat till 1779.

During the American revolutionary war, Charlottetown was plundered by two American vessels, but the prisoners and plunder were given up by order of Gen. Washington.

In 1780, Gov. Patterson who had been in England for several years returned to the island, and instituted proceedings in the Supreme Court for the recovery of arrears of quit rents. Nine whole and five half townships were brought to sale in 1781. The proprietors, who were all, or nearly all, non-residents, complained to the English government, and a Bill was sent out, making these sales voidable. Gov. Patterson availed himself of some errors in the preamble as a pretext for not laying the Bill before the Legislature, and he exerted himself to prevent the validity of the sales from being disturbed. The House was dissolved in 1784, and the new Assembly, which met the same year, not supporting the views of the Governor, was also dissolved. Another House, called together in 1785, approved of the governor's proceedings, and next year a bill was introduced to ratify the sales of 1781. This was disallowed by the Crown. Gov. Patterson was recalled by the Home authorities in 1787 ; but eventually, after a protracted contest, the sales of 1781 were allowed to stand.

In 1794, two provincial companies of militia, three companies of horse, and one of light infantry, were raised for the protection of the island.

An investigation, made in 1797, by the House of Assembly, to ascertain the proportion of settled and unsettled lands in the colony, showed that twenty-three lots, embracing 458,580 acres, had not one settler ; that twelve lots, containing 120,000 acres, had only forty-eight families ; and that the whole population of the island was only 4,500. The inhabitants represented the state of affairs to the Home government, and prayed that those proprietors who had failed to carry out the terms of the grants should be compelled to fulfil their obligations. No action was taken on the petition at the time, but the British Parliament made an annual grant to defray the expenses of the Local government.

In the last years of the century, Prince Edward, the father of the Queen, being Commander-in-Chief of the Forces in B. N. A., caused fortifications to be erected for the protection of Charlottetown. In 1798, the House of Assembly, as a mark of respect to the Prince, gave the Province the name of Prince Edward Island, the change to take effect in 1800.

At the beginning of the 19th century, the House of Assembly again pressed upon the attention of the Home government the matters contained in their petition of 1797. The arrears of quit rents now amounted to the enormous sum of nearly £60,000 stg. The amount due by many of the grantees was greater than the lands would realize if brought to sale. The matter was attentively considered, and in 1802 liberal terms of settlement were offered to proprietors in arrear. The lots were divided into five classes. The first class, or those which had the full number of settlers, were to pay only four years' quit rent for all arrears to 1801. The second class, or those which had only half the stipulated number, were to pay five years' arrears. Third, those which had less than one-half and more than one-fourth, were to pay nine years' arrears. Fourth, those which had less than one-fourth were to pay twelve years' arrears ; and, lastly, the proprietors of townships wholly unoccupied were required to pay fifteen years' arrears. This settlement greatly facilitated the sale of land in the colony. Many of the proprietors were now able to dispose of their property, and in the course of a few years nearly one-third of the lots changed hands. Active steps were taken by the new land owners to encourage immigration. In 1803, the Earl of Selkirk brought out nearly eight hundred persons from the Highlands of Scotland.

In 1805, Gov. Fanning, who had been in office for nineteen years, was succeeded by Col. Desbarres, a military officer of fair abilities, who had been present at the taking of Quebec in 1759. Up to this time the progress of the colony had been very slow, and the war which a few years later broke out between Britain and the United States again retarded for a time the influx of settlers. In 1813, a brother of Sir Sidney Smith came out as governor. Mr. Smith called the Assembly together on the 15th of November, but about two months afterward, thinking the session had lasted long enough for all they had to do, he arbitrarily dismissed the House, and for nearly four years did not summon another Assembly. The differences between the governor and the new houses successively elected continued, till finally, in 1820, the Assembly framed an address expressing dissatisfaction with the governor's conduct. This address was forwarded to England through the Earl of Dalhousie, then Governor General. The agitation in the colony increased. In 1823, John Stewart, one of the most influential men in the island, was deputed to take home a petition. The governor endeavored to arrest him, but Stewart made good his escape, and reached England in December. The governor was recalled the following spring (1824).

The new governor, Colonel Ready, was fortunate enough to secure the confidence of the inhabitants. A new house of Assembly was summoned in 1825, and a large amount of general business transacted.

In 1827, a regular census was taken, and this showed that the population of the colony had increased to 23,266. The population of Charlottetown was 1649. Public improvements were pushed forward, roads widened, bridges constructed, and agriculture encouraged.

In 1830, an act was passed freeing Roman Catholics from all civil and political disabilities.

The quit rents now began to cause fresh agitation. By a proclamation issued in August, 1828, the governor announced that he had received orders to enforce the arrears of quit rents from 1st January, 1823. The arrears now amounted to £10,000 stg. The House of Assembly, and the inhabitants generally, petitioned the King to relinquish the arrears, and grant the accruing quit rents to be applied to internal improvements. The answer to these representations was that His Majesty would accept the annual sum of £1000 stg. in lieu of the accruing rents, and that this sum would be appropriated to meet the expenses of the civil establishment of the colony. The House did not accept this liberal proposal, and the matter rested there for the time.

A considerable number of emigrants at this time came out every year from various parts of England, Scotland and Ireland, and when the census was again taken, in 1833, the population numbered 32,292, an increase of nearly 40 per cent. in six years.

In 1834, an agitation commenced in favor of Responsible Government. The House of Assembly voted an address for an Executive Council distinct from the Legislative. An effort was also made to have an elective Legislative Council. The separation of the Executive and Legislative Councils was effected in 1839. The Executive Council was not to exceed nine in number. The Legislative Council was to be composed of twelve members. The revenue of this year exceeded that of the previous year by £5,000. The years that followed were marked by satisfactory progress. A geological exploration of the island was made by Dr. Abraham Gessner in 1846. Public opinion in favor of Responsible Government was now gaining strength. In 1847, the House passed an address to the Queen praying for the introduction of Responsible Government, and the governor expressed himself strongly in favor of it.

In 1848, an act received the Royal assent, which provided for a further assessment of land, if the Queen relinquished the quit rents during its continuance. The census was again taken this year, and the population was found to have increased to 62,634. The following spring the House again petitioned the Queen in favor of admitting Responsible Government, to the extent of giving the country four seats in the Executive Council. The Home authorities did not consider the colony in a proper condition for Responsible Government; but offered to surrender the quit rents, the revenue from Crown lands and general revenue, on condition that the colony paid for the civil establishment. A general election took place in February, 1850; the Legislature met on the 5th of March, and a large majority was in favor of Responsible Government. Governor Campbell offered the majority three seats in the Executive Council. They declined to accept them; refused to co-operate with the Executive Council as then constituted, and refused also to grant the supplies. An address to the Queen was prepared and the House was prorogued on the 26th of March. In October following, the governor, Sir Donald Campbell, whose administration had been highly popular, died, and Sir Alexander Bannerman was sent out to assume the government.

The Legislature having been convened on the 25th of March, 1851, the governor informed the Assembly that he had been empowered to introduce Responsible Government on condition that some compensation be allowed to certain retiring officers. This condition was complied with, and the Executive resigned on the 23rd of April. On the 25th of April, the new administration, having the support and confidence of the majority of the House of Assembly, was gazetted. During this session was passed a measure establishing a uniform letter postage rate of two pence, to any part of the island, and three-pence to any part of British North America. The following session an important act, known as the Free Education Act, became law; and next year (1853) was passed an act which conferred universal suffrage under certain restrictions.

By the census taken in 1855, the population was ascertained to be 71,496. There were 252 school-houses and 127 places of public worship.

An agitation commenced in 1857 with the object of introducing the Bible into schools as a book for daily use. The proposal met with much opposition; but finally in the year 1860, an act was passed by the Legislature declaring the introduction of the Bible into all public schools to be legally authorized. During the session of 1860, the extensive estates of the Earl of Selkirk, embracing 62,059 acres, were acquired by government for the sum of £6,586 stg. In the same year a land commission was appointed to enquire into the subjects of dispute relating to the tenure of lands, with the object of converting on equitable terms the leaseholds of the whole island into freeholds. Three commissioners were appointed, the Hon. J. H. Gray as the representative of the Crown, the Hon. Joseph Howe as the representative of the tenants, and Mr. Matthew Ritchie on behalf of the proprietors. The commission collected a great deal of evidence, and in August, 1861, made a report of which the principal points are as follows: 1. Lennox island, a valuable island in Richmond Bay, was to be ceded to the Indians, about a hundred of whom reside around the northern shores of the bay. 2nd. The claims of the Acadians, or French, were to be totally over-ruled. 3rd. The claims of descendants of U. E. loyalists to certain lands were recommended to the special consideration of the government. 4th. Escheat of the lands of proprietors was declared by the commissioners to be wholly impracticable. 5th. As to quit rents, no arrears to be recoverable, and no accruing quit rent to be claimed as long as the land tax was imposed. 6th. The fishery reservations were abolished, and the lands merged into the adjoining properties.

As to the mode of changing the leaseholds to freeholds, the commissioners recommended a loan of £100,000 stg., for the purpose of enabling the government to purchase the estates and then sell to the tenants. Or, if this loan could not be obtained, it was suggested that the proprietors should be compelled to sell direct to the tenants at rates either based on the rental or assessed by arbitrators.

The government have since acquired many of the proprietary estates in the island. In 1869, a Bill was passed empowering the government to expend the further sum of £30,000 in the purchase of lands. The local Executive Council in 1870 again suggested the introduction of a measure to compel proprietors of lands to sell to the government; but Lord Granville deferred the consideration of the subject in view of the probability that the colony might soon unite itself to the Dominion.

In September, 1864, a conference was held at Charlottetown to consider the practicability of a legislative union of the Provinces. At first delegates were to be sent only from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island; but the coalition government of Canada, pledged to the introduction of a federal system, having come into office, the Canadian government asked permission to send delegates, which was granted, and Canada joined in the conference. It was resolved that a further conference be held at Quebec, to consider the expediency of a federal union. Prince Edward Island sent delegates to the conference; but the Legislature subsequently repudiated the action of its delegates, and refused to sanction the plan of confederation agreed upon at the conference. The confederation therefore as first formed, did not embrace Prince Edward Island, but six years later, in 1873, terms of admission were agreed upon, and the Island became one of the Provinces of the Dominion.

DESCRIPTION OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

In form, the island resembles a crescent, the concave side being towards the gulf. Length, 130 miles, breadth about 34 miles, area 2,131 square miles, or 1,365,400 acres. The surface is slightly undulating, the chain of hills that extends across the country nowhere rising to a considerable height. The indentations along the coast are numerous. The principal harbors are Charlottetown, Georgetown, Bedeque, Cascompec, Malpeque, New London, and Murray harbors. There are also numerous ponds or lagoons. The climate is mild and healthful, and the soil remarkably fertile. The whole island was formerly covered with a magnificent growth of forest trees ; birch, beech, maple, elm, ash, pine, spruce, hemlock, fir, juniper, cedar, willow and poplar were the chief varieties. Shipbuilding is still carried on to a considerable extent.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Island of Newfoundland, the oldest of the B.N.A. colonies, was discovered in 1497, by Sir John Cabot and his son Sebastian, in a voyage made that year under the patronage of Henry VII. of England. Sebastian Cabot also touched at Newfoundland the following year, when he explored the coast from Hudson Bay to Florida.

Cabot's discovery is well authenticated, and the island was thereafter claimed by Britain. But it is not improbable that long before this date, the coast of the island had been fallen in with by voyagers animated by the love of adventure, or carried out of their usual course by stress of weather. One account has come down to us of a voyage undertaken in the tenth century by Biarne, son of Heriulf Bardson, a follower of Eric the Red. Heriulf is said to have emigrated from Iceland to Greenland, and formed a settlement there. At this time his son Biarne was absent on a voyage to Norway. On his return home, Biarne resolved to join his father in Greenland. The account of his voyage is given in the London Geographical Journal for 1838. It would appear that Biarne, who was imperfectly acquainted with the course, while seeking for Greenland, toward the end of his voyage, fell in with various unknown lands, supposed to be Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, &c. Ten years afterward Biarne, while on a visit to Eric, Earl of Norway, mentioned the fact of his having seen these unknown lands. Curiosity was excited, and Leif, a son of Eric, having equipped a small vessel, sailed on a voyage of exploration in the year 1000. He also observed the lands described by Biarne, and pushed on southward as far, it is supposed, as the coast of Massachusetts, to which he gave the name of Vinland. In 1002 a brother of Leif, named Thorwald, undertook a voyage to the unknown west, arrived safely at Vinland, and remained in the country two whole years. But while coasting along with the intention of returning home, Thorwald lost his life in an encounter with some Esquimaux.

These early discoveries are apparently entitled to credit, but not being followed up by the establishment of settlements were soon forgotten, and are now of little interest except to the antiquary.

When Cabot visited the island, the natives called the codfish which abounds there, bacalléos, which is also the name of the cod in the Basque or Breton idiom. Hence it has been conjectured that Breton fishermen may have resorted to the banks of Newfoundland previous to Cabot's discovery.

Three years after Cabot's voyage, the coast of Newfoundland was visited by a Portuguese explorer named Cortereal, whose report respecting the abundance of fish to be found there induced his countrymen to establish fisheries. The French, English, and Spaniards followed the example of the Portuguese, and in 1517 there were fifty vessels engaged in the fishery.

In 1524, Verazzani, a Florentine navigator in the service of the French king, touched at Newfoundland, and surveyed a large part of the coast of the United States. Verazzani and his entire expedition perished during another voyage undertaken soon afterward, and his sad fate for some years damped the ardor of the French for exploration in the new world.

In 1534, Jacques Cartier passed the coast of Newfoundland on his memorable voyage to the Gulf of the St. Lawrence. At this time the fisheries were growing in importance. In 1540, the ports of London, Barnstaple, Bideford and Bristol were prosecuting an extensive trade. In 1578 there were nearly 400 vessels engaged in the enterprise, of which 150 were French.

In the reign of Queen Elizabeth Sir Humphrey Gilbert is said to have equipped a small squadron with which he sailed from England in 1579, but the loss of one of his ships and other disasters obliged him to return home. With the assistance of his step-brother, Sir Walter Raleigh, he soon fitted out another expedition with which he sailed for Newfoundland in 1583. On arriving at the harbor of St. John's in the month of August, Gilbert took formal possession of the country in the Queen's name, and issued some laws for regulating the fisheries. On the return voyage, Sir Humphrey's ship, a vessel of only ten tons, foundered in a storm near the Azores, and the gallant commander perished.

Among subsequent attempts to colonize the island may be noticed that of a company of English gentlemen, including Lord Bacon and others, to whom James I., in 1610, by letters patent, gave all that part of the coast between Capes Bonavista and St. Mary. This association appointed as their agent a Bristol merchant, named Guy, who established a colony at Musquito Cove in Conception Bay.

In 1615, Captain Whitbourne was sent out by the Admiralty to take steps for the removal of the great abuses which prevailed at the fisheries. Whitbourne introduced some of the English forms of administration of justice, and endeavored to establish order in the settlements.

In 1622, James I., by letters patent, granted to Sir George Calvert, secretary of state, the peninsula formed by the Bays of Placentia and Trinity. Sir George (afterward Lord Baltimore) called this peninsula Avalon, and sent out as governor Capt. Wynn, who erected a large dwelling house and granary. Sir George himself subsequently visited the island, and resided there a short time.

In 1626, the fisheries had increased to such an extent that 150 vessels resorted to them from Devonshire alone. In 1633 another settlement was formed by Lord Falkland. About this time a code of regulations was promulgated by Charles I. with a view to preserve order and punish crime. The following year, the French, rather than relinquish the privilege of fishing on the coast, agreed to pay the British government a tribute of five per cent. on all fish caught by their fishermen.

Another settlement was established in 1654 by Sir David Kertk. "At this time," says Page, in his history of Newfoundland, "fifteen different settlements existed, containing about four hundred families." The jealousy of the merchants engaged in the fishery trade impeded the extension of permanent settlements. About 1670, an attempt was even made to break up the existing settlements.

In 1692, commenced a struggle between England and France for exclusive possession of the fisheries. Placentia, the principal French post on the island, was attacked and partially destroyed by a squadron of five ships under Admiral Williams. The French now resolved to become sole masters of the island. In 1696, a French fleet from Placentia, under Brouillon, aided by a military force under D'Iberville, attacked and destroyed the town of St. John's, and captured all the British settlements, with the exception of Bonavista and Carbonear, which were successfully defended. The Treaty of Ryswick, in 1697, restored the rights of the respective powers as they existed at the commencement of the war.

In 1702, hostilities were again resumed. Sir John Leake, who was sent out with a squadron by Queen Anne, captured a number of French vessels; but the French having obtained reinforcements from Canada, succeeded in destroying most of the British establishments on the island. Carbonear was almost the only post that could be defended with success. The English retaliated by taking Port Royal, and making themselves masters of Acadie. For eight years the conflict was continued with fluctuating fortune. At length, by the Treaty of Utrecht, in 1713, it was provided that Newfoundland should be ceded to Britain, the French having the right reserved to them of catching and drying fish on that part of the coast lying to the north of Cape Bonavista, and stretching along the western shore as far as Point Riche, but having no right to erect fortifications, or to remain longer on the island than the process of curing the fish required.

In 1728, Newfoundland was erected into a distinct Province, and Capt. Henry Osborne appointed the first governor. The office of governor has since been filled almost invariably by British naval officers. The island was divided into districts; Surrogate courts were established, and various improvements in the administration of justice introduced. In 1737, a Court of Oyer and Terminer was established, consequent upon the increase of crime, and the expense of sending offenders to England for trial. In 1741, a Vice-admiralty Court was established. In 1761, the island again suffered from the attacks of the French. The following year, St. John's was surprised and captured by a French fleet. Aid was solicited from Lord Colville, then at Halifax. Admiral Colville promptly sailed for St. John's and having effected a landing at Torbay, speedily compelled the French to surrender the town. The French fleet escaped from the harbor under cover of a fog.

The Treaty of Paris, in 1763, restored peace, and confirmed the title of England to the island. The French simply retained the privilege granted them by the Treaty of Utrecht, of fishing along part of the seaboard.

About this time, Capt. James Cook, the celebrated navigator, was employed by the English government in making surveys of the coast. In 1763, the coast of Labrador was annexed to Newfoundland. The population of the Province at this time is stated to have been about thirteen thousand of whom not more than half were permanent residents.

During the American Revolutionary war, Newfoundland suffered greatly from the non-intercourse Act. This was a law passed by the first Congress, prohibiting the exportation of food to the island because the inhabitants had remained faithful to the mother country. The people of Newfoundland had been dependent on New England for supplies to the extent of nearly £350,000 annually. These supplies were suddenly cut off, and French and American privateers, at the same time preyed on the coast and harbors. When peace was restored in 1783, the Americans retained the right of fishing, but the processes of curing and drying the fish were to be carried on in the unsettled creeks and harbors of Nova Scotia, the Magdalen Islands, and Labrador.

The year 1775 is noted for a terrible storm. The sea suddenly rose twenty feet; hundreds of vessels were driven ashore and totally wrecked; and at least three hundred persons perished.

A Court of Common Pleas was established in 1789, and also the "Supreme Court of Newfoundland," Mr. Reeves, Chief Justice.

In 1796, England and France being at war, Newfoundland was once mose harassed by attacks of French vessels. The town of Bay of Bulls was captured and destroyed; but the enemy declined to attack St. John's, which had been made ready for vigorous resistance by the governor, Sir James Wallace.

In 1803, schools were introduced in several localities, and benevolent societies organized for the relief of the poor. In 1807 was established the first newspaper, called The Royal Gazette and Newfoundland Advertiser, John Ryan, proprietor. This journal has retained its original name and changed hands but once. In 1808, the first volunteer militia were enrolled at St. John's. The coast of Labrador was again included in the government of Newfoundland.

The island suffered during the war of 1812-1814 from high prices and scarcity of provisions. Flour sold at £6 to £7 per barrel; pork £8 to £10 per barrel, and other provisions at proportionate rates. The severity of these prices was, however, compensated by the increase in the value of articles exported. As soon as peace was proclaimed, there commenced a season of great commercial depression. The value of fish fell suddenly from forty shillings to ten shillings per quintal, and the same thing occurred with other exports.

Two years afterwards a destructive fire occurred at St. John's, causing a loss of $500,000. In the month of November, 1817, two other extensive fires occurred at St. John's, destroying two hundred houses, together with a large quantity of provisions imported for the winter supply. The destitution caused by these conflagrations was relieved by contributions from England and other quarters. One munificent donation came from the citizens of Boston, who despatched a ship laden with provisions for the relief of the sufferers.

At this time (1817) the population was 80,000. The produce of the country was estimated at £2,000,000 stg., and eight hundred vessels were employed in trade and the fisheries. More than three centuries had thus elapsed without any rapid progress, and without any attempt to open op the island for settlement. In fact, England discouraged colonization during the early period of its history. "That the inhabitants of Newfoundland colonized the country in defiance of the policy of the British government is in some degree true," says Earl Granville, in a despatch dated 16th May, 1870. In 1826, however, an effort to improve the condition of the Province was made by the new governor, Sir Thomas Cochrane, and with very marked success. Improvements were made in the judicial system; public roads were constructed; grants of land taken up, and cultivation extended. The population increased to 98,000 before 1845.

In 1832, a representative Assembly was granted to the colony, comprising fifteen members. The Legislative Council consisted of nine members.

The first geological survey of the island was undertaken in 1838 under the direction of J. B. Jukes. Since then copper, lead, and other ores have been found on different parts of the coast. The restrictions on grants of land which were imposed for the prevention of encroachment on French rights in the fisheries, have recently been so relaxed as to encourage, as far as practicable, the development of the mineral and other resources of the island.

In 1843, the House of Assembly was incorporated with the Council, and called the "Amalgamated Assembly of Newfoundland." It numbered twenty-five members.

The year 1846 was marked by two great disasters. In June the town of St. John's was almost wholly destroyed by fire. In September following, a furious hurricane swept over the island; many lives were lost and a vast amount of property destroyed. Great distress prevailed for a time, and contributions, urgently needed, were again obtained from the mother country and the colonies.

In 1847, the amalgamated form of government was set aside, and the two Houses met separately. In 1854, the electoral districts were re-arranged, and the number of the Assembly increased; the Executive and Legislative Councils were separated and Responsible Government fully established. The House of Assembly consisted of thirty members.

MANITOBA.

The Province of Manitoba was constituted by an Act of the Parliament of Canada passed in 1870. The new Province has a representation in the Senate of two members, and in the Commons, of four members. The local legislature consists of a legislative council of seven members, and legislative assembly of twenty-four. By the terms of union, interest was to be allowed on $472,000, as the Province had no debt; subsidy $30,000 per annum, and 80 cents per head until the population reaches 400,000. In 1876, an Act was passed, granting an additional subsidy of $26,746 per annum for 6½ years.

On the 11th January, 1871 the first elections for the local house were held in Manitoba. On the 28th of the same month the first ministry was formed as follows: Hon. James McKay, President of Council; Hon. H. J. Clarke, Q.C. Attorney General; Hon. Joseph Royal, Provincial Secretary; Hon. Thomas Howard, Treasurer; Hon. John Norquay, Minister of Public Works. The first senators were Hon. M. A Girard and John Sutherland.

In September, 1871, Manitoba was threatened with an invasion of Fenians from the United States. Prompt measures for resistance were adopted by the local authorities, and a force of two hundred militia men was sent to Fort Garry by the Dominion Government.

The census of 1870 showed the population of Manitoba to be 11,953.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Province of British Columbia existed as a separate and independent Province until 1871, when the Legislature agreed to terms of Union with the Dominion of Canada. On the 5th of July of that year the union was consummated. The terms of admission allowed the new member of the Confederation three representatives in the Senate, and six in the House of Commons. It was also agreed that the Dominion was to build a railway to the Pacific, which was to be commenced

NORTH-WEST TERRITORIES.

In 1869 an Act was passed by the Parliament of Canada, providing for a Territorial Government for the North-West Territory, arrangements for the purchase of which from the Hudson's Bay Comapny for $300,000 had been concluded. The same year Hon. Wm. Macdougall was appointed Lieutenant Governor of Rupert's Land and North-Western Territories. Difficulties supervened which led to the formation of the Province of Manitoba out of a portion of Rupert's Land. Acts were subsequently passed providing for the government of the remaining territory, and in 1876 Hon. David Laird was appointed Lieutenant Governor of the North-West Territories.

The following is a comparative statement according to figures in the Census of 1871 and that of 1881 of the population of the Cities and Towns in the Province of Ontario. In the cases of the towns it has not always been possible to find comparative figures, as many of them were not incorporated in 1871 and were not separate Census districts.

CUSTOMS TARIFF.

1.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that the value of all Bottles, Flasks, Jars, Demijohns, Carboys, Casks, Hogsheads, Pipes, Barrels, and all other vessels or Packages manufactured of Tin, Iron, Lead, Zinc, Glass, or any other material, and capable of holding liquid; Crates, Barrels and other Packages containing Glass, China, Crockery or Earthenware, and all Packages in which goods are commonly placed for home consumption, including Cases in which Bottled Spirits, Wines or Malt Liquors are contained, and every Package, being the first receptacle or covering, enclosing goods for purpose of sale, shall in all cases, not otherwise provided for, in which they contain goods subject to an ad valorem duty, be taken and held to be a part of the fair market value of such goods for duty, and when they contain goods subject to specific duty only, such Packages shall be charged with a duty of Customs of twenty per cent. ad valorem, to be computed upon their original cost or value; and all or any of the above Packages described as capable of holding Liquids, when containing goods exempt from duty under this Act, shall be charged with a duty of twenty per cent ad valorem; but all Packages not hereinbefore specified, and not specially charged with duty by any unrepealed enactment, and being the usual and ordinary Packages in which goods are packed for exportation only, according to the general usage and custom of trade, shall be free of duty.

2.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that on all goods imported into Canada, subject under this Act or any other Act to ad valorem duty, upon which a drawback of duties, has been allowed by the Government of the country where the same were manufactured, the amount of such drawback shall in all cases be taken and considered to be a part of the fair market value of such goods, and duty shall be collected thereon; and in cases where the amount of such drawback shall have been deducted from the value of such goods upon the free of the invoice under which entry is to be made, the Collector of Customs or proper officer shall add the amount of such deduction, and collect and cause to be paid the lawful duty thereupon, and the fair market value of all goods, wares and merchandise imported into Canada, shall be understood to be the ordinary wholesale price at which the same are sold for home consumption in the country where they are purchased or manufactured without deduction of any kind because of any drawback paid or to be paid thereon, or because of any special arrangement between the seller and purchaser, having reference to the exportation of such goods, or the exclusive right to territorial limits for the sale thereof, or because of any royalty payable upon patent rights, but not payable when goods are purchased for exportation, or on account of any other consideration by which a special reduction in price might or could be obtained: Provided that nothing herein shall be understood to apply to general fluctuations of market values.

3.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that any or all of the following articles, that is to say: Animals of all kinds, green fruit, hay, straw, bran, seeds of all kinds, vegetables (including potatoes and other roots), plants, trees and shrubs coal and coke, salt, hops, wheat, peas and beans, barley, rye, oats, Indian corn, buckwheat, and all other grain, flour of wheat and flour of rye, Indian meal and oatmeal and flour or meal of any other grain, butter, cheese, fish (salted or smoked), lard, tallow, meats (fresh, salted or smoked), and lumber may be imported into Canada free of duty or at a less rate of duty than is provided by this Act, upon proclamation of the Governor in Council, which may be issued whenever it appears to his satisfaction that similar articles from Canada may be imported into the United States free of duty, or at a rate of duty not exceeding that payable on the same under such proclamation, when imported into Canada.

4.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that if at any time any greater duty of Customs should be payable in the United States of America on tea or coffee imported from Canada than on tea or coffee imported from any other country, then the Governor in Council may impose on tea or coffee imported into Canada from the said United States, an additional duty of Customs equal to the duty payable in the United States on tea or coffee imported from Canada: Provided that tea or coffee imported into Canada from any country other than the said United States, but passing in bond through the United States, shall be taken and rated as a direct importation from the country wherever the tea or coffee was purchased.

5.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that an allowance may be made for deterioration by natural decay or breakage upon all perishable and brittle goods imported into Canada, such as green fruits and vegetables, crockery, china, glass and glassware, provided such damage is found to exceed twenty-five per cent. of the value thereof, upon an examination to be made by an appraiser or proper officer of Customs, at the first landing, or within three days of such landing; but such allowance shall be only for the amount of loss in excess of twenty-five per cent. of the whole quantity of such goods contained or included in any one invoice; and provided the duty has been paid on the full value thereof, a refund of such duty may be allowed and paid in the proportion and on fulfilment of the conditions above specified, but not otherwise, on application to the Minister of Customs.

6.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that in determining the dutiable value of merchandise, except when imported from Great Britain, there shall be added to the cost the actual wholesale price or fair market value at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence the same has been imported into Canada, the cost of inland transportation, shipment, and transshipment, with all the expenses included, from the place of growth, production or manufacture, whether by land or water, to the vessel in which shipment is made, either in transitu or direct to Canada.

7.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that the Governor in Council shall from time to time establish such regulations, not inconsistent with law, as may be required to secure a just, faithful and impartial appraisal of all goods, wares and merchandise imported into Canada, and just and proper entries of the actual or fair market value thereof, and of the weights, measures and other quantities thereof, as each case may require, and such regulations, whether general or special, so made by the Governor in Council, shall have the full force and authority of law, and it shall be the duty of the appraisers of Canada and every of them, and every person who shall act as such appraiser, or of the Collector of Customs, as the case may be, by all reasonable ways and means in his or their power to ascertain, estimate and appraise the true and fair market value and wholesale price, any invoice or affidavit thereto to the contrary notwithstanding, of the merchandise at the time of the exportation, and in the principal markets of the country whence the same has been imported into Canada, and the proper weights, measures or other quantities, and the fair market value or wholesale price of every of them as the case may require.

8.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that no refund of duty paid shall be allowed because of any alleged inferiority or deficiency in quantity of goods imported and entered, and which have passed into the custody of the importer under permit of the Collector of Customs, nor because of the omission in the invoice of any trade discount or other matter or thing which might have the effect of reducing the value of such goods for duty, unless the same shall have been reported to the Collector of Customs within ten days of the date of entry, and the said goods shall have been examined by the said Collector, or by an appraiser or other proper officer of Customs, and the proper rate or amount of reduction certified by him after such examination, and if such Collector or proper officer reports that the goods in question cannot be identified as those named in the invoice and entry in question, then and in such case no refund of the duty or any part thereof shall in any case be allowed, and all applications for refund of duty in such cases shall be submitted with the evidence and all particulars for decision of the Minister of Customs, who may then order payment on finding the evidence to be sufficient and satisfactory.

9.—Resolved, That it is expedient to provide that the whole or part of the duty of thirty per centum ad valorem imposed by this Act upon wines imported into Canada, may be dispensed with upon proclamation of the Governor in Council, which may be issued whenever it appears to his satisfaction that the Governments of France and Spain, or either of them, have made changes in their tariff of duties imposed upon articles imported from Canada in reduction or repeal of the duties now in force in said countries.

10.—Resolved, That it is expedient to repeal all Acts and parts or Schedules of Acts, and all Orders in Council imposing any duties of Customs upon goods, wares and merchandise, or providing for the exemption of goods, wares and merchandise from Customs duty, when imported into Canada, and to make the following provisions in lieu thereof:—

EXCISE DUTIES, &c.

1. That any party in whose favor a license is granted to have and use a chemical still, shall, upon receiving the said license, pay to the Collector of Inland Revenue the sum of ten dollars.

2. That any party in whose favor a license for manufacturing Tobacco wholly or in part from foreign leaf is granted, shall pay therefor to the Collector of Internal Revenue the sum of seventy-five dollars.

3. That any party in whose favor a license for manufacturing Tobacco exclusively from Canadian leaf is granted, shall pay therefor to the Collector of Inland Revenue the sum of fifty dollars.

4. That any party in whose favor a license for manufacturing in bond for exportation is granted, shall pay therefor to the Collector of Inland Revenue the sum of three hundred dollars.

5. That any party in whose favor a license to have an EXCISE BONDING WAREHOUSE is granted, shall pay to the Collector of Inland Revenue for one such Warehouse the sum of forty dollars, and for each additional Warehouse the sum of twenty dollars.

6. That as respects the duties of EXCISE ON SPIRITS:

(a.) When the material used in the manufacture thereof consists of not less than ninety per cent. by weight of raw or unmalted grain, on every gallon of the strength of proof by Sykes' Hydrometer, and so in proportion for any greater or less strength than the strength of proof, and for every less quantity than a gallon, one dollar.

(b.) When manufactured exclusively from malted barley taken to the distillery in bond and on which no duty of Customs or Excise has been paid, on every gallon of the strength of proof by Sykes' Hydrometer, and so in proportion for any greater or less strength, and for any less quantity than a gallon, one dollar and two cents.

(c.) When manufactured exclusively from molasses or sugar taken to the distillery in bond, and on which no duty of Customs has been paid, on every gallon of the strength of proof by Sykes' Hydrometer, and so in proportion for any greater or less strength, and for any less quantity than a gallon, one dollar and three cents.

7. That as respects the duties of Excise on manufactured Tobacco, the said duties shall be as follows:

On manufactured TOBACCO AND SNUFF of all kinds, except Cigars, made in whole or in part from foreign or imported leaf Tobacco and containing not less than ten per cent. by weight of moisture, and so in proportion for any greater or less degree of moisture, on every pound or less quantity than a pound, twenty cents.

ON CIGARS made in whole or in part from foreign or imported leaf Tobacco and containing not less than ten per cent. by weight of moisture, and so on in proportion for every greater or less degree of moisture, on every pound or less quantity than a pound, forty cents.

On Manufactured Tobacco of all kinds (except Cigars and common Canada Twist), when made solely from Tobacco grown in Canada and in a manufactory where no imported or foreign Tobacco is used or kept, and containing not less than ten per cent. of moisture, and so in proportion for every greater or less degree of moisture, on every pound or less quantity than a pound, fourteen cents.

On Cigars made solely from Tobacco grown in Canada, and made in a manufactory where no foreign or imported Tobacco is used or kept, and containing not less than ten per cent. of moisture, and so in proportion for every greater or less degree of moisture, on every pound or less quantity than a pound, thirty cents.

8. That as respects the duties of Excise on Vinegar:

Vinegar containing six per cent. of acetic acid, the strength to be determined by such tests as may from time to time be established by Orders in Council, and so in proportion for any greater or less strength, on every gallon or less than a gallon, four cents.

9. That as respects the duty of Excise on Methylated Spirits:

Methylated Spirits being composed of alcohol mixed with wood naphtha in such proportions, and subject to such regulations, as may from time to time be made by the Treasury Board, there shall be paid a duty of fifteen cents for every gallon of the strength of proof, and so in proportion for every greater or less strength, and for every less quantity than a gallon.

10. That any provisions imposing any new duty, or making any alteration in the mode of calculating any such duty by which the amount thereof may be increased or diminished, shall come into force immediately on the day of passing of the Act making such alterations, and shall apply to and the duties hereby imposed shall be payable on all Spirits and Tobacco, Vinegar, Fermented Beverages or Methylated Spirits, distilled, manufactured or made, or taken out of bond for consumption on and after the said day, and such alterations as aforesaid shall apply to and the duties hereby imposed shall be payable on all malt held by any brewer, maltster, distiller, or other person on the said day, or manufactured or made thereafter, and the duties hereby made payable on licenses shall be payable only on licenses issued after the said day, existing licenses remaining in force during the time for which they were granted.

All goods manufactured in bond shall, if taken out of bond for consumption in Canada, be subject to duties of Excise equal to the duties of Customs to which they would be subject if imported from Great Britain and entered for consumption in Canada; and whenever any article not the produce of Canada, upon which a duty of Excise would be levied if produced in Canada, is taken into a Bonded Manufactory, the difference between the duty of Excise to which it would be so liable and the Customs duty which would be levied on such articles if imported and entered for consumption, shall be paid as duty of Excise when it is taken into the Bonded Manufactory.

Inspection Fee on Petroleum: 5 cts. per barrel if not more than 50 gallons; over 50 gallons, 5 cents extra for every 50 gallons; not more than 10 gallons, 3 cents.

LETTER RATES, ETC.

The rate of postage on a letter posted within the Dominion of Canada, for transmission by mail to any place in Canada, is 3 cents per half ounce weight; but the Statute provides that this rate must be prepaid by Postage Stamp at the time of posting the letter.

Any such letter posted wholly unpaid (or not prepaid one full rate of 3 cents) cannot be forwarded to its destination, but will be sent to the Dead Letter Office, by first mail, for return to the writer.

Letters as aforesaid posted in Canada, and addressed to places in Canada, when weighing more than half an ounce, and liable therefore to two or more rates of postage, will be transmitted by mail to destination, though not fully prepaid, if as much as one full rate of 3 cents has been prepaid thereon by Postage Stamp; and will in such cases be forwarded charged with double the amount of deficient postage not prepaid. Thus, if such a letter weighing more than ½ oz., and not exceeding 1 oz. in weight, be posted prepaid 3 cents only, it will be rated 6 cents unpaid—"more to pay"—and forwarded to its address.

On Letters posted at an office to be delivered from it, commonly known as "drop letters," the rate will be 1 cent per ½ oz.; to be in all cases prepaid by Postage Stamp affixed to such letter when posted. Drop letters, if re-directed in consequence of a change in the residence of the person addressed, become liable to the ordinary rate of 3 cents per ½ oz. less the amount prepaid. Insufficiently paid drop letters will be rated with double the amount of deficient postage.

INTRODUCTORY 40c. INTERMEDIATE 65c. LOVELL'S SCHOOL GEOGRAPHIES. ADVANCED 1.50. JOHN LOVELL & SON, Montreal.

LETTERS TO AND FROM MILITIA WHEN ON ACTIVE SERVICE.

Letters for or from non-commissioned officers and privates of the Militia of Canada, when on active servicee, can be forwarded between any one place in Canada and any other place in Canada, under the above regulations, on pre-payment of 2 cents for each letter.

The usual registration fee must be prepaid on all registered letters sent to or from Seamen or Militia on active service, under the above regulations, in addition to the 2 cents postage thereon.

Newspapers, books or parcels or any matter sent to or from Seamen and Militia on active service, other than letters, are charged the ordinary rates of postage.

LETTERS OR PARCELS CONTAINING CONTRABAND GOODS.

The Postmaster-General, or any Postmaster by him to that effect duly authorized, may detain any Post Letter or other article of mail matter suspected to contain any contraband goods, wares or merchandise, or any goods, wares or merchandise on the importation of which into Canada any duties or customs are by law payable, and suspected to have been enclosed therein, and sent by post, to evade payment of such duties, and forward the same to the nearest Collector of Her Majesty's Customs, who, in the presence of the person to whom the same may be addressed, or, in his absence, in case of non-attendance, after due notice in writing from such collector requiring his attendance, left at or forwarded by the post, according to the address on the letter or other article of mail matter, may open and examine the same.

And if, on any such examination, any contraband goods, wares or merchandise, or any goods, wares or merchandise on the importation of which into Canada any duties of customs are payable, are discovered, such collector may detain the letter or other article of mail matter and its contents, for the purpose of prosecution; and if no contraband goods, wares or merchandise, or any goods, wares or merchandise on the importation of which into Canada any duties of customs are by law payable, are discovered in such letter or other article of mail matter, it shall, if the party to whom it is addressed is present, be handed over to him, on his paying the postage (if any) charge thereon; or, if he is not present, it shall be returned to the Post Office, to be forwarded to the place of its address.

NEWSPAPERS.

Newspapers and periodicals printed and published in Canada, and issued not less frequently than once a month from a known office of publication or news agency, and addressed and posted by and from the same for transmission by mail to regular subscribers or news agents in Canada, may be posted by the same on prepayment of a Rate of one cent for each pound weight in bulk, or fraction of a pound; and such newspapers and periodicals are to be put up into packages and delivered into the Post Office, and the postage rate thereon prepaid by the publisher or news agent, being the sender thereof, under such regulations as the Postmaster-General may from time to time make. All packages of newspapers and periodicals prepaid at the bulk rate of 1c. per lb. should be stamped "prepaid by publishers" at the Post Office where such packages are mailed.

JOHN LOVELL & SON,
MONTREAL. Price 65c. LOVELL'S INTERMEDIATE GEOGRAPHY.

On all newspapers and periodicals posted in Canada, other than those addressed to regular subscribers or news agents, from office of publication or news agency, including all newspapers and periodicals published less frequently than once a month, the rate will be one cent per four ounces, to be invariably prepaid by postage stamp.

Newspapers and periodicals weighing less than one ounce each may be posted singly if prepaid by postage stamp one half cent each.

Transient newspapers and periodicals include all newspapers and periodicals posted in Canada, other than Canada newspapers sent from the office of publication, and British newspapers posted by news agents for regular subscribers in Canada. When addressed to any place within the Dominion, they must be prepaid the following rates by postage stamp :—

If weighing less than one oz., half a cent each.

If weighing over one oz., one cent per four ozs. or fraction of four ozs.

Specimen copies of newspapers and periodicals from the office of publication are to be treated as transient newspapers or periodicals, the rate upon which is one cent per four ozs.

British or United States newspapers or periodicals, re-posted in Canada, must be prepaid by stamp, at the rate of one cent per four ounces, or fraction of four ounces.

British newspapers and periodicals, however, brought by mail to Canadian booksellers or news agents, and re-posted by them to regular subscribers in Canada, may be mailed by such Canadian booksellers or news agents free of postage.

MISCELLANEOUS MATTER.

On all pamphlets, occasional publications, printed circulars, prices current hand-bills, book and newspaper manuscripts, printers' proof sheets, whether corrected or not; maps, prints, drawings, engravings, lithographs, photographs, when not on glass or in cases containing glass, botanical and entomological specimens, when properly put up, so as to prevent injury to the contents of the mails, sheet music, whether printed or written; documents wholly or partly printed or written, such as deeds, insurance policies, militia and school returns, or other documents of like nature, the rate of postage is one cent for each four ounces; provided that no letter or other communication intended to serve the purpose of a letter be sent or enclosed in any such package or thing mentioned, and that the same be sent in covers open at the ends or sides, or otherwise so put up as to admit of the contents being, if necessary, easily withdrawn for examination by the officers of the Post Office, to ensure compliance with this provision ; if enclosed in sealed envelopes notched at the ends or sides, or with the corners cut off, letter rate of postage will be charged ; and that the postage rate be prepaid by postage stamp or stamped post bands or wrappers, in all cases. Limit of weight 4 lbs. To all parts of Manitoba and the North West Territories (except the City of Winnipeg, to which the 4 lb. limit applies) and British Columbia, the limit of weight is 2 lbs. 3 ozs.

BOOK PACKETS.

Every book packet must be posted either without a cover (in which case it must not be fastened, whether by means of gum, wafer, sealing wax, postage stamp or otherwise), or in a cover entirely open at both ends so as to admit of the contents being easily withdrawn for examination ; otherwise it is treated as a letter and charged with postage accordingly. For the greater security of the contents, however, it may be tied at the ends with string ; Postmasters are authorized to cut the string in such cases, if necessary to enable them to examine the contents ; but, if they do so, they must again tie up the packet.

It must not contain any letter open or sealed, or any writing intended to serve the purpose of a letter, or any sealed enclosure whatever.

A very useful Publication. Please send $3 for a copy.

No book packet must exceed five pounds in weight, nor must the size exceed two feet in length, or one foot in width or depth.

Book packets addressed to Manitoba (except the city of Winnipeg to which the limit is five pounds) or British Columbia must not exceed 2 lbs. 3 ozs. in weight

The postage must be prepaid by stamps.

Book packets for places within the Dominion cannot be registered unless sent by parcel post and prepaid at parcel post rate when the usual parcel post registration fee of five cents will be charged.

A book packet may contain any number of separate books, publications, works of literature or art, maps or prints, photographs, when not on glass or in frames containing glass, drawings, engravings, lithographs, sheet music, whether printed or written, deeds, and any quantity of paper, vellum or parchment.

PATTERN AND SAMPLE POST.

Patterns or Samples of Merchandise or of goods for sale, not exceeding twenty-four ounces in weight, may be posted in Canada, for transmission to any place within the Dominion, on pre-payment by postage stamp of a rate of one cent per four ozs. Pattern and Sample Post is restricted to bona fide trade patterns or Samples of Merchandise. Goods sent for sale, or in execution of an order (however small the quantity may be), or any articles sent by one private individual to another which are not actually patterns or samples, are not admissible.

If the above rate is not fully prepaid, the packet is rated with the deficient postage and a fine of five cents in addition.

Packets of Patterns or Samples addressed to any place in Canada, can be registered on affixing thereto registration stamps of the value of five cents in addition to postage stamps representing the ordinary postage rate, provided such packets be duly handed into a Post Office for registration.

The following conditions must be observed with respect to Patterns or Samples of merchandise posted in Canada for transmission as above :

The postage must be prepaid by postage stamp.

Patterns or Samples must be sent in covers open at the ends, and in such a manner as to be easy of examination. But samples of seeds, drugs, and such like articles, which cannot be sent in covers of this kind,—but such articles only,—may be posted enclosed in boxes, or in bags of linen, or other material, fastened in such a manner that they may be easily opened ; so as to enable the officers of the Post Office readily to satisfy themselves as to the nature of the contents.

There must be no writing or printing upon or in any packet except the address of the person for whom it is intended, the address of the sender, a trade mark or number, and the price of the article.

Such articles as scissors, knives, razors, forks steel pens, nails, keys, watch machinery, metal tubing, pieces of metal or ore, provided that they be packed and guarded in so secure a manner as to afford complete protection to the contents of the mail bags, and to the officers of the Post Offices while at the same time they may be easily examined, may be sent as samples.

PARCELS.

Parcels closed at the ends and sides, and not exceeding five lbs. in weight, may be posted at any Post Office in Canada, for conveyance to any other Post Office in the Dominion (with the exception, noted in paragraph 11), at the following rates :

For each parcel weighing not more than 4 ozs, 6 cents.

Exceeding 4 ozs., and not exceeding 8 ozs, 12 cents.

For each additional 4ozs. or fraction thereof, 6c.

No letter or letters must be enclosed.

The parcel must not contain any explosive substance or glass, liquids, fish, fruit, or other matter likely to injure the ordinary contents of the mail. The weight of the parcel must not exceed five pounds, nor the size exceed two feet in length, or one foot in breadth or thickness.

The parcel should have the words "By Parcel Post," plainly written on the address. It should be well and strongly put up, and be legibly addressed to the Post Office address of the intended receiver, the name of the County in which the said Office is situated being added.

REGISTRATION.

(Registration Stamps are only to be used in payment of Registration Fees, and must not be used in prepayment of postage.)

On every letter and packet posted for registration, should be affixed, in addition to a stamp or stamps defining the postage, a registered letter stamp corresponding in value to the fee as given in the table of postage rates, page xxxiv.

On a parcel or packet of patterns or samples addressed to any part of Canada the registration fee is five cents, this fee must be paid by a five cent registration stamp.

All insufficiently paid registered letters should be sent to the Dead Letter Office by first mail.

Every letter or packet containing value should have affixed thereto a registered letter stamp, and should be presented to the Postmaster or his clerk for registration, and a receipt obtained therefor. On no account should it be dropped into a letter box, as in such cases the rule requiring a receipt to be given by the Postmaster for every registered letter or packet cannot be complied with.

Registration of voters' lists in Ontario.—Voters' lists required by the Statutes of Ontario (cap. 4, 38 Vic.), to be sent by post, registered by the clerks of the several municipalities of Ontario, may, when so posted, be admitted to registration, if prepaid at the rate of 1c. per 4 ozs., together with the registration fee of 2c., which must be prepaid by registration stamp, and not with ordinary postage stamps.

Registered letters and packets can only be delivered to the parties to whom they are addressed or to their order, and a receipt must be given on the delivery of each registered letter in a book kept by every postmaster for that purpose.

Postmasters are instructed not to accept for registration, letters addressed either to initials, or what may appear to be fictitious names, as it is impossible to obtain any satisfactory receipt or assurance of proper delivery of letters of this class.

It should be clearly understood that registration does not make the Postmaster-General responsible for the contents of a registered letter or parcel if lost or stolen. The registration simply makes its transmission more secure, by rendering it practicable to trace it, when passing from one place to another in Canada, from its receipt to its delivery.

POSTAGE STAMPS, STAMPED ENVELOPES, POST CARDS AND POST BANDS.

MONEY ORDERS.

Money orders are issued at every Money Order Office in Canada, on every other Money Order Office in Canada, as well as on every Money Order Office in the United Kingdom, Newfoundland and British India. Money orders are also issued at every Money Order Office in the above countries, payable at the Money Order Offices in Canada.

Money orders are also drawn by all the Money Order Offices in Canada on certain authorized offices in the United States.

A very useful Publication. LOVELL'S GAZETTEER OF BRITISH NORTH AMERICA. Just Published, in Montreal, by JOHN LOVELL & SON. Please send $3 for a copy.

Post Offices in Canada at which money orders are issued and paid, are distinguished in the List of Post Offices, by being printed in italics.

The rate of commission charged on Money orders drawn by one Money Order Office in Canada, on any other Money Order Office in Canada, is a follows :—

If not exceeding in amount $4				2	Cts.
Exceeding $4 and not exceeding $10 ...				5	"
"	10	"	"	20.... 10	"
"	20	"	"	40 ... 20	"
"	40	"	"	60 .. 30	"
"	60	"	"	80.... 40	"
"	80	"	"	100.... 50	"

No half cents can be introduced into orders.

No money order exceeding $100 in amount can be granted on any office in Canada; but postmasters are at liberty to grant two or more orders for $100, or for any lesser sum. They cannot, however, grant two or more orders for sums of or under $10 on the same day to the same applicant, in favor of the same payee.

Money orders on the United Kingdom and Newfoundland are drawn in sterling money. If on the United Kingdom, they may be for any sum up to ten pounds. If on Newfoundland, for any sum up to twenty pounds. They must not, however, exceed the higher amounts; but postmasters are at liberty to issue two or more separate orders for ten pounds each on the United Kingdom, or for twenty pounds each on Newfoundland, or for any smaller sum. No half-pence can be introduced into sterling orders.

The rate of commission charged on orders on the United Kingdom, over and above the currency value of the sterling, is as follows :—

For orders not exceeding £2-10 sterling.....				20	cts.
Exceeding £2.10 and not exceeding £5 ster.				40	"
"	5	"	"	7.10 "	60 "
"	7.10	"	"	10 "	80 "

The rate of commission charged on orders on Newfoundland, over and above the value of the sterling, is as follows :—

For orders not exceeding £5 sterling.....				25	cts.
Exceeding £5 and not exceeding £10 ster..				50	"
"	10	"	"	15 "	75 "
"	15	"	"	20 "	$1 "

Money orders on the United States are drawn in Canada currency, and may be for any sum not exceeding $50. Postmasters are, however, at liberty to issue two or more separate orders on the United States for $50 each.

The rate of commission charged on money orders on the United States is:

On Money Orders not exceeding $10.....				10	cts.
Exceeding $10 and not exceeding 20.....				20	"
"	20	"	"	30	30 "
"	30	"	"	40.....	40 "
"	40	"	"	50.....	50 "

Persons making application for this class of orders will bear in mind that money orders on the United States can only be granted payable at certain Post Offices, a list of which is in the hands of every Postmaster, who will give the intending remitter any information he may desire as to the Post Offices authorized by the United States Government to pay money orders issued in the Dominion of Canada; and, also, that it is necessary to be very particular to give the correct name and address of the payee, and the name of the State or Territory in which the office of payment is situated.

Money orders drawn in Sterling Money, are issued in Canada on British India, for any sum not exceeding £10, at the following rate :—

Not exceeding £2.....				30	cts.
Exceeding £2 and not exceeding £5.....				60	"
"	5	"	"	7.....	90 "
"	7	"	"	10.....	$1 20 "

Applicants for money orders must always use the printed application forms, in which they will fill up the particulars of the order required. These forms are supplied gratuitously at all Money Order Offices.

Penza	10	Otterburn	38	St. Boniface (opposite Winnipeg)	65	Selkirk	84
Armand	18	Muerville	43

This road runs along the eastern side of the Red River, and connects at Selkirk with the main line of the Canada Pacific Railway, and at St. Vincent with the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway. From Selkirk the Canada Pacific is in running order eastward to Tyndall, 8; Beausejour, 16; Whitemouth, 41; Rennie, 61; Telford, 75; Cross Lake, 77; Ingolf, 83; Kalmar, 91; Lake Deception, 98; Ostersund, 103; Rat Portage (Keewatin) 113 miles. From Winnipeg westward the road is in operation to Portage la Prairie, 70 miles, and the rails are laid to within a few miles of the western boundary of the province of Manitoba. From the boundary, the line, as projected, takes a north-westerly course to the Little Saskatchewan, from whence there is a choice of two lines: the one crossing the Assiniboine at the mouth of Shell River, the other crossing the same river near the mouth of the Qu'Appelle; thence, in either case, taking a north-westerly course to a common point near the South Saskatchewan; thence to "The Elbow" of the North Saskatchewan, and following the valley of the same to Battleford; thence, between Battle River and the North Saskatchewan, it crosses the latter north-east of Fort Edmonton; thence by Lake St. Anne and cross the Pembina and McLeod, reaching the valley of the Athabasca at the foot of the Rocky Mountains. Ascending this valley and the valley of the Miette it reaches the Yellow Head Pass, and from that point follows the River Fraser to Tête Jaune Cache; thence it descends the valley of the Albreda, and following the western bank of the North Thompson passes Kamloops, and crosses the River Thompson at Savona, at the foot of Kamloops Lake. Running thence to Lytton, at the junction of the Thompson and Fraser, it crosses the Fraser a few miles below this point and follows the right bank of that river until it finally reaches the waters of the Pacific at Port Moody, Burrard Inlet. The total distance from Lake Nipissing to Port Moody may be approximately stated at 2627 miles.

PROGRESS OF NEWSPAPER & PERIODICAL LITERATURE

IN THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO.

INTRODUCTION.

In a debate on the subject of the Reform of Parliament, which took place on the 25th of April, 1822, Lord John Russell, in the course of his speech, took occasion to allude to the "extraordinary increase in the circulation of newspapers," and from authentic data was enabled to state that "not less than 26,000,000 of newspapers had been sold in the United Kingdom during the last year." And, by way of adding to the interest of the statement, His Lordship submitted a tabular return of the progressive increase in the number of newspapers published within a period of about forty years, the substance of which was as follows:

In the years	1782.	1790.	1821.
In England	50	60	135
London Daily	9	14	16
" Twice a week	9	7	8
" Weekly	0	11	32
In Scotland	8	27	31
In Ireland	3	27	56
	79	146	278

From other sources we learn that the daily circulation of the leading London papers was for the year 1821, as follows:

The Times with the Evening Mail	8,632
The Morning Chronicle	3,180
The Morning Herald	2,800
The Morning Post	2,000

Turning from England to Canada we find that in 1816 only one newspaper, The Kingston Gazette, was published in what now constitutes the Province of Ontario, and five only were published in what now constitutes the Province of Quebec.

Making every allowance for the "revival of letters" consequent on the termination of the war between Great Britain and the United States of America, it may nevertheless be very fairly assumed that on the 25th of April, 1822, the newspapers published in the several Provinces of British North America did not exceed, even if they reached, the modest total of two dozen, and not one of them fulfilled the duty of a modern newspaper of stamping day by day and almost hour by hour, "the very body of the time, its form and pressure." On the contrary, we believe that none of those early publications were issued more frequently than once in seven days, and therefore that the title of the first regularly published newspaper in England would exactly have expressed the objects and conditions of its Canadian successors by supplying a patient and grateful public with "the Certaine Newes of the Present Week."

In the early history of Canada little value was placed on statistical information, and few were found who took the pains to gather, much less to keep, what the students of progress so highly value and so vainly enquire for—the current records of earlier times.

We can present no counterpart of the statement made by Lord John Russell to the House of Commons in 1822, as we have no means of narrating the early struggles of our literature, or of recording the advances which it made during successive intervals of ten years. The half century which has nearly elapsed between then and now supplies, so far as we are aware, but one point on which comparisons may be based, and from which conclusions may be drawn, and as that point was secured to us by the industry and enterprise of Mr. John Lovell, we have the greater pleasure in turning it to account. The Canada Directory, published in 1857, by him, contained a catalogue of the newspapers then in existence in the old Province of Canada, from which we learn that the total number of such publications was two hundred and forty-three. The Alphabetical List which appeared in the Dominion Directory of 1871 contained not only a correct inventory of the newspapers then published in the Dominion, but, in harmony with the plan of that Directory, included separate tables for the then neighboring Province of Prince Edward Island and for Newfoundland. Consequently there was shown at one view, the name, the place of publication, the proprietor, and the price of every newspaper and periodical then published in the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Possessions of the British Crown in North America. The synopsis was as follows:—

	Ont.	Que.	Nova Scotia	New Brunswick.	Newfoundland.	P. E. Island
Daily	24	12	3	3	1	..
Tri-weekly	2	11	6	2	2	..
Semi-Weekly	1	8	..	1	5	1
Weekly	195	51	23	24	5	8
Semi-Monthly	6	3	..	..	2	1
Monthly	25	11	5	4	..	..
Every 2 months	1	..	..	..	..	..
Quarterly	1	..	..	1	..	..
Total	255	96	37	34	15	10

By comparing the foregoing list with the list in the Canada Directory of 1857, it will be seen that, within a period of thirteen years, the number of newspapers and periodicals published in the Province of Ontario, being the western half of the old Province of Canada, was in excess of the number of newspapers and periodicals that were published in 1857 in the whole of that Province. That this increase was not merely temporary, but is being steadily maintained appears by the following

Showing an apparent increase of 130 during the last 10 years. We say apparent because some deduction must be made on account of such papers as have been discontinued during that period. These particulars we regret to say are not within our reach.

Sixty years ago, Lord John Russell invited the House of Commons to share his surprise, at what struck him as a matter for astonishment, that "not less than 26,000,000 newspapers had been sold in the United Kingdom during the last year." Although we have not the facts at hand to enable us to compare the newspaper circulation in the Dominion now, with the newspaper circulation in the United Kingdom then, still we are not without the means of stating what at the present time should excite at least as much surprise in Canada, as Lord John Russell's communication did in the House of Commons sixty years ago. Assuming the accuracy of the figures occasionally published by the proprietors of newspapers at Toronto with respect to the daily and weekly circulation of their respective papers, it will follow that the number of newspapers printed at Toronto in the year 1881 is much greater than the number sold in the United Kingdom in 1821. Ingenious arithmeticians might take another and by no means unfamiliar mode of presenting the result of their calculations to the reader. The curious will possibly smile as they learn that, were the paper that is annually used for newspaper printing at Toronto joined together, it would suffice to make a letter-press pathway round our planet of at least four feet in width; and, were idle curiosity supplemented with useless labor, it might be amusing to reckon what time it would require, at the rate of their present issue, to paper the earth's surface with Toronto Daily and Weekly Mails and Globes.

In 1822, the "rival newspapers" in the "Town of York, Upper Canada," were Fothergill's Weekly Register and Carey's Weekly Observer. The first was a small quarto of three columns to the page, and the second a small folio of five columns to the page; the paper in both cases was execrable, and the type with which they were printed was only less miserable than the trash with which they were filled; nevertheless, the subscription price of each paper was $4 per annum, only $2 less than the present price of the daily editions of The Globe, or The Mail; but, notwithstanding the higher rate of remuneration, it may reasonably be conjectured that in the absence of Government support in the one instance, and private subsidies in the other, those wretched properties could not have been sustained in the new communities in which they existed for the period of six months. We have not been able to see specimen copies of The Upper Canada Guardian, published at the "Town of York," in 1807, by Joseph Wilcox, or The York Gazette, established three years later, but by whom we do not know; or The Niagara Spectator, a paper of some interest in 1819, from the fact that Robert Gourlay, a state prisoner detained in the Niagara gaol, made it the channel for communicating with the people of Canada on the subject of the harsh and unjust usage he had received from the authorities, as well as on the political and social grievances which afflicted the Province and paralyzed its prosperity. Neither have we seen a copy of The Colonial Advocate of 1824, published by William Lyon Mackenzie, first at Queenston, and afterwards at the "Town of York," and remarkable in newspaper history from the circumstance that as it was about to expire from inanition, for the last number had been issued, its life was restored by the violence of those who wished for and sought to compass its death, for the well-to-do mob which destroyed the office and threw the printing materials into the Toronto Bay, was sufficiently well off to answer the assessment of the Courts, and thus supply Mr. Mackenzie with money enough to furnish him with a capital for his business, and sympathy enough to secure customers for his paper. Some newspapers, like the first published at Boston, Massachusetts, in 1690, were certainly discountenanced, if not suppressed, because "they contained reflections of a very high nature;" others failed from lack of support, and others were discontinued because the objects for which they were established had ceased to be matters of interest. A collection of the extinct newspapers of Upper Canada from 1791, the date of the separation of the Province of Quebec, to 1841, the period of the reunion of Upper and Lower Canada, would be interesting and instructive, but such a collection of literary curiosities, it is much to be feared, would be sought for in vain.

Whether the increasing and apparently unappeasable taste for ephemeral literature should be regarded as a sign either of moral health or of intellectual strength, are questions that we are not required to discuss in this place, but it will not be a libel on letters if we assert that there are greater blessings in the world than the unlimited multiplication of newspapers, and especially of newspapers whose proprietors have neither the means nor the resources to keep pace with an age of telegraphs and railways; for news to be valuable must be gathered with rapidity from many sources, analyzed with caution by acute thinkers, and diffused with haste by expert agents and perfect appliances. Thus, the expensive conditions under which newspapers must henceforward be conducted, will probably increase the value of such as are well established, while they will not diminish the number of less ambitious publications. Experience seems to teach that, in addition to the larger organs of public opinion, each locality needs a channel of communication for current events that affect the neighborhood, or that have anything to do with municipal affairs.

Apart from the political and educational bearings of such questions in their relation to Canada, it may be worth while to glance at the economic and commercial aspects of the subject, as exemplified in the difference between the newspaper traffic of the Mother Country at the time of the repeal of the Stamp Act in 1855, and the like traffic in the Dominion at the present period. In 1855 the population of London exceeded 2,500,000, and there were then printed in that city eleven morning and five evening papers. In Montreal, the commercial capital of Canada, with a population of one hundred and forty-three thousand, there are now published daily nine newspapers, while Ottawa, the political capital of the country, with an estimated population of thirty thousand, boasts of four daily newspapers. And with respect to circulation, if we omit The

Times—the leading journal of the world—the Canadian papers, published amidst a scattered population now, will compare advantageously with their English contemporaries published in an overcrowded state then; for while the aggregate circulation of all the London daily papers was given at 78,916, the particular circulation of some of them was returned as follows:

The Times, ...51,200	The News, ...4,160
The Post, ...2,667	TheAdvertiser,..7,668
The Herald.....3,712	The Chronicle,..2,800

We regret that we have no means of accurately informing ourselves of the circulation of any of the English daily newspapers since their prices were reduced to one penny each, but there can be little doubt that the number published of The Daily Telegraph and The Daily News are said to have circulations greatly in excess of The Times, which is published at three pence a number. In 1877 the estimated daily issue of The Telegraph was 267,189 and of The News 199,000, greatly in excess of the circulation of The Times. Our comparison must therefore continue imperfect, for it must be made between Canada now and the United Kingdom twenty-five years ago, between a community whose literature has escaped the touch of taxation—for the charge for transmission is not a tax upon knowledge but merely an equivalent for service—and a community whose literature had been released from the burden of impost duties with which it had so long been overweighted. Twenty-three years after the repeal of the Newspaper Stamp Act, viz., 1878, the number of newspapers of all kinds published in the United Kingdom and the outlying British Islands was returned as 1885, while those now published in British North America represent more than one-fifth of that number which, bearing in mind the comparative difference of the populations of the two countries and the occupations of the two peoples, gives a result by no means unfavorable to Canada.

In passing it may be interesting to note for the purposes of comparison the wonderful advance which has been made in the United States in the publications of serial journals. Rowall's American Newspaper Directory for 1874, the latest we have met with gives the number of daily papers published at 678, and the number of weekly ones at 5,554. The daily circulation of the following New York papers is given as follows:

N. Y. Herald,.65,000 at 4 c.	N. Y. Sun,....119,792 at 2 c.

Turning to the histories of some of our older newspapers, and confining our remarks to those which were established before the reunion of the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada, we are able to show certain signs of literary and commercial longevity that are comparatively assuring, while in some respects they are without parallel on the continent. The Quebec Gazette, for example, crusted though it was with the hoar and frost of more than one hundred years, long lived and thrived in its fortress home, the venerable and, if we mistake not, the unchallenged patriarch of the Press of America. Indeed had a Newspaper Congress assembled in London sixteen years ago, this Quebec sage, dating from 1764, would have taken precedence of The Times, The Herald, The Advertiser and The Post, while The Standard, The News, and The Telegraph would have filled the places of literary grandchildren to the Canadian centenarian. The Quebec Mercury, like The London Globe, commenced its career with the century, and though its age, for convenience, may be called four-score years, it still preserves a vigorous lustiness, not unlike that which the mythological deity whose title it bears is said to have derived from the loins of Jupiter; moreover, the Quebec namesake sympathizes with those qualities of sportiveness and appropriation that so eminently distinguished its classical prototype. La Minerve, named after the brain child of Jupiter, in concert with Le Canadien, for periods scarcely less remote have reiterated in unison the familiar watchwords, Nos Institutions, Notre Langue et Nos Lois, and with unabated perseverance have claimed for their countrymen in Canada the ancient rights and immunities of the Gallic race. The Gazette and The Montreal Herald, on the other side, have been the steady representatives of the Teutonic tribes, and the eloquent advocates of British Institutions for a British colony. The Brookville Recorder, like The John Bull began its career at the time of the uncomfortable agitation in England on the Queen Caroline affair, and the two papers, no doubt, took opposite sides when the issue was joined. The former, sometimes with measured meekness and sometimes with vehement zeal, but always with consistency, has borne its small banner of reform and for the space of sixty years has done what it could to keep the old Johnstown District in a proper state of political repair by an active course of political friction. The British Whig, though planted at the base of Lake Ontario, amidst picturesque historical associations and pleasant individual influences, among moral fossils and actual rocks, where opinion rarely grows crooked and radishes seldom grow straight, seems, nevertheless, to have overcome the physical disabilities that are said to vex the root crops with curvatures, and to have discovered wells of intellectual succulence unknown to other explorers, from which, for the space of fifty years, he has drawn highly-flavored draughts of mirth, and jest, and humor, wherewith to season the sauce of the citizens of Kingston, and make laughter musical among the yeomen of Frontenac. Moreover, with the courage and instinct of the modern head of the British Whigs, the champion of the blue and buff party at Kingston, asserted the possibility of, by leading the way to, the establishment of daily newspapers in Upper Canada, and thus it was that The British Whig became the parent of the daily papers of Ontario. The Kingston Daily News inherited the property with the name of The Kingston Chronicle, and whether under its earlier or later title, it has sought to elevate the character of Canadian journalism, and by combining ability with respectability, it has pursued a course which has proved as blameless as it has been useful. The Prescott Telegraph has for fifty years continued to progress in a town that is not particularly remarkable for progression. The Christian Guardian, commenced in 1829, though it has laid aside all of its political bitterness, has certainly lost none of its religious savour, and consequently it is warmly welcomed by the large Methodist Society for whose benefit it was established.

The papers we have mentioned, and many others of the period that we might name, represent the milestones in our earlier Canadian history, as well as the repositories of the thoughts and words of a political and social state of society now passed and gone forever. Files of several of the Lower Canada papers have been preserved, and may be found in the Parliamentary Library at Ottawa, but similar records of Ontario and the Maritime Provinces are, we fear, wholly wanting. The Acadian Recorder, for example, besides the "certaine newes" of many a week in the years that are past, might give us scraps of "newer newes," and a great deal besides, the possession of which would recall some things that we should like to remember as well as some things we should prefer to forget. In St. John, New Brunswick, papers were published a century ago. The historical fact is preserved, but who among the old inhabitants has preserved the papers?

It must necessarily be allowed that the progress of art has had much to do with the creation and extension of literature, but it should not be overlooked that the increased dissemination of the latter in Canada is mainly to be ascribed to the intelligence of our people in initiating, and to the courage of our Legislature in facilitating the construction of great public works. Newspapers published at Toronto, for example, could not have been sold by the million had not our roadways and streamways been extensively improved, and our railway system elaborately extended. The Globe and The Mail, except for the railways, so glibly disparaged and so freely maligned, could not then have been, as they are now, served with the breakfasts of many persons living within a radius of fifty miles of the city where they are published. The Don at the East and the Dugway at the West would have represented the limits beyond which these morning papers would scarcely have extended, while the pig ranges and goose pastures which, by the charity of the commonalty, the long suffering of the citizens, and the forbearance of the police, supplied a skirting of dirt to the northern limits of the city would have presented an unclean barrier of sufficient stability to prevent any thing like a facile newspaper extension in that direction. But for our railways the papers now published annually by the million at Toronto would stick almost hopelessly in the heavy clay of the fair city, and make but small effort to overleap the barrier of its metes and bounds. A few hand-presses, instead of steam-power, would have sufficed alike for the convenient supply of local subscribers, and the decent furnishing of remote news rooms. Now, however, facility of transport has kept pace with improvement in art, and consequently printing, as a branch of Canadian industry, has assumed proportions of such magnitude as to command the considerate respect of statesmen and the anxious attention of Ministers of the Crown. The intricate question of Copyright has received from Parliament more attention than it formerly commanded, and, as a result of such discussion, many of the commercial advantages which formerly eluded the Dominion have successfully been secured. The press is confessedly a great power in all states, and the interests that grow out of and cluster around the printing art will be found to be too persistent to be treated with indifference, and too formidable to be silenced with a sneer. Printers and publishers for some time past have been bestirring themselves, and with the co-operation of our rulers here and in England have secured to the British author some of those advantages of which he was formerly defrauded, and to the Canadian publisher some of that industry which had almost exclusively been appropriated by his American rivals, and which chiefly contributed to build up and consolidate the Book Trade of the United States.

In bringing to a close this notice of the Newspaper press, it affords us sincere pleasure to refer to a journal which, after a comparatively short career, has attained a very prominent position, we mean THE STAR, of Montreal, a journal, the foundation and present standing of which are due to the untiring energy and perseverance of Mr. HUGH GRAHAM, its proprietor. This gentleman has good cause to look back with pride and satisfaction at the history of his paper (and we may include the WEEKLY STAR in this mention of the DAILY), and at the result which has rewarded his enormous labors. Few journals in any part of the world have ever risen so rapidly in the estimation of the community in which they have appeared, and now, not only in Montreal but throughout the Dominion, THE STAR has become a household word.

It is a gratification to us to extract the following from the Canadian Illustrated News of the 12th February last. The article was illustrated by a very good portrait of Mr. GRAHAM, and with a picture of the new Scott Web Press on which both the DAILY and WEEKLY STAR are now printed and made ready for delivery:

The Montreal Daily Star was born on the 16th January, 1869, and threatened at first to be but short lived, owing to a somewhat erratic and imprudent editorial management. A change, however, in the personnel of the staff produced a corresponding change in its fortunes, and its circulation from this out increased rapidly. From 4,000 in 1872, it reached in 1874 to 6,300, and last year (1880) to 15,000. In 1870 the Weekly Star was started, and records a progress still more remarkable. For four years its circulation continued to double only, but from 1872, with the increase in the circulation of the Daily, came a rush on the Weekly, since which the issue ran up to 8,300 in 1873, 15,000 in 1874, 20,400 in 1875, 23,000 in 1876, and last year (1880) to the enormous figure of 45,000.* In going over the establishment recently, we were shown upwards of 200 galleys filled with columns of names, 4 deep, of the regular subscribers to this most successful publication.

So much for the circulation. In the manner in which the Star has been printed an equally great stride has to be recorded. In 1870, a single cylinder hand press was used, with a capacity of 1,100 papers per hour, printed on one side only. A change was made in 1872, when a double cylinder hand press was employed, raising the capacity of production to 3,000 per hour—still, however, with the impression on one side only. 1875, however, saw a more marked change, and in that year a Prestonian web perfecting machine, with a capacity of 8,500 perfect papers, increased its production more than four-fold. Still, however, the process through which the paper passed was complicated as compared with the present. Separate machines had to be employed to fold the papers as each came in sheets from the press. But within the last few weeks the journalists and publishers of Montreal have been invited to examine one of the most complete triumphs of mechanical skill in the new "Scott" web printing and folding machines, two of which are now used in the production of the Star. The aggregate capacity of this wonderful combination is 44,000 printed and folded papers per hour.

* Now (November 1881) the circulation of the DAILY STAR is 17,200, and that of the WEEKLY STAR is 62,000.

Before leaving the history of the paper itself to describe the new press more minutely, it may be interesting to note the statement of advertisements which shows as marked an increase from the first, as the circulation itself:

In 1870 were published 4,621 separate advertisements.

1872	8,156
1874	11,723
1876	20,119
1878	29,746
1880	37,462

With this record of progress we will leave the paper and turn for a moment to the machine, which, in company with most of the leading members of the press, we have lately had the privilege of inspecting.

Since the introduction of the web presses many attempts have been made to construct a machine which would fold the sheets as they are delivered from the press, and work automatically in combination with it. Until the past few years none have met with any degree of success.

Early in 1872 Mr. Walter Scott, of Chicago, perfected his now famous Rotary Folding Machine, to work in combination with web perfecting presses. Although delayed for some time by want of capital, yet he was the first to introduce a machine with one set of folding devices throughout, which would automatically fold the sheets as they came from the printing press without reducing its speed. The marvelous success attending this machine is owing principally to its rotary motion. All the folds are made by revolving creasers, and without the usual great complication of tapes and pulleys, flying cams, vibrating creases and switches, and an endless train of fine gearing and small wearing parts, which require a man constantly watching and oiling.

Several makers have now constructed combined printing and folding machines, but none of them seem to have the same success as Scott's machine, probably owing to the fact that they employ the old method of tapes and rollers with vibrating creasers. Some have even found it necessary to employ two or three sets of folding devices to each press so as to get up a fair rate of speed.

Mr. Scott also introduced the pasting and cutting arrangement, he having been the first to combine a printing, cutting, pasting and folding machine, so that from a roll of paper perfect copies of a newspaper are produced automatically, with the leaves cut and pasted in book form.

The first impression which an ordinary spectator receives on entering the Star press room, after his ears have grown accustomed to the din, and his attention fixes itself upon the object of his visit, is one of absolute bewilderment. We have all heard of the famous sausage machine, where the pigs were driven in at one end, and the sausages came out ready for cooking (or ready cooked, we forget which) at the other; but, indeed, the results in the present instance are scarcely less remarkable. At one end of the machine, a roll of paper (five miles in length, he is told) is feeding itself (without even being driven like the pigs) into the mysterious engine, while at the other, in two different places ready folded copies of the Star are being pushed out as rapidly as one man can remove them in armfulls. If we go a step further back the rapidity of the process is equally exemplified. The type forms, mounted on handsome brass carriages, are wheeled into the stereotyping room where, in a few minutes, an impression is taken of them in papier maché. These matrices, as they are called, are laid in molding boxes and within six minutes are cast in metal plates, cooled and trimmed ready for the press. The plates after casting are placed on the cylinders of the press, and the machine, by the mere movement of a lever, starts at lightning speed, delivering its hundreds of papers every minute. As the paper passes through the press its rapidity is so great that the eye cannot follow its twistings and turnings, up and down, backwards and forwards, here receiving the impression of the plates from the cylinders, there cut into sheets by the knife, now caught by the creasers, folded this way and that way, until in a few seconds after its entrance into the maze of whirling machinery it reposes on the counter of the salesroom. But description fails us. The eye itself finds it almost impossible to take in the fact of this marvellous creation of man's genius, and no one who has not seen the press in action can possibly form an idea of its behavior.

Those who have seen a drum cylinder printing press and a modern folding machine may obtain some idea of the astonishing capacity of the Scott presses when he is informed that the two new machines, with five attendants in all, will perform in a given time as much work as fifty-eight of the drum cylinder machines and twenty-two folding machines requiring eighty-one attendants.

The most competent judges pronounce the Scott Printing and Folding Machine the very best press yet invented. Its special points of surpassing excellence are its compactness, the marvelous ingenuity of the folding appliance, speed, ease of access and beauty of finish. The two machines built for the Montreal Star have been abundantly tested at a speed of twenty-two thousand perfect sheets per hour from each press. Each of the two machines in the Star office will print four different sizes of papers, a sixty-four column eight page; a fifty-six column eight page; a thirty-two column four page, and a twenty-eight column four page, and with both of the eight page sizes it cuts the sheets open and pastes them together.

The time involved in changing the machines from an eight to a four page, and vice versa, is less than a minute, the whole mechanism being controlled by the simple movement of one lever. The way in which the Scott presses have bounded into public favour may be illustrated by the rapid advance in price. The two machines made for the Star, and which cost thirty thousand dollars, would, if ordered to-day, cost upwards of forty-five thousand.

THE FISHERIES OF CANADA.

The value of the catch in the several provinces in the past two years was as follows :—

	1880.	1879.
Quebec	$2,631,556 45	$2,820,395 45
Nova Scotia	6,291,061 46	5,752,936 20
New Brunswick	2,744,416 58	2,554,722 22
Prince Edward Island	1,675,088 90	1,402,301 40
British Columbia	713,335 52	631,766 64
Ontario	444,491 00	367,133 00
Total	$14,499,979 91	$13,529,254 91

The value of the yield of each kind of fish last year was as follows :—

Cod	$4,534,009
Mackerel	2,178,966
Salmon	635,427
Herrings	1,511,012
Haddock	406,075
Lobsters	2,143,312
Whitefish	203,018
Trout	134,897

The number of men employed in 1880, and the number and value of vessels and boats were as follows :—

	Vessels,		Boats,
Men.	No.	$	No.	$
57,421	1,181	1,814,688	23,848	708,563

Averaging a family at five persons, it would appear that 287,105 persons, or one-fifteenth of the population, are directly sustained by fishing, and that the capital employed in the industry, irrespective of tackle, amounts to $2,523,000.

There are ten fish hatcheries in the Dominion, the expense of maintaining which was last year $29,109.61. From these breeding establishments there were distributed in the spring of 1880, 21,520,600 young fish, of which 14,300,000 were white-fish, and 6,300,600 salmon, and last fall there were deposited in the hatching troughs of these breeding establishments 26,212,000 vivified eggs, of which 18,000,000 were whitefish, and 8,084,000 salmon and salmon trout. The whole expense of the fishery department of Canada was $88,162.55 in 1880, and from this amount has to be deducted collections amounting to $19,423.16, leaving the net expenditure $66,739.39.

CANALS OF CANADA.

On the main line of navigation between Lake Erie and the City of Montreal (375 miles), there are seven different stretches of canal, having in the aggregate the length of about 70½ miles, on which there are 53 locks. Six of these are guard locks, at the different upper entrances, for the regulation in each case of the reach below them at periods of high water in the river or lakes. The total height overcome by locks is 533½ feet. Lake Erie is, however, 550¾ feet higher than the river at Montreal; the difference between the lockage and the actual height of the water (17½ feet) is accounted for by the inclination of the surface of the river and lakes.

The locks on the enlarged canals are to be 270 feet long between the gates, 45 feet in width, and, when completed, are to have a depth of 14 feet of water on the sills. This will enable vessels of almost any ordinary build to pass, carrying fully one thousand tons burden; but, as the tendency seems to be towards increasing the breadth of beam and sectional area of freight vessels, it is probable that the canals will ere long be navigated by a class of vessels capable of carrying fully 1,500 tons. Lake Ontario and the River St. Lawrence will then be accessible to a large and profitable class of vessels, now in use on the Western Lakes, connections with which have enabled the Erie Canal to hold its own successfully for the carrying of heavy freight, so that in 1878 and 1879 more tonnage was moved eastward upon it than in any two previous years.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT of total freight passed through the undermentioned Canals during the seasons of navigation, 1879 and 1880, with the amounts of tolls collected on the same, including tolls on vessels and passengers.

The balance to Depositors' credit 30th June, 1881, was $6,167,396.63, showing an increase of over 50 per cent. in 12 months.

CENSUS OF 1881.

The population of the Dominion of Canada, as ascertained by the Census of 1881, and compared with the figures for previous years, is as follows:—

	1881.	1871.	1861.
Ontario	1,913,460	1,620,851	1,396,091
Quebec	1,358,469	1,191,516	1,111,566
Nova Scotia	440,585	387,800	330,857
New Brunswick	321,129	285,594	252,047
Prince Edward Island	107,781	94,021	80,861
Manitoba	49,509	11,953	.....
British Columbia and North West Territories.	160,000	78,700	34,816
	4,350,933	3,670,435	3,206,238

The increase in the population during the last decade was 680,498, against an increase of 464,197 in the preceding decade, and this growth, which is equal to 18½ per cent. against an increment of only 15 per cent, in 1861-71, has been made in spite of the fact that in five years of the decade the country experienced the most severe trade depression which has ever befallen it. The actual increase and the percentage of growth in the several provinces during the past ten years were as follows:—

	Actual Increase.	Per cent.		Actual Increase.	Per cent.
Ontario	292,609	18	New Brunswick	35,565	12½
Quebec	166,953	14	P. E. Island	33,760	15
Nova Scotia	52,785	13¾	Manitoba	37,556,414

The change in the representation of the different provinces, which will be caused by the redistribution of seats on the basis of the new census, will be slight and insignificant. Ontario will gain three members, being now entitled to 91 members, against 88 in the present Parliament, and the representation of the other provinces will remain unchanged.

MINES AND MINERALS IN ONTARIO.

Gold.—Considerable progress has been made in mining for gold in the Township of Marmora during the year. The sinking on the Gatling mine has been carried to the depth of 100 feet, and preparations are being made by a new company to carry on the mining business there on a large sale scale. They intend immediately to erect a 100-stamp mill, and are making preparations to employ 300 men. The average yield of the quartz may be placed at $10 per ton, although different portions are found to be exceedingly rich, and give much larger figures as a yield. Mr. Alexander Brown has erected a quartz mill, consisting of ten run of stamps, at Bannockburn, and is kept at work on ore from the Vankleek mine, situated in the Township of Tudor, the yield being $10 per ton in gold, and five per cent. in copper. Other veins of rich gold-bearing quartz have been discovered in the neighborhood, and will doubtless be worked at no distant day. It may therefore be fairly assumed that mining for gold in North Hastings is about to be largely and profitably carried on.

Silver.—Some exceedingly rich veins of ore, impregnated with native silver, are said to have been recently struck in the mine at Silver Islet, from which large quantities of valuable ore have been obtained, but mining for silver in other parts of the Thunder Bay District do not appear to have made much progress during the year.

Phosphates.—An increased demand for phosphates and better prices have encouraged parties engaged in the business to extend their operations, and the consequence is, a largely increased production. Six thousand tons are alleged to have found their way from the interior to Kingston during the year, and thence shipped ; 4,016 tons to Great Britain via Montreal, and 1,984 tons to the United States. A considerable quantity has also been brought from the interior to Brockville during the year, and thence shipped.

Iron.—Messrs. William Coe and C. J. Puscy, practical miners, and gentlemen deeply interested in the Iron Mines of North Hastings and Peterboro', report largely increased activity in mining operations during the year. Mr. Pusey, who owns and works the Seymour mine in Madoc, has extended his operations in the mine to the depth of 110 feet, and works six drills by compressed air, driven by an engine of 80 horse-power, and has shipped from this mine to the United States during the year, 12,000 tons. The Wallbridge Red Hematite mine is owned and worked by Messrs. Coe, Mitchell and Company, who have extended their operations to the depth of 75 feet, and have shipped during the year 15,000 tons, their present out-put being 150 tons per day. The next in magnitude is the Sexsmith mine, owned and worked by Messrs. Cleveland and Brown, of Cleveland, Ohio. They have now about 42 men at work, and have shipped during the year 3,000 tons. Several other mines in the neighborhood have been recently opened up with the view of testing the quality of the ore and capacity of the mines, and a large amount of labor performed. The result so far has proved exceedingly satisfactory to the parties concerned. The Mississippi mines have produced during the year 8,000 tons of ore, which have been brought to Kingston by the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, and thence shipped to the United States ; while a large quantity has been brought in from the interior and shipped at Brockville.

There is one Session for the literary, scientific, and professional training of Candidates for First-class Certificates. It begins about the 15th September, and ends about the 30th of June.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTES AND HIGH SCHOOLS.—Each of the High Schools (which form the intermediate link between the Public Schools and the Universities) is managed by a Board of Trustees, appointed jointly by the County and Town Councils. In cities the Trustees are all appointed by the City Council, except where there is only one School in the County. The head master must be a graduate of a British or Colonial University, unless certified and appointed before 18th September, 1875. Besides fees, local rates to the extent of half the government grant must be raised for the master's salary. The grant is payable to those Schools only which attain a certain standard, and is based on the average attendance of pupils in the prescribed studies. High Schools which have an average attendance of 60 male classical pupils, may be made Collegiate Institutes, and receive $750 additional grant. An extra grant is provided for masters taking certain meteorological observations and giving scientific knowledge preparatory to military instruction. Pupils attending these schools are prepared for Matriculation in the Universities. There were 94 High Schools and 14 Collegiate Institutes, with 12,919 pupils, in Ontario in 1880. James A. McLennan, M.A., and S. Arthur Marling, M.A., Inspectors of High Schools.

LEGAL AND JUDICIARY.

SUPREME COURT OF THE DOMINION AND COURT OF EXCHEQUER.

The Supreme Court, as a high Court of Appeal, constituted by Dominion Statute, 38 Vic. cap. 2, assented to 8th April, 1875, is composed of a Chief Justice and five Puisne Judges, and has appellate, civil and criminal jurisdiction within and throughout the Dominion of Canada. The Judges reside at Ottawa, where the Supreme Court holds annually three Sessions—the first beginning on the third Tuesday in February, the second on the first Tuesday in May, and the third on the fourth Tuesday in October. The Exchequer Court, presided over by the same Judges, possesses concurrent original jurisdiction in the Dominion in all cases in which it is sought to enforce any law relating to the revenue, and exclusive original jurisdiction in all cases in which demand is made or relief sought in respect of a suit or action of the Court of Exchequer on its revenue side against the Crown, or any Officer of the Crown.

Hon. William Johnston Ritchie, Chief Justice.
Hon. Samuel Henry Strong, Puisne Judge.
Hon. Telesphore Fournier, Puisne Judge.
Hon. William Alexander Henry, Puisne Judge.
Hon. Henri Elzear Taschereau, Puisne Judge.
Hon. John Wellington Gwynne, Puisne Judge.

THE LAW SOCIETY OF ONTARIO.

The Law Society was first established in 1797, by the Act 37 Geo. III., c. 13, which enabled the then practitioners of the law to form themselves into a society, and make rules for its government. By the Act of 1822, 2 Geo. IV., c. 5, "the Treasurer and Benchers of the Law Society" were formally incorporated; and under these and other statutes the Society has continued to be governed by a Board of Benchers, in the same manner as the various Law Societies of England. By Revised Statutes of Ontario, c. 138, the Benchers theretofore appointed, from time to time, by their own body, are made, exclusive of ex officio members elective by the Bar, the ex officio consisting of the Attorney-General of the Dominion for the time being, if a member of the Bar of Ontario, and all members of the Bar of Ontario who have at any time held the office of Attorney-General of the Dominion or of Ontario, or of Attorney or Solicitor-General of the former Province of Upper Canada, and any retired Judge of the Superior Courts of Law or Equity of Ontario; the elective thirty in number, being chosen by the ballot for a term of five years, by the members of the Bar, in manner prescribed by the Act. Vacancies during the term are filled by the remaining Benchers. On the first day of Easter Term, annually, the Benchers appoint one of their body to be Treasurer, who is also President of the Society. The Benchers sit in Convocation every term for the call of Barristers, the admission of Attorneys and Solicitors to Practice, and of Students to enter the Society, the fees paid by whom form the revenue of the Society. Osgoode Hall, appropriately named after the first Chief Justice, is the Ontario "Inn of Court," or headquarters of the Society, in which is provided accommodation for the Court of Appeal and Courts of Equity, and for the sittings in form of the Superior Courts; with a valuable and extensive library.

MARITIME COURT OF ONTARIO.—Constituted by Dominion Statute, 40 Vic. cap. 21, as a Superior Court of Maritime Jurisdiction; is composed of one Judge for the whole Province, and Surrogate Judges for certain localities appointed by the Governor in Council, are invested with such powers as may be conferred on them by their commission. The Maritime Court is a Superior Court of Record, having, with some exceptions mentioned in the Act, the like rights and remedies in all matters, including cases of Contract and Tort, and proceedings in rem and in personam, arising out of or connected with navigation, shipping, trade or commerce, on any river, lake, canal, or inland water, of which the whole or part is in the Province of Ontario, as any existing Vice-Admiralty Court would have if its process extended to the Province of Ontario. The Sittings of the Court and in Chambers are fixed and regulated by the Judge and Surrogate Judges at such times as they shall think fit and necessary for the due administration of Justice. Judge for the whole Province—Hon. Kenneth Mackenzie. Registrar—John Bruce. Marshal—William Boyd.

HEIR AND DEVISEE COURT.—Commissioners, the Judges of the Superior Courts, and such other persons as may be appointed by commission under the Great Seal. Their duties are to determine claims to lands in Upper Canada, for which no patent has issued from the Crown in favor of the proper claimants, whether as heirs, devisees or assignees. Sittings at Toronto, first Monday in January and July in each year. Clerk of Commissioners—W. B. Heward.

COURTS FOR THE TRIAL OF CONTROVERTED ELECTIONS.—The nature of these courts is sufficiently indicated in their title. In respect to elections for the House of Commons of Canada, the Superior Courts, by one of their Judges appointed in that behalf, are invested with special Jurisdiction for the trial of contested elections, and appeals lie to the Supreme Court at Ottawa. In respect to elections for the Local Legislature of Ontario, the Judges of the Court of Appeal and of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity meet annually in Michaelmas Term and severally select, by a majority of votes, a Judge of their respective Courts to be placed on the rota for the trial of election petitions. In the case of death or illness of a Judge so chosen, the Court of which he is a member meet and elect another Judge. Trials involving corrupt practices are presided over by two Judges, otherwise a single Judge presides, and an appeal lies to the Court of Appeal of the Province.

COUNTY COURTS.—Presided over by a resident Judge in each county, assisted in some counties by a Deputy or Junior Judge. Their jurisdiction extends to all personal actions where the debt or damages claimed do not exceed $200; and to all suits relating to debt, covenant or contract, where the amount is ascertained by the acts of the parties or signature of the defendant, to $400; and to all bail bonds and recognizances of bail given in the County Court, to any amount; but not to cases involving the title to lands, validity of wills, or actions for libel, slander, crim. con., or seduction. An appeal lies to the Court of Appeal of Ontario.

COUNTY COURT SITTINGS AND COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.—The County Judge in each county holds a sitting of his Court and a Court of General Sessions in his county semi-annually on the Second Tuesday in June and December, except in the county of York, in which county said Court is held four times, commencing on the first Tuesday in December and March and the second Tuesday in May and September, the latter Courts for the trial of cases of felony and misdeameanor, but treason and capital felonies are exempted from their jurisdiction. The Judge may also, in his discretion, hold additional sittings at such times as may be deemed expedient to expedite business, but only for the trial of issues of fact without a jury.

COUNTY JUDGES' CRIMINAL COURT.—Persons committed to jail for trial, on charge of being guilty of any offence for which they may be tried at a Court of General Sessions, may, with their own consent, and subject to the provisions of the Act in that behalf, be forthwith tried by the Judge of the County Court and General Sessions without a jury, and, if convicted, be sentenced by the said Judge; and the Judge sitting on any such trial for all the purposes thereof, is constituted a Court of Record, and the record in any such case shall be filed among the records of the Court of General Sessions last mentioned.

COURTS OF REVISION.—The County Judges hold annually Courts of final revision of the Assessment Rolls of each Municipality, being in the light of Courts of Appeal from the first Court of Revision held by the Municipality; and also Courts for the Revision of the Voters' Lists, being equivalent to the Courts held by Revising Barristers in England.

INSOLVENT DEBTORS' COURTS.—These Courts, which had reference to traders only, were regulated by the Act known as "the Insolvent Act of 1875," which consolidated and assimilated the practice in Bankruptcy and Insolvency in the several Provinces of the Dominion. The County Judges in the several Counties presided, and official assignees were nominated by the Governor in Council, and were officers of the Court having jurisdiction in the County or District for which they were appointed. And appeals lay to the Court of Appeal of Ontario. This Statute has now been repealed, and the Courts of Assignees are only continuing to wind up pending cases.

SURROGATE COURTS.—The jurisdiction of these Courts relates to all testamentary matters and causes and to the granting and revoking of probate of wills, and letters of administration of the effects of deceased persons having estate or effect in Upper Canada, and all matters arising out of or connected with the grant or revocation of probate or administration, subject to an appeal to the Court of Chancery. The County Judges are also Judges of the Surrogate Courts. Chief Surrogate Clerk at Toronto—Sir J. L. Robinson, Bart.

DIVISION COURTS, for the summary disposal of cases by the presiding Judge, being the County Judge or his Deputy, or any barrister appointed to hold the same; but a jury of five persons may be demanded in certain cases. Their jurisdiction extends to actions of debt or contract amounting to $100, and to $200 when the amount is ascertained by the signature of the defendant, subject to an appeal to the Court of Appeal; injuries or torts to personal chattels amounting to $60; and personal actions to that amount, if not excepted from their jurisdiction; but not to actions for gambling debts, liquors drunk in a tavern, or notes of hand given therefor, ejectment, title to land, &c., or any toll, custom or franchise, will or settlement, malicious prosecution, libel, slander, crim. con., seduction or breach of promise, or actions against a J. P. for anything done by him in the execution of his office, if he objects to it. Each Judicial District is divided into Court Divisions, and Courts are held once in two months in each Division, or oftener at the discretion of the Judge. The Divisions are established by the Courts of General Sessions and in certain cases by the Judges.

BOARD OF COUNTY JUDGES—Chairman—J. R. Gowan, County Simcoe. Members—S. J. Jones, County Brant; D. J. Hughes, County Elgin; James Daniell, Counties Prescott and Russell; and J. S. Sinclair, County Wentworth.

Merchants and Manufacturers

Who desire to attain the greatest publicity for their wares among the Business community,

Wholesale as well as Retail,

SHOULD ADVERTISE IN THE

Journal of Commerce

Which has now a bona fide circulation extending regularly to

EVERY TOWN AND VILLAGE

THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION,

From Newfoundland to British Columbia and Manitoba, besides a respectable proportion among Merchants and Manufacturers in Great Britain.

This circulation is not confined to one or more hotels in each place, but is subscribed for in the regular way by each Merchant and Manufacturer. The JOURNAL OF COMMERCE is fulfilling its mission in supplying wholesale Merchants, Manufacturers, Insurance Companies, etc., with a FIRST-CLASS COMMERCIAL JOURNAL, having a circulation among the business men of Ontario, Quebec, the Maritime Provinces, Manitoba, the North-West and British Columbia, second to none. The interests of our subscribers are continually borne in mind in furnishing them with the latest and most reliable information concerning the fluctuations in market prices at Montreal, Toronto and other trade centres, and on all matters necessary to their business welfare, rendering it worth to each ten times the price of subscription. The growing demand for back numbers is a proof of its permanent value as a work of reference.

Subscription to Montreal Subscribers, $3 ; Elsewhere, $2 a year.

STRONG'S LUNG SYRUP.

A FRIEND UNEQUALLED.

Good Health is of Inestimable value to its Possessor, Affording Sweetness and Sublimity to Life, Rendering one Continual Stream of Happiness, Comfort and Success.

The person laboring under affliction feels its burden, neglect affords its progress, his powers become enfeebled, hope declines, the future clouded, and thus he is hastening to the grave. Any person suffering from

Coughs, Colds, Throat or Lung Diseases,

Should try STRONG'S LUNG SYRUP. It is relief; try it. It matters not how many doctors, or what medicine you have tried, STRONG'S LUNG SYRUP will quote for itself and win your praise. It does not dry a cough and leave disease behind it, but strikes directly at the cause, loosens and carries off the phlegm and morbid matter, and permits nature to heal the irritated parts. CONSUMPTIVES try it, do not despair because other remedies have failed. It will insure you a good night's sleep, rest from coughing, and light and easy expectorations in the morning. Go to your druggist and get it; if he has not got it, have him send for it, or address me, and I will express it to you with pleasure.

Buy it, try it. Price, 25 & 50 cents per Bottle.

THE WEEKLY GUIDE is now, and has been for over half a century past, one of the leading papers of the central part of this Province; also one of the most popular and reliable journals in the country. It is staunch Reform in politics, but fearless in its exposition of corruption among either its friends or foes. By a simple adherence to the truth under all circumstances, and by publishing a paper for their subscribers rather than for their exchanges, the publishers have succeeded in gaining a large and constantly increasing circulation among the best classes of our people. We also club with numerous other first-class papers and magazines. Read our Clubbing List and Subscribe.

IS situated upon the line of the Great Western, connecting with the Erie, New York Central, Grand Trunk and Welland Railways; twenty minutes distant from Suspension Bridge and Niagara Falls, with direct steamers to the Upper and Lower Lakes, and the River St. Lawrence, including one for Toronto daily.

After more than a quarter of a century of close study of balnœology and careful observation of the requirements for such institutions, this first-class Hotel has been built and organized with a view of affording to the man of business a comfortable resting place, to the tourist a pleasant "sejour," to the valetudinarian or positive invalid a home where all the benefits of the celebrated spa could be obtained, under the immediate supervision of the physician who first brought the mineral waters of St. Catharines to the notice of the public, and established a reputation for them.

TOLES' NEW IMPROVED PATENT

CROSS-CUT SAW,

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Its superiority consists in its speed and ease in cutting. It is made of the finest steel, and is tampered by the best Process known.

It will cut more wood with one fitting, pull easier, cut faster than any other saw in the world. I have plenty of unsolicited testimonials setting forth its superior excellence. This saw is sold at one dollar per foot. There will be no trouble in keeping this saw in order ; as there is a gauge and jointer thrown in free with the saw ; it is a perfect guide to go by, so that one can keep it in order without any trouble.

Manufactured by R. H. SMITH & Co., St. Catharines, Ont.

ALL DISEASES OF THE RESPIRATORY ORGANS TREATED BY

MEDICATED INHALATIONS,

Combined with Proper Constitutional Remedies, when Required.

OVER 30,000 CASES SUCCESSFULLY TREATED DURING THE LAST FIFTEEN YEARS.

☞CONSULTATION FREE.

The present time, when so many persons are dying of Consumption and Bronchitis, it is wise to arrest, as promptly as possible, any disease of the throat or air passages. An inflammation of the throat, however slight it may be, will soon find its way to the windpipe and bronchial tubes, and consumption is likely to ensue. The only prudent course is to cure the difficulty in its incipient stage; and this can be radically, speedily and surely effected by the remedies of the "Inhalation System of Cure." Nothing is more insidious and flattering in character than diseases of the breathing organs. A cold seems to wear off in some cases, only to re-appear with the least exposure, and with redoubled virulance; a cough may abate for a brief period, and lead to the confident belief that all danger has passed, and recovery has really taken place, when, upon even a change in the atmosphere, or any other source of irritation, the difficulty reappears; the consumptive is flattered by bright days, and an improvement in his symptoms for a brief time, only to relapse into despair; the asthmatic sufferer is free for a time from his distressing paroxysms, and pleases himself with the confident hope of recovery; but these ephemeral changes do not alter the stern truth that the disease still exists, and is gradually, but surely, destroying its victim.

Now it is time to wake from such pleasing delusions before the fatal mischief has made such headway as to defy medical skill. It is wise to seek in a rational way to extinguish the flame, and not cover the burning embers with ashes, which a passing wind may light up to a destructive power. As certain is it that Nasal Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and certain stages of Consumption can be permanently cured by this system of practice as that these diseases, if left to themselves or improperly treated, tend to a fatal termination.

It is needless to speak of the curability, by this method, of Nasal Catarrh—that loathsome disease, which either destroys or impairs the sense of sight, hearing, taste, or smell, affects the tissues and bones, causing fearful suffering, or enfeebles the powers of the mind till insanity or idiocy occurs; or, having its stronghold upon the head, it hastens to the lungs and induces Consumption.

The speedy and permanent cures of hoarseness, and entire restoration of the voice; the cures of Bronchitis and Incipient Consumption, with their fearful train of symptoms—coughs, night-sweats, pains in the chest and elsewhere, bleeding of the lungs, emaciation—these are matters of such frequent occurrence, under this mode of treatment, that those who witness these results speak of the practice as the true mode of cure in this class of cases.

These grand results are not accomplished by dosing the already worn-out and enfeebled stomach, but the remedies are conveyed directly to the organs diseased, and improvement is apparent from the first day of treatment.

Now is a favorable time for applying the remedies which, by the way, can be effectually used by the patient, wherever he may be.

If possible, call personally for an examination, otherwise write for "List of Questions," and Medical Treatise. ADDRESS,

"ONTARIO PULMONARY INSTITUTE," TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Toronto & Nipissing Railway.

First Narrow Gauge Railway opened for traffic in America.

The Road traverses a rich and highly cultivated section of the country, pleasant for the traveller and tourist to view, and is supplied with comfortable and neat passenger cars ; the track is in first-class condition throughout its entire length ; and the facilities are unsurpassed for the transport of passengers and freight.

Cheapest and most direct route from TORONTO to Markham, Uxbridge, Coboconk, Mount Albert, Sutton, Jackson's Point, Minden, Kinmount, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Peterboro', Beaverton, Orillia, Midland, Waubaushene.

Connections are made at Toronto with the Grand Trunk—Great Western—Northern—Toronto, Grey and Bruce and Credit Valley Railways.

Leaving Toronto from the Berkeley Street Station, the Road takes its course east to Scarboro' Junction, where it branches off towards the north.

At Scarboro' Junction—connects with Grand Trunk Railway for east and west.

At Stouffville—connects with Lake Simcoe Junction Railway.

At Midland Junction—connects with Midland Railway.

Coboconk, 88 miles from Toronto, is the terminus of the Toronto and Nipissing Railway, and is situated on Gull River.

DAILY STAGE FOR MINDEN.

A commodious steamer, the "Coboconk," runs between Fenelon Falls and Coboconk tri-weekly, connecting with the mail train from and to Toronto, at the latter place, and at Fenelon Falls with Victoria Railway for Kinmount and Haliburton.

The trip from Coboconk to Fenelon Falls, per steamer, is an exceedingly pleasant one, the wild and romantic scenery in all its primitive grandness, which meets the eye on every side, cannot be surpassed in Canada.

The route north of Coboconk extends by way of Gull River to Norland, through Mud Turtle Lake, by Elliot's Falls to Moore's Lake, past Moore's Falls to Gull Lake, and then by river to Minden. All these waters are stocked with every variety of fish. Striking off to the east of Minden, there is Kashagawigamog Lake at the head of which, on the side of a hill, is built, in horse-shoe form, the charming settlement of Haliburton.

Parties preferring the route south of Coboconk can take the Gull River to Balsam Lake, passing through its numerous islands to Rosedale, one of the prettiest spots to be found in all Canada, thence by Balsam River to Cameron Lake, on the edge of which is situated the very pretty and enterprising village of Fenelon Falls, from Cameron Lake by Gull River to Sturgeon Lake, and thus to Lake Scugog, and if desirable to the St. Lawrence via Trenton.

Jackson's Point, the terminus of the Lake Simcoe Junction Railway, is situated on the south shore of Lake Simcoe, and is a charming spot for a summer resort.

Cheap Weekly Excursions.—Return Tickets will be issued to and from all Stations on this road, at one and one-third fare, by afternoon Trains on Fridays, and by all Trains on Saturdays. Good to return on Monday following the date of issue.

Liberal Rates will be quoted for tourists, hunting and fishing parties and for pic-nic and other Excursions to any station on the road.

THE BRITISH AMERICAN BUSINESS COLLEGE,

112 & 114 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

A few reasons why young men should attend the British American Business College in order to learn how to do business successfully :

BECAUSE

ITS Location is in the great metropolis of Ontario, just where a first-class Business College should be.
ITS Course of Instruction is a specialty in each department, and is admirably adapted to the wants of the business community.
ITS Principal and Teachers know how and what they teach. They have the entire confidence of all business men.
ITS Penmanship has been awarded the first prize at the Provincial Fair for many consecutive seasons. For several years past we have not taken the trouble to compete.
ITS Graduates are found to be rapid and reliable Accountants, many of whom are occupying the highest positions of trust.
ITS Scholarships are available during life in Montreal and throughout the United States.
ITS Patronage is ample. Its rates of tuition are as low as possible. No Business College in Canada can offer equal facilities.
THE Bankers and Merchants of every Town in this Province can, from their long acquaintance with the President of the College, verify these statements. STUDENTS ENTER AT ANY TIME.

Send for Circular and Specimens of Penmanship.

READ THIS!

JUST what all horsemen should know and have is a large bottle of KENNEDY'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. A book of 22 pages goes with each bottle that teaches the art of cyphering shorthand; this book also instructs any man how to cure heaves in horses; to remove a wort from a horse; to cure colic without medicine; to physic a horse; to make condition powders; to cure bone spavin, curb, splint, ringbone, sweeny, or to remove a pipe where a running sore is formed and to cure founder; all to be done without the use of the burning irons or knife, and not put the horse out of use, as you can work him every day or turn him out to grass. I will forward it to any address upon receipt of $1.00.

You will only hear one sentiment, and that is, that a bottle of KENNEDY'S LIGHTNING REMEDY is worth a hundred of any other preparation for curing everything.

I can cure any bog spavin or thorough pin on a horse in 5 minutes.

MRS. LOVELL'S
YOUNG LADIES' EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTE,

1283 ST. CATHERINE STREET, FACING PHILLIPS SQUARE,

MONTREAL.

THE CLASSES are formed for Advanced Pupils, the object being to fit Young Ladies for the duties of Life and Society. Towards this end special attention is paid to the

a system having been inaugurated in which Critical Discussions are practiced in LITERATURE, ART and CURRENT EVENTS. These tend to create and maintain within the pupils an intelligent interest in their studies, as well as to cultivate clearness of thought, accuracy and facility of expression.

CONVERSAZIONI

are held at intervals, when Papers on Art, Science and Polite Literature are read. The pupils are thus brought into contact with cultured society, and learn to discuss matters of general interest with intelligence and freedom.

FRENCH AND MUSIC

receive great attention. Daily conversations in the former, and weekly rehearsals in the latter being marked features.

SALT MANUFACTURERS.

DEAN BROTHERS,

17 WATER ST., LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND.

"Factory Filled" Choicest Dairy and Common.

THE unrivalled brand of FACTORY FILLED SALT introduced by us, and bearing the signature of the Firm, is steadily progressing into favor, both in CANADA and the UNITED STATES of AMERICA, on account of its purity and moderate cost. DAIRYMEN who have once used it never purchase any other. Our 224 lbs. SACKS are the BEST and yet the CHEAPEST to the buyer ever shipped from this port,—being made of FLAX. The COLOR is pure white INSIDE as well as OUTSIDE, and does not resemble in the least (being so much SUPERIOR), the old jute sacks, which are white outside but YELLOW inside. The ADVANTAGES gained by buyers of these FINE SACKS are great and numerous for DOMESTIC and HOUSEHOLD purposes: by adding a small quantity of SODA to the water, all the BRAND marks will wash out, leaving a lasting material for SHEETS, TOWELS, PANTS, &c. Our "CHOICEST DAIRY SALT" we can honestly recommend,—it will not, likesome "PUFFED-UP BRANDS," partially do its work, but, being of a highly DRIED nature and of the FINEST CRYSTALS, it permeates the MASS of WHEY, doing its work thoroughly and does NOT SOLIDIFY. To suit customers, we put our FACTORY FILLED SALT up in SACKS weighing 224, 112 and 56 pounds. Our BRAND of COMMON SALT, in best JUTE SACKS and LARGE, PURE WHITE and HARD CRYSTALS, having superior strength for PACKING, PICKLING and AGRICULTURAL purposes is, we fearlessly assert, the BEST ever introduced to the notice of consumers. Large quantities have been shipped by us for FERTILISING purposes, and the result to crops, after use, was astounding.

BEWARE of using CANADIAN SALT—it leaves a SLIMINESS on the meat—thus prejudicing its sale in the ENGLISH MARKET. VIDE REPORT "ONTARIO AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION, Vol. V," APPENDIX M. Also letter from WM. DAVIES & CO., TORONTO, the largest PORK PACKERS in TORONTO.

STOURPORT, WORCESTERSHIRE,

MANUFACTURERS OF THE

IMPROVED TINNED CAST-IRON HOLLOW-WARE

IN ALL ITS BRANCHES;
Also of an Improved enamelled

CAST IRON HOLLOW-WARE.

All Tinned Ware is coated with the purest Tin, and warranted to be without any admixture of lead, or other injurious material.

The Enamel Ware is superior in appearance to ordinary cast ware, and the enamel being thinner in substance allows heat to be more readily communicated to the contents of the vessel. It is also entirely free from Lead, Arsenic, Antimony, or other injurious substance.

SAUCEPAN COVERS, Stamped out of one piece of metal, are now supplied, and may be ordered either Bright-Tinned or Japanned at the same price as the old sort.

SOLE Manufacturers also of the NEW

PATENT MOTTLED ENAMELLED CAST-IRON HOLLOW-WARE,

BALDWIN AND QUINBY'S PATENT.

Is Cheaper than the ordinary White Enamelled Ware.

THE ENAMEL on this Ware introduces quite a new feature into the Cast-Iron Enamelled Trade, being of a totally different appearance, VERY HARD IN SUBSTANCE, and being MUCH THINNER also than other enamel IS LESS LIKELY TO CRACK OR CHIP, as the enamel more readily expands and contracts with the iron.

It has been subjected to examination and analysis by the eminent Assayers, Messrs. JOHNSON, MATTHEY & CO., who report as follows:—

CERTIFICATE OF ASSAY.

"Assay Offices and Ore Floors, Hatton Garden, London, E.C. March 20th, 1879.

"We have examined the sample CAST-IRON ENAMELLED PANS FOR EXAMINATION AND ANALYSIS, marked as under and find the following to be the result:—

"The samples of enamel consist of Silica, Alumina, Soda, and Traces of Oxide of Iron, but are entirely free from Antimony, Lead, Arsenic, Copper, or other deleterious metal, and careful experiments prove that the enamelling upon the pans is of identical composition with the samples separately analysed.

"The enamelled pans have been subjected to the action both of diluted mineral acid and of acetic acid, which they withstand perfectly.

"It is therefore our opinion that as enamelled ware it is thoroughly suitable for culinary purposes. JOHNSON, MATTHEY & CO."

Adopted by them to distinguish the different qualities of their Butts, but, having obtained favor with customers, have been copied by other makers. The name of "BALDWIN" is cast on all their Butts, as well as the quality, number, and the numbers are now registered as their Trade Mark, as

BALDWIN 200	BALDWIN 333	BALDWIN 564
No. 200	No. 333	No. 564

All the above may be procured through any Factor or Ironmonger at Prices same as regular Trade Lists. Illustrated Price Lists may be had on application.

THE LARGEST MANUFACTURERS OF

CAUSTIC SODA,

ALSO MAKERS of CHLORIDE of LIME (BLEACHING POWDER).

TO CONSUMERS OF CAUSTIC SODA.

It having come to the knowledge of the Widnes Alkali Company, Limited, that certain dealers are in the habit of adapting private Brands and affixing the same to packages of Caustic Soda, The Widnes Alkali Company, Limited, think it necessary to warn Consumers of the article and the public generally that no Caustic Soda is genuine of their manufacture unless the drums bear the brand thus :—

And The Widnes Alkali Company, Limited, strongly advise buyers of Caustic Soda to avoid dealers' brands, the same being of no regular make, but obtained from cheapest sources, and frequently job lots. It is therefore manifestly safest and best to buy only the make of The Widnes Alkali Company, Limited, with Name-plates affixed to the drums as above.

ARNPRIOR—A large and prosperous incorporated village on the Madawaska River, near its confluence with the Ottawa, township of McNab, county of Renfrew. Arnprior was laid out 26 years ago by Daniel McLachlin, Esq., the first house being erected in the following year. Now, both in trade and population, it rivals any village in the province; and as the agencies are still at work which have contributed most materially to its prosperity, the brightest hopes may be entertained of its future. The Madawaska affords excellent water power here, and several grist, saw, and woollen mills are erected on its course. A weekly newspaper, The Chronicle, is published here. A large steam saw mill has just been built by McLachlin Bros. near the mouth of this river, on the border of the expanse of the Ottawa, called the Chatt's Lake. The Canadian Pacific railway has a station at this place. Montreal, Dominion and Great Northwestern Telegraph Cos. Lines have an office here, and the Bank of Ottawa has an agency. Distant from Ottawa 40 miles, from Brockville 70 miles, from Montreal 166 miles. Mail twice a day. Population 2,147.

BELLEVILLE—An incorporated city on the Bay of Quinté, township of Thurlow, west riding county of Hastings. It is the county seat, and is beautifully situated; its streets are wide, well laid out, and lit with gas, and it has a number of handsome public buildings, private residences and stores. Front street is the chief business street of the town. On Pinnacle street there are the Court house and Gaol, Bank of Montreal, Merchants Bank of Canada, Grand Junction Railway station and Curling rink, Market and Armory. On Church street, the Gas works, Central school, Shire hall, St Thomas', St Paul's, St Michael's, St Andrew's, Wesleyan and Episcopal methodist churches, and the English, Scotch and Catholic cemeteries, but these are now closed. A new Protestant cemetery, in a beautiful situation on the bay shore, about 3 miles from the city, was opened seven years ago, and burials within the limits of the corporation are now prohibited. On John street, the Presbyterian church and Orange lodge; on Coleman street, the Baptist church; on North Front street, the Bible Christian church; on Bridge street west, St John's church; on Railway Station street, St George's church; on Holloway street, the West Belleville Methodist church; on Bleecker street, the Bleecker Street Methodist church; on Hotel street, the Congregational church; on Bridge street, Montreal, Dominion and Great Northwestern Telegraph Cos. Lines office and Post Office; on Moira street, Christ church; on Front street, the City hall, Police station, Workingmen's Temperance hall, Masonic hall, Customs and Inland Revenue offices, Mechanics' Institute, Bank of Commerce and Dominion bank; on Campbell street, the Weights and Measures office. At the head of West Front street, above the railway track, is Albert University, an institution under the control of the Episcopal methodists. This university was opened in 1857, and has since been in most successful operation. The ladies' department of this institution has been named the Alexandra college. There are also seven public schools, several private schools, Roman Catholic boys and girls schools, the latter taught by the ladies of Loretto, and a High school in the city. About a mile west of the city is the institute for the deaf and dumb, a handsome building erected by the Ontario Government, and opened in 1870. The manufacturing interests of Belleville are extensive. The River Moira, which passes through the city, furnishes very fair water privileges. On its banks are erected several large manufactories, among others two woollen factories, three grist mills, four sash, door and blind factories, a cheese box factory, two chair and cabinet factories, an axe factory—the largest in Canada, two saw mills, etc. In the River Trent the city possesses one of the finest water-powers to be found in the Dominion. The lumber trade has been the chief cause of Belleville's prosperity, but it has fallen away considerably of late years. Besides the above the place boasts of other manufactures of various kinds, such as four foundries, a large furniture factory, two broom factories, two pump manufactories, a pottery, a soap and candle factory, two breweries, a distillery, and the sewing machine manufactory of Mr. James Barrett. Ship and yacht building is also carried on. Two daily and two weekly newspapers are issued in Belleville. The Grand Trunk railway, which passes the back of the city, has a fine station, and two locomotive shops; over 200 men are employed by the Company here. The Grand Junction railway, which is operated by the Midland Railway Co., has now been in operation about two years, affords direct communication with Peterborough, and by a branch with Madoc, from the extensive iron mines near which place much iron ore is forwarded for shipment to United States ports. During season of navigation, steamers leave here daily for Kingston and bay ports, and weekly for Montreal. It is probable that Belleville will soon be on the line of the through steamers, as the Government have undertaken the construction of the Murray Canal—a cut through the narrow isthmus at the head of the Bay of Quinté, which will place the city on the line of lake navigation, and greatly facilitate the trade of the whole Bay of Quinté district. The Government will also shortly commence the erection of a public building in the city, in which will be located the Customs, Inland Revenue, Weights and Measures and Post Offices. This structure will be located on the south-west corner of Bridge and Pinnacle streets, where the site has already been secured. There are two daily steam ferries between Belleville and the county of Prince Edward, and two trains daily to the Madoc gold district and two to Peterborough. Stages run to Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Frankford, Ameliasburg, and to Picton during the winter and early spring. Distant from Picton 35 miles, from Madoc 26 miles, from Kingston 48 miles, from Toronto 113 miles, from Montreal 220 miles. Population about 10,000.

BERLIN—The chief town and county seat in the county of Waterloo. Located in the heart of a thickly-settled and fine agricultural part of Ontario, and possessing many large mills and factories, it has become a very important inland manufacturing town. The button factory interest is very large, as nearly all the best buttons used in the Dominion are manufactured here, this industry alone gives employment to nearly 500 people. Berlin is a station of the Grand Trunk railway, at which all trains stop. Montreal, Dominion and Great Northwestern Telegraph Cos. Lines have an office here. It has two bank agencies and a daily newspaper, the News, and three weekly newspapers, Journal, News and Telegraph. It contains 12 churches, 1 college and several schools, 4 button factories and 2 breweries. The extensive tannery of Messrs. Louis Breithaupt & Co. of this town deserves particular mention. The sole leather, harness leather, upper and kips made here, have a wide and favorable reputation. The tannery itself is the largest in the province and probably the largest in the Dominion. Berlin has a large grain and produce trade. Distant from Guelph 15 miles, from Hamilton 33 miles, from Toronto 62½ miles. Mail daily. Population about 4,500.

BOWMANVILLE—An incorporated town and port of entry in Durham county. The first village lots were laid out in 1832, when there were but two or three houses in Bowmanville. In 1850, the population being just over 1000, the place was incorporated as a village. Since that period it has increased and prospered rapidly in a manner unequalled even in Canada; and it owes much of its present importance to the hon. J. Simpson, formerly of the firm of Bowman & Co. The town has excellent water-power within and around it, as well as a capital wharf, and a first rate harbor on Lake Ontario, 2½ miles distant, known as Port Darlington. Bowmanville contains an agency of the Ontario bank, a Mechanics' institute and library, and customs' office; also 9 churches, Church of England, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregational, Bible, Christian and Disciples of Christ. The daily line of steamers between Hamilton and Montreal call regularly at this place; it is a station of the Grand Trunk railway. Montreal, Dominion and Great Northwestern Telegraph Cos. Lines and Canadian Express Co. have offices here. The Canadian Statesman, the Observer, the Sunday School Ensign and the West Durham News are published here. Distant from Port Hope 21 miles, from Cobourg 28 miles, from Toronto 42 miles, from Montreal 291 miles. Mail daily. Population about 4,100.

BRAMLEY—From 1868 to 1878 was a flourishing little village, with at one time 3 stores and 2 hotels, and doing a grain business of two hundred and fifty thousand or three hundred thousand dollars a year. But in 1878 the station was removed to Craigvale, a distance of one mile nearer Barrie, to compete for a share of the H. & N. W. R. R. trade, and with the station, the Telegraph office Express office, as well as the trade and business of the place. The Post Office is all that remains now, and situated as it is, in the centre of one of the best agricultural districts in the Dominion, the office is not only a convenience, but a good paying institution.

BRAMPTON—An incorporated town in the township of Chinguacousy, county of Peel. It is the county town, and has a large retail country trade, with a considerable export of flour. It is also an important market for wheat, large quantities being purchased for the supply of the adjacent mills, as well as for export. A system of waterworks, upon the gravitation principle, costing about $6,000, is now being completed in the town. The water is conveyed in iron pipes (12 in. main) from a lake 36 acres in extent, and 4½ miles from the town, at an elevation of 126 feet. Montreal, Dominion and Great Northwestern Telegraph Cos. Lines have an office here and there are stations of the Grand Trunk and Credit Valley railways, at which all trains stop. Three weekly newspapers are published here, the Times, Peel Banner and the Conservator, and there are agencies of the Dominion Bank and Merchants Bank of Canada. Distant from Toronto 21 miles. Mail daily. Population 3,120.

BRANTFORD—A city of Ontario, capital of the county of Brant, admirably situated on a high ridge skirting the north bank of Grand River, which is navigable to within 2½ miles of the town, for which distance a canal has been opened, affording uninterrupted water communication with Lake Erie. It derives its name from Brant, the celebrated Indian chief. In 1830 the Indians surrendered the town plot to the Government, and since then it has rapidly increased in population and prosperity. It is the most important station on the Buffalo and Goderich section of the Grand Trunk railway, and the chief station of the Brantford, Norfolk and Port Burwell railway, and is celebrated for its flour, grain, steam engines, stoneware, lumber, stoves, agricultural implements, etc., etc. The court house, registry and county offices are neat stone buildings, erected at a cost of $40,000. The market is a substantial and solid edifice. The churches are unequalled for beauty of design and neatness of finish. The manufacturing establishments are numerous and extensive. The celebrated Waterous Engine works, Kerby Reaper works and the Victoria foundry give employment to a large number of men. The Ontario Institution for the education of the blind occupies a prominent site just without the limits of the city. The buildings erected by the Grand Trunk are on a very extensive scale, occupying 11 acres. They consist of a repair shop, engine house and round house, built of white brick. The city is justly celebrated for its public buildings, which are chiefly built of white brick. Brantford is well lighted with gas. Kerby House, the principal hotel in Brantford, originally built at a cost of $180,000, and purchased by Mr. J. C. Palmer, one of the most popular hotel proprietors in the Dominion, has been improved, refitted and appointed with every modern convenience. A drive of a mile through the principal streets of the city takes visitors to Oakwood Villa and White Sulphur springs, also recently purchased by Mr. Palmer, where baths have been fitted up for the accommodation of guests stopping at the House. The water is pronounced by leading physicians to be one of the best healing remedies for rheumatism and other long standing diseases which so commonly prevail. Hot and cold sulphur baths are given daily through the season with private apartments for ladies. To accommodate guests of the Kerby the carriage makes regular trips to and from the springs several times each day, and whether desiring baths or not, one enjoys a charming drive free of expense. Board ranges in price from $6 to $10 per week according to location and site of rooms. As a summer resort Brantford offers inducements and attractions for the tourist and invalid not found elsewhere in Canada. For drives and scenery the town and immediate surrounding country are rarely equalled on the continent. There are eleven magnificent drives, along which the scenery of river, hills, woods and valleys is unsurpassed. The city is so centrally located on the Great Western and Grand Trunk railways, that either Buffalo, Niagara Falls or Toronto can be reached in about two hours. Montreal, Dominion and Great Northwestern Telegraph Cos. Lines have an office here, and there are agencies of the Bank of Montreal, Bank of British North America and Canadian Bank of Commerce. Three daily and weekly newspapers are published, viz.: The
